Five Prep Teams Wage War For Fourth

The little ole cliche-maker probably had Marin County Athletic League basketball in mind when he said "two's company, three's a crowd" — and he might have added that four is confusion and five is enough to drive everybody berserk.

Five teams are congested within two games of each other in a chaotic battle for fourth place which, while not terribly significant, is quite intriguing. That margin could be reduced to one game if last-place San Marin (3-9) defeats third-place Drake (5-7) in their meeting tomorrow at 7 p.m. at Drake.

In other action tomorrow, the three squads tied for fifth at 4-8 all take on foes who sit pgher in the standings. Marin Catholic hosts second-place Redwood at 4 p.m., Novato entertains league champion Tamalpais at 4 p.m., and Terra Linds visits third-place San Rafael at 7 p.m.

This tempest in a teapot will provide good training for Drake, Novato, Terra Linda and San Marin, all of whom are laden with underclassmn who can benefit from any kind of pressure experience.

Drake must be given the favorite's nod. The Pirates not only have the best record of the group now, but are in complete control of their destiny with two games left against San Marin and Novato.

Marin Catholic, Novato and Terra Linda all one game left with either Tam or Redwood, the league leaders. Tam and Redwood are a combined 17-0 against the bottom five teams, so prospects of an upset look bleak.

Marin Catholic may have an advantage also — the Wildcats actually may have three games remaining instead of two.marin Catholic protested its 68-63 overtime loss to San Marin Jan. 28, and if the protest is allowed, the game could be replayed from the spot of the controversy. This would give the 'Cats a good chance for a victory.

Novato, Marin Catholic and San Marin currently have the hot hands. Novato has won two of its last three,)arin Catholic three of five, San Marin three of six. Conversely, Terra Linda has lost five of six and Drake has lost four of five.

Results of games already played among the five teams provide few clues. For example, Marin Catholic beat Novato twice, Novato beat San Marin twice, San Marin beat Marin Catholic. Or, Novato beat Terra Linda twice, Terra Linda beat San Rafael, San Rafael beat Novato twice. Not to mention the fact that Drake beat San Marin, San Marin recently beat San Rafael, and San Rafael beat Drake twice . . . and so on. You figure it out.

MARIN TARS SMASH RUGGED DE ANZA

One down and two to go for College of Marin's Tar basketballers in the hectic Camino Norte Conference showdown.

Winding up the regular league season with road games against three of the stronger loop teams, Marin started its final drive with a 73-64 triumph over De Anza Junior College in Cupertino Saturday night.

Marin remains tied with Contra Costa College — 65-51 winner over Canada College of Redwood City Saturday — for the CNC lead, each team with an 11-1 record. The Tars, No. 2 ranked team in the state behind Fullerton, finish the schedule this week against West Valley at Campbell Wednesday and Skyline at San Bruno Saturday.

"Let's just call it very physical," Marin coach John Panagakis said about Saturday night's rough and tumble game in Cupertino. DeAnza was called for 35 fouls, sending the Tars to the free throw line 45 times. Marin converted 37 of the free chances.

Almost every time Marin guard Joe Smith went up for his left-handed jump shot he was whacked by one of the DeAnza defenders. Joe said thanks, went to the free throw line 20 times and cashed in on 17 of the shots. Smith, who already holds the all-time Marin scoring record, ended up with 27 points. His two-year College of Marin total is now 1,112 points.

Center Roosevelt Green scored 16 points and pulled down 14 rebounds and forward Joe Casteel added 15 points. On defense, Marin guards Charlie Flynn and Ron Small held DeAnza's top scorer Dave Blasquez to 10 points, four points under his league average.

Despite committing 21 turnovers, Marin led throughout the game, holding a 36-24 halftime edge and stretching it as much as 18 points in the second half. Marin forward Ed Herrnberger suffered a slight sprain in his right ankle, but is expected to e ready for Wednesday night's game in Campbell.

Wrestler Hughes In Newark Win

San Rafael High School wrestler Dave Hughes stretched his undefeated record to 28-0 Saturday when he won the 148-pound title at the North Coast Section Division I meet at Newark High School.

Hughes was the lone Marin County Athletic League first place winner at the meet, but 12 other MCAL wrestlers qualified for next Saturday's North Coast Section finals, the league's best showing at a divisional wrestling meet. The top six winners in each weight class qualified for the sectional meet at Mount Diablo High School in Concord.

Although suffering a twisted right knee in his final match against Arroy High School's Bard Johnson, Hughes, a senior, still won a 5-1 decision.

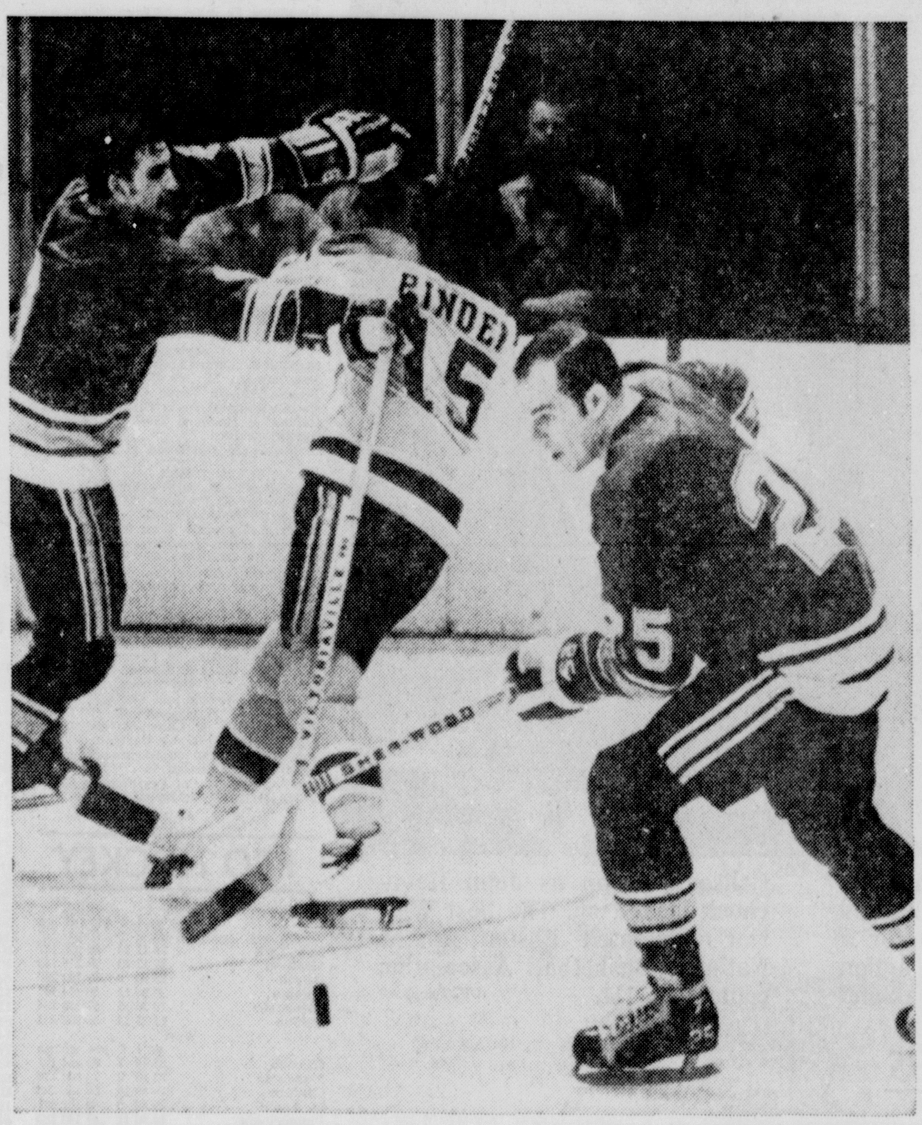
Terra Linda High School's Brian Jordan, in the 168-pound division, suffered his first defeat of the season, a narrow 7-6 decision to Chris Anaya of San Lorenzo High in the finals. Another second place winner for Marin County was Novato High's Dave Hutton in the 130-pound division. He lost to Ron Flores of James Logan High of Union City, Alameda County.

It was a long day of wrestling for the preps who started the weigh-ins at 7 a.m. Ulctua wrestling went more than 12 hours, starting at 10:45 a.m. and running until after 11 p.m.

The 13 Marin County Athletic League qualifiers for the North Coast Section finals:

98 — Kurt Belter, Novato, 6th
115 — Mike Weinstein, Terra Linda, 3rd.
123 — Alan Brazel, Novato, 3rd.
130 — Dave Hutton, Novato, 2nd; Jerry Ford, Tamalpais, 4th.
148 — Dave Hughes, San Rafael, 4th.
168 — Brian Jordan, Terra Linda, 2nd.
178 — Craig Marshall, Tamalpais, 5th; Bob Spain, Terra Linda, 6th.
194 — Ellard Roush, Redwood, 3rd; Lynn Carson, San Marin, 4th.
Heavyweight — Pete Mumma, San Marin, 3rd.

Seals, St. Louis Skate To Standoff



BRUISING BLUES — St. Louis defender Barclay Plager (8) checked California Seals' Gerry Pinder (15), while the Blues' Larry Hornung (25) swept away the puck during the second period Sunday in National Hockey League action at the Oakland nColiseum-Arena. The Seals and Blues skated to a 4-4 tie.

Gary Sabourin's Shot Aids Blues' Comeback

By DAVID DIETZ

OAKLAND — The battle for third place in the West Division of the National Hockey League waits yet another day.

The California Golden Seals, currently holding third place, and the St. Louis Blues, only a point behind, tried for 60 minutes yesterday, but couldn't settle the issue. The game, a wild affair in which the Seals wasted a Carol Vadnais hat trick, ended in a 4-4 tie.

It was the third deadlock in a row for the Seals, who ended the day with 50 points. St. Louis, which has been creeping up on California for more than a month, has 49 points.

Vadnais, a defenseman and team captain, may have been the hometown hero, but for St. Louis it was blond winger Gary Sabourin, whose long blast at the opening of the third period knotted the game for the third and last time.

The 70-foot shot, taken more out of desperation than anything else, startled Seals' goalie Gilles Meloche. "It started to go up then it started to fall," said the 20-year-old rookie. Melache tried to snare the drive but it only nicked his glove and sailed into the net.

Oddly, Seals' coach Vic Stasiuk said later, Sabourin's tally was similar to a crucial tally the Blues scored against Meloche in St. Louis earlier this year.

The goat's role is an unaccustomed one for Meloche, who is the major reason the youthful Seals have been able to hold third place much of the season. Moreover, his teammates wouldn't fault him yesterday.

"We can't blame him," said Vadnais. "He's given us enough points this year."

The Seals started well, surging to a 2-0 lead within six minutes on Gerry Pinder's 21st of the season and Vadnais's first of the game. Carol, newly installed as a wing on the power play, poked a rebound past Blues' goalie Jacques Caron.

From then until the middle of the second period, however, it was all Blues. They scored three times as the Seals apparently sat back to try to protect their lead.

"We have those stretches that make you wonder," Stasiuk said.

Two straight Vadnais tallies, including another on a power play, pushed the Seals back into the lead by the end of the second, but only to set the stage for Sabourin's dipsy-doodle shot.

The game, played before an afternoon crowd of 9,211 at the Coliseum Arena, was a rough one. Several skirmishes broke out on the ice, and Seals' center Walt McKechine couldn't finish the game because of a leg injury later determined to be minor.

California next meets the Blues in Oakland March 17, but Philadelphia and 5ittsburgh aren't far behind in the standings, either.

Score by periods:

PALACIO WINS IN S.F. GOLF

Mat Palacio Jr. of San Rafael, former California State amateur golfing champion of the 30's advanced in the San Francisco City Golf tournament yesterday with a 6-5 victory over Craig Smith.

The annual S.F. tournament is being played at Harding Park and the original field of 64 in the championship flight was trimmed to 16. The 56-year-old Palacio, as is his custom, was attired in knickers.

New Orleans Sets Home Grid Opener

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—The New Orleans Saints announced Sunday their first 1972 home appearance will be a preseason game with the Buffalo Bills on Aug. 12.

Louisiana Lions Clubs will receive a portion of the proceeds for their efforts on behalf of crippled and handicapped children.

AT PHOENIX

Blancas Takes Golf Playoff

PHOENIX (UPI) —The play of Texan Homero Blancas in the Phoenix Open golf tournament ranged from brilliant to sub-par, including on the first playoff hole when he claimed the $25,000 first prize Sunday.

After what he termed a "horrible second shot," Blancas reached the green with a wedge over a tree and sank a four-foot birdie putt to defeat youthful Lanny Wadkins.

Blancas had tied the Phoenix Country Club course record of 61 in Friday's second round to claim a share of the lead which he relinquished only briefly in Sunday's round. On Saturday, the Houston resident ballooned to a two-over par 73 and allowed England's Tony Jacklin to tie him after 54-holes at nine-under-par 204.

"I've been having trouble with my woods the last two years," Blancas said. "I used a wood on that horrible second shot that got me into the trees."

Wadkins' second shot was almost identical to the one by Blancas, but his wedge shot to the green was 14 feet past the pin, and his birdie attempt coming back was a foot short.

Runnerup in the Bob Hope Desert Classic, playing in his 12th tournament after leaving Wake Forest and turning pro only last spring, Wadkins admitted indirectly he may have felt the pressure.

"It was my first playoff," he said, but promised, "I'll be back." He said he had a bad second shot on the extra hole and the third was just too long.

Both Wadkins and Blancas had two-putted the 18th green in regulation play to force the sudden death playoff. Blancas had a final round of 69, and Wadkins, two strokes off the pace after 54-holes, shot a 65. They tied at 11-under 273 for 72 holes.

Veteran Marty Fleckman, the only entry with four sub-70 rounds, won third-place money of $8,850, finishing 69-68-69-68—274.

Jacklin, one-stroke ahead of Blancas making the turn Sunday, lost his chance when he took a double-bogey six on the par-4, 11th hole. His first two shots were in the trees and his third in a sand trap before he two-putted.

Paul Moran, a 10-year pro but in only his second year on the tour, made a run at the leaders, then was knocked out of contention when he got in the water on the par-3 15th and took a triple bogey. He finished in a four-way tie at 276 with Jacklin, Jim Wiechers and three-time Phoenix winner Gene Littler.

At 277 were Hubert Green and Hal Underwood.

The bigger names—Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus and Lee Trevino — bypassed Phoenix, and the favorites had their troubles. Billy Casper failed to break par until the final round and was far back at 286.

Napa's Ron Cerrudo took home $433 for his 283 total.

Bob Rosburg, the leading money winner of 1972 entering the tourney, had 283 and George Archer, the second biggest money winner who won the Trans-Mississippi as an amateur on the same course eight years ago, had 284.

ALL-STARS

East Tips West In Basketball

Getting even for last Wednesday's 125-121 loss to the West, the East Army all-star basketball team outscored the West, 108-96 Saturday night before about 450 spectators in the San Marin High School gymnasium.

The game was a benefit contest for the Novato Boys Club, and also served as a final look for coach Hal Fischer who cut the Army team from 25 to 15 players.

Leading the East scoring were former Lake County College (Illinois) player Vernon Martin with 23 points and ex-Union College (Kentucky) player Paul Andrews with 20. High man for the West was former Colorado forward Mike Coleman, 15 points.

The East ran up a 56-47 halftime score and carried the lead throughout the second half.

After the game Fischer, former Corte Madera resident now residing in Santa Rosa, pared the team to 15. He will be taking 12 players and three alternates into the All-Army tournament and national Amateur Athletic Union tournament later.

Named to the Army team's roster were:

Eugene Farmer, Kansas State; Don Griffin, Stanford; Don Crenshaw, University of Southern California; Coleman; Jere Shockey, Louisian Sate University; Dennis Black, University of San Francisco; Martin; Austin Burton, Dallas Baptist College; John DeVasto, St. John's; Jim Oxley, West Point; Mike Krzyzewski, West Point; Tom Daley, Penn State; Don Williams, Winston-Salem; Don Davidson, Davidson College, and Andrews.

Scoring from Saturday's game:

East — Oxley 0-4-4; Daley 4-0-8, Andrews 8-4-20, Williams 4-5-13, Davidson 6-4-16, DeVasto 2-0-4, Clevenger 3-2-8, Dinwiddie 2-0-4, Simmons 3-2-8, Martin 11-1-23. Totals: 43-22-108.

West — Farmer 3-1-7, Washington, 2-2-6, Crenshaw 6-2-14, Coleman 7-1-15, Black 4-4-12, Simpson 2-0-4, Griffin 6-0-12, Shockey 2-0-4, Sloan 5-2-12, Burton 1-0-2, Dickens 1-0-2, Rauche 3-0-6. Totals: 42-12-96.

Total fouls: East 21, West 26.

CAMP OPENS

Giants' Dietz Glad; Juan Sad

CASA GRANDE, Ariz. (UPI) —Money is holding up Juan Marichal while snow is delaying Dick Dietz.

Otherwise, nearly all of the San Francisco Giants were on hand for the opening of battery workouts over the weekend in the warm desert sun.

Pitchers Jzgry Johnson and Jim Willoughby, in addition to Marichal and Dietz, are the only players not in camp who should be. Both are having contract disputes.

A pleasant surprise has been the pitching of former Cy Young Award winner Mike McCormick, a former Giant who is trying a comeback as a free agent.

"Mike just might be the sleeper of spring training for us," said owner Horace Stoneham after watching the lefthander throw for two days.

Marichal was believed to be en route to camp from his home in the Dominican Republic. Dietz is stuck in a snow storm somewhere between his home in South Carolina and Arizona.

Marichal is seeking a raise in his $130,000 contract of last year while Dietz has already agreed to terms but his signature is lacking on the contract.

Infielder Chris Speier is in camp working with batting instructor Hank Sauer on how to be a switch hitter.

Lefthander Sam McDowell was in camp along with 42-year- old Don Mc-Mahon. McMahon was throwing the hardest of anyone and he explained that was because he threw a baseball every week during the winter.

Vida, Boss Far Apart Over Pact

OAKLAND (UPI) —Most Oakland Athletics everywhere are packing today before heading for Mesa, Ariz., and the start of eight months of playing baseball.

Among those still with empty suitcases are Vida Blue, Sal Bando and Reggie Jackson. The unhappy pitchers include Diego Segui, Rollie Fingers and Darold Knowles.

"I don't expect much trouble signing any of the boys with the exception of Vida," said owner Charles O. Finley Sunday.

"Right now my only contact with Vida is through his attorney. As far as I can see, I won't be getting together with Vida personally in the near future."

Blue, a lefthanded pitcher who had 24-8 record last season and was the Cy Young Award winner nd Most Valuable Player in the American League, is seeking $85,000 this season. Last year he got $14,-750.

Finley had been reported firm on a final offer of $50,000 to Blue. When asked Sunday whether there's any chance he might relent and go a bit higher, Finley merely smiled.

Second baseman Dick Green and outfielder Joe Rudi are two other starters who have not yet agreed to a new contract.

The A's, defending AL Western Division champions, open spring training Wednesday at Mesa.

Marin's Dennis Bueler Hurls A No-Hitter, 3-0

Too bad College of Marin doesn't have three Dennis Buelers.

The ace right-hander pitched a no-hit, no-run seven-inning 3-0 victory over Skyline Junior College of San Bruno Saturday in the Chabot College Invitational Tournament in the East Bay.

But sandwiched around the nifty pitching performance were a pair of losses to San Joaquin Delta College of Stockton, 8-4 Friday and 10-2 Saturday.

Bueler, Marin's ace pitcher last season, struck out five and issued only two walks in his victory. The Tars committed only two errors behind him.

But the Marin defense was something else in the two games against Delta in the double-elimination tourney. Marin committed six errors and the pitching staff gave up 13 walks in the first game, and in the second meeting Marin had five errors and the hurling staff gave up six walks.

Warriors Relax After Win

Boston '5' Decisioned In Oakland

OAKLAND (UPI) —While the Golden State Warriors were relaxing from a comeback victory over the Boston Celtics, the Seattle SuperSonics went one-up on the see-saw.

Now the Warriors face the unpleasant task of meeting the Sonics and their newest acquisition, Jim McDaniels, Tuesday night at the Oakland ColiseumArena.

McDaniels didn't contribute much as Seattle edged Portland 109-105 Sunday night to take a half-game lead over Golden State in the battle for the second and final playoff spot in the NBA's Pacific Division.

The tall rookie plucked from Carolina of the ABA saw 90 seconds of action against the Trail Blazers and got off one hook shot that missed in his NBA debut. ,aturally, the Warriors hope McDaniels' shooting average continues at that pace.

Golden State got 28 points from Jeff Mullins, 27 from Nate Thurmond and 20 from Cazzie Russell Saturday night to down the Celtics 115-111. The Warriors trailed 86-84 entering the final period before outscoring Boston 31-25.

Russell asked coach Al Attles to insert him in the game in the second half after deciding his back didn't hurt enough to keep him out. Russell responded with 19 of his 20 points in the final two periods.

"I felt I ought to play if I could," said Russell. "At halftime, I had our trainer work on my back and he got it to pop.

"You have to play with a little pain."

Third World Skate Title Acquired By Ard Schenk

OSLO (UPI)—Ard Schenk of The Netherlands, the first speedskater in 60 years to win all four distances enroute to a world championship, has a few more worlds to conquer —but not in the immediate future.

The 28-year old Schenk, winner of three gold medals at the Winter Olympic earlier this month, completed his fourevent sweep while annexing his third straight world title Sunday when he won the 1,500 meters in 2:03.06 and the 10,000 meters in 15:22.09. Oscar Mathiesen was the only other speedskater to win all four distances, accomplishing the feat in 1912.

Schenk said he wll go to Sweden for next weekend's world sprint championships in Eskilstuna but said he didn't expect to win another title there. He said Erhard Keller of West Germany and Valery Muratov were his personal favorites in Eskilstuna.

"I intend to continue with speed skating another three or four years," said Schenk after winning the world title again Sunday. "I am hoping that I can defend my three Olympic gold medals in Denver, Colo., in 1976. I would still like to go on like this."

Schenk said his victory in the 1,500 meters was the key because it meant that he had clinched the world title and "then I could skate a bit more relaxed in the final 10,000 meters."

"The track was not as good Sunday as it was Saturday," he said. "But it was still better than the circuit in Sapporo."

Schenk finished the world championship competition with 171.549 points. Roar Groenvold of Norway was second with 174.305 points and Jan Bols of The Netherlands was third with 174.493.

OVER CHICAGO

Boston Displays Mastery

If the Boston Bruins and the Chicago Black Hawks are destined for the Stanley Cup finals, the Bruins seem to have the edge.

Home ice is all important in hockey and the Black Hawks have suffered only two losses all year at home in 31 games. But both losses have come at the hands of Boston.

The Bruins, who beat the Black Hawks in Chicago on Dec. 29, did it again Sunday in a nationally televised contest 31 as Phil Esposito scored his 50th and 51st goals of the season.

The game between the two division leaders could have been a preview of the Stanley Cup finals if both teams survive their two earlier round tests.

Esposito, shooting against his brother Tony in the Chicago net, scored the deciding goal in the second period when he tapped the puck in from the goal crease after his brother Tony sprawled on the ice to make a late save on a shot by Don Awrey.

Wayne Cashman collected an insurance Boston goal at 17:06 of the third period and Esposito got an assist to boost his point total to 103 for the season.

Jean Ratelle, becoming the first New York player ever to scoreq score points in a single season, boosted his point total to 102 with two goals and an assist as New York edged Detroit 4-3. In other games, Minnesota blanked Pittsburgh 2-0, California tied St. Louis 4-4, Montreal blanked Buffalo 4-0 and Philadelphia topped Toronto 3-1.

Frank Mahovlich scored two goals and Ken Dryden registered his sixth shutout of the season as Montreal easily downed the Buffalo Sabres. Montreal wrapped up the game with three goas in the first period and Dryden protected the lead the rest of the way.

SEATTLE TRIUMPHS

McDaniels In NBA Debut

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

Jim McDaniels made it official Sunday night.

The 7-foot rookie from western Kentucky completed the jump from the American Basketball Association to the national when he played for Seattle in the Supersonics' 109-105 victory over the Portland TrailBlazers.

McDaniels, who jumped from the Carolina Cougars of the American Basketball Association last week after a contract dispute and signed with the Sonics, who had drafted him on the second round last season, was inserted in the game with 1:30 left to play. He took one shot, a short hook, and missed but completed the move which may precipitate player raids in both leagues by simply appearing in the game.

Carolina already has launched a lawsuit to regain McDaniels' services after signing him to a multi-year, million dollar contract. Seattle, which pulled off one of the biggest coups in the pro basketball war by securing Spencer Haywood from the Denver Rockets two seasons ago, says it intends to keep McDaniels.

Player-Coach Lenny Wilkens and Dick Snyder combined for 53 points to boost the Sonics over Portland. Snyder had 28 points, Wilkens 25 and Haywood added 24. Sidney Wicks was high man for the Blazers with 24.

It's A Zero Day In Marin Hockey

It was truly a zero day for the Marin County teams in the Northern California Junior Hockey Asssociation.

All four Marin teams were held scoreless yesterday, with the PeeWees, who have already clinched their division title, coming out of things with a 0-0 tie against Berkeley. Ken Conroy was Marin's goalie who recorded the shutout.

In the other games, The Marin Mites lost to Belmont, 3-0, the Marin Squirts lost to EastRidge, 4-0, and the Marin Bantams lost to San Francisco, 5-0.

Sonoma Throttles 49er Cagers

Even before the last starry-eyed kid went home clutching his pencil and autograph book, the basketball game between the Sonoma County All-Stars and the San Francisco 49ers at Sonoma State college Saturday night was a success.

The All-Stars beat the 49ers, 94-63 and much to the delight of the estimated crowd of 800. Some $600 was raised for the financially needy Sonoma State college athletic department.

The 49ers got off to an early lead on the outside shooting of Skip Vanderbundt and Bruce Taylor, and took a 39-37 halftime lead. But then the All-Stars ran on the 49ers at the start of the second half to take over the lead and build up a 31 point margin of victory.

Runer Bruce Taylor led all scorers with 19 points and Lynn Livie collected 18 for the All-Stars. Livie was held scoreless in the first half, but hit nine for ten from the field in the second half. Dick Romberg and Ramon Soloman got 17 apiece for the victors.

Sonoma Beaten By Stanislaus

Sonoma State College started off its 1972 baseball season on a sour note Saturday, losing both ends of an afternoon doubleheader with visiting independent Stanislaus State College, 8-1 and 4-3.

The Cossacks will seek their first victory Wednesday, traveling to Berkeley to meet the University of California Bears in a non-conference game at 2:30 p.m.

In the opener of the doubleheader, Stanislaus tied the game at 1-1 in the fourth inning and then rocked losing pitcher Mark Newsom for five runs in the fifth and two in the sixth before Cossack Coach Bill Trumbo brought in Gary Neville to cool down the Warriors' hot bats. The Cossacks committed seven errors in the game.

The second game went down to the wire, with Stanislaus taking a 4-3 lead in the seventh on an unearned run and holding on for the twinbill sweep in the seventh, right-handed relief pitcher Mike Gogan surrendered a double, advanced the runner to third on a wild pitch and then lost the ball-game on an easy grounder that went through the second baseman's legs.

Sonoma State caught up with Stanislaus in the second game 3-3 on Ron Petroni's triple, which scored one run, and Gordon MacLachlan's single which drove in Petroni with the second run of the inning. Mac Lachlan, a transfer from Canada Junior College of Redwood City, went three for four in the game.

Robinson, Wills Become Highest Paid Dodger Pair

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

LOS ANGELES — Within the space of one hour Sunday, Frank Robinson and Maury Wills became the highest paid pair of players in the history of the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Sandy Koufax and Don Drysdale became the highest paid Dodgers in 1966 when the left-hander, who was recently named to the Hall of Fame, received $125,000 and Drysdale got $105,000 — a total of $230,000.

But those figures were surpassed when Dodger Vice President Al Campanis reached terms with Robinson for an estimated $145,000 and signed Wills for a reported $100,000, a combined total $15,000 higher than the Koufax-Drysdale figure.

Auto Racing

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — A.J. Foyt Sunday won the Daytona 500 auto race.

The racing millionaire breezed by his rivals and was unimpeded over the final 300 miles.

Bowling

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. — Houston's Butch Gearhard is $10,000 richer today after claiming the championship of the Winston-Salem Bowling Classic.

Gearhart had an easy time over national television Saturday as he disposed of faltering Roy Buckley of Columbus, Ohio, 216-169 in the professional bowlers' tournament.

Horse Racing

ALBANY — Golden Gate Fields, remodeled to the tune of $3.5 million, opens its gates tomorrow for an 85-day season of throughbred horse racing.

Included in the refurbishing is installation of Northern California's first all-turf track, stretching nine-tenths of a mile just inside the mile-long dirt strip.

Tennis

TORONTO — Slick-stroking southpaw Rod Laver scored his third consecutive victory in singles competition and finished a close second in doubles yesterday to earn $10,400 in the finals of the $50,000 World Championship Tennis Tournament played at the Toronto Coliseum.

Laver, a native of Australia who now resides in Corona Del Mar, took les than an hour in polishing off 37-year-old Ken Rosewall, 6-1, 6-4, to run his season's earnings to $30,900 while becoming the first WCT pro to win three tournaments in a row.

SALISBURY, Md. — Foiling his opponent's strategy repeatedly Stan Smith of Pasadena, yesterday won the $9,000 top prize in the third United States' Men's Indoor Open Tennis Championships.

In turning back Romania's Ilie Nastase, 5-7, 6-2, 6-3, 6-4, Smith chalked up his first win of the current season.

Nastase, whose tactics all week had been to run his opponent around the base line and wear him down with sharply angled volleys, never managed to get his game going against the 6-4 U.S. Army Specialist, top-seeded American Player.

San Francisco Tops Sonoma Cossack '5'

By PAUL DWORIN

The Sonoma State College Cossacks have two more chances to win their first Far Western Conference basketball game this season: slim and none.

Thursday at 8 p.m., the Cossacks host the University of California of Davis which is sixth in the FWC with a 3-6 record, but holds the only conference victory against league-leading San Francisco State. Chico State College comes in to the Sonoma State gym on Friday at 8 p.m. with a 5-4 conference record and a victory over the Cossacks earlier this season.

Saturday night in San Francisco, the Cossacks reduced their chances to just two as they fell to FWC powerhouse San Francisco State, 99-67. The victory was San Francisco State's second of the season over Sonoma State. The loss dropped Sonoma State further into last place with an 0-10 league mark.

Hurting from the loss of leading scorer and rebounder Larry Austin, who quit the team earlier in the week, and starting forward Henry Crawford, out with a leg injury, the Cossacks, nonetheless, played good ball for the first 15 minutes of the game, holding San Francisco state to a five-point lead. Then the Cossacks fell apart and the Gators built a 23 point half-time lead, 54-31.

Sonoma State	31 36 - 67

TOMORROW

Petaluma Quintet In Crucial

After 11 North Bay League basektball contests and 24 games overall this year, it all comes down to tomorrow night at 7:15 p.m. for Petaluma High School.

The Trojans must beat the visiting Santa Rosa High School Panthers to clinch a tie for first place with Vallejo High School in the NBL. If Petaluma beats Santa Rosa, and Vallejo beats Napa High School tomorrow and Hogan High School of Vallejo on Friday, both schools would have 10-2 league records.

In other Southern Sonoma County action tomorrow night, Rancho Cotati High of Rohnert Park host Sonoma County League leader Cardinal Newman High School of Santa Rosa in an SCL game at 7:15 p.m., and St. Vincent High School of Petaluma may or may not travel to Cloverdale High School for a non-league encounter at 7:15 p.m.

Rancho Cotate will seek revenge on Cardinal Newman High school. Rancho cotate has to win to keep its top of the Bay Classic hopes alive, but the Cougars hopes appear to be little more than hopes as the Cardinals have run over all their opponents on the way o a 10-0 league mark compared to Rancho Cotate's 7-4 record.

The St. Vincent high school Mustang's game against Cloverdale High School is in doubt because of the suspension of leading scorer Bob Vyenielo, Chris Dawson and Bill Partridge for the remainder of the season their suspensions by the school's administration for "disciplinary reasons" left the Mustangs with only four men. "Either the administration will have to change its ruling, or we'll have to forfeit," said St. Vincent's Coach Ed Major.

OTHER PEOPLE'S BUSINESS

By HARRY CRAFT

More And More Occupants For Hamilton Industrial Park, Ignacio

New occupants continue to take up space at the fast developing Hamilton Industrial Park in Ignacio.

An opening at 22-26 Hamilton Drive is Bob's Hamilton Mobile, an automobile and marine repair enterprise of Robert Hamilton of Bel Marin Keys.

Nearby, at 32 Hamilton Drive, Terra Food Co., a light manufacturer of dry foods, has taken 1,940 square feet — a removal from Novato. Murray Leon Steinman is the principal.

And 74 Hamilton Drive, Rafael Appliance of San Rafael has taken extra warehouse storage space.

Leases were negotiated by William Hoey Co.

Hoey, also working on San Rafael locations, has brought in Skill-Craft, a cabinetworking and general woodworking business of Thomas L. Evans from San Francisco to 60 Belvedere Street. And to the same address has come the Dana Lee Co., a light manufacturing enterprise of Dana Lee of Mill Valley.

Another Hoey lease nearby is that of Al Lamperti Builder, Inc., which moved to 50 Belvedere from 502-C Irwin Street, San Rafael.

THE SAN RAFAEL AGENCY for Jeep Motor vehicles has been relinquished by Marin Sports Imports and has been taken up by Brown Motors. Both firms are located on Francisco Boulevard, San Rafael.

DONALD J. MILLS of Novato has joined Redwood Bank as vice president in its newly organized business banking division. Until recently he had been senior loan administrator at the Bank of Montreal in San Francisco. Before that he was associated with First Western Bank and Trust Co. in Fresno, Bakersfield and Oakland and as a vice president and regional loan supervisor in San Francisco.

INVESTING

Nearly All Of Loss Is Recovered

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. In 1969, I purchased 20 shares of Becton, Dickinson at $50. The dividend is negligible; I am 83 and need income. I hate to take the $500 loss. What would you advice? — K. H.

A. Since your inquiry, Becton shares have moved up to recover all but $200 of your loss. As a result of including previously unconsolidated foreign subsidiaries, sales have reached new highs in recent quarters. First quarter ended Dec. 31 showed earnings up more than 10 per cent; sales comparisons were not meaningful.

While a dividend increase in the area of 10 per cent has been discussed by directors, phase two guidelines may limit the increase to smaller zmaller amount. In any case, the yield afforded even including a full 10 per cent increase, would be less than 1 per cent.

Therefore, because of your income requirements, I would suggest switching from these shares into Central Maine Power. This electric utility returns 6.8 per cent on shares selling at 17½.

Q. When I retire next year, I can withdraw $20,000 or $126 monthly for life (10 years guaranteed) from my annuity. Other income will provide $480 montly for my husband and me. Should the $20,000 be invested in a high-quality income fund, tax exempt bonds, the bank or should I take the montly payments of $126? I would like to be able to protect this $20,000 to leave for my children. — M. E.

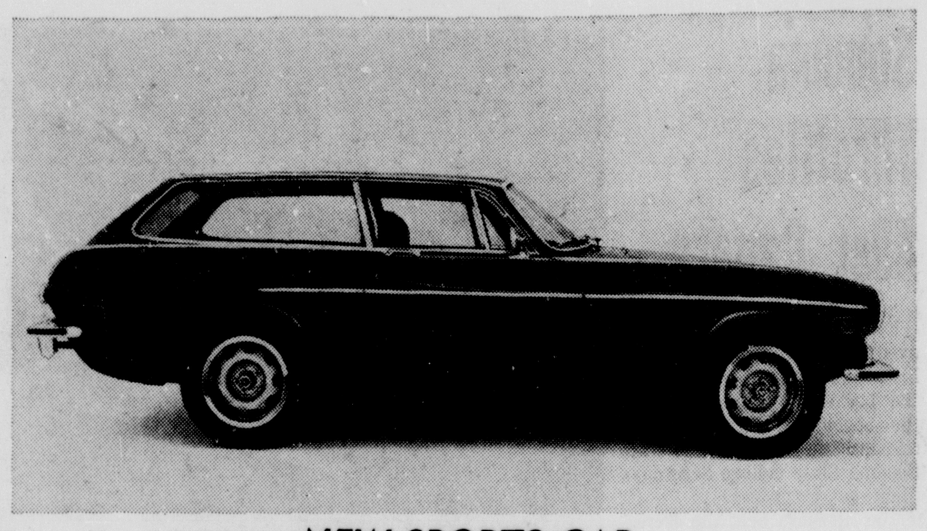
A. I would not recommend the montly payments since unless you live 13-plus years, you and your heirs would be guaranteed only $15,120. Nor would I favor a fund or tax exempt bonds. Your income bracket would be insufficient to justify the latter investment and the former could deplete part of your capital.

By depositing one-half of your funds in certificates of deposit and the remainder in good quality utility bonds, your capital will remain intact. In addition, your income return would be close to 7 per cent with today's money rates. This would give you about $115 added income monthly.

Aussies Drinking More Wine, Beer

SYDNEY (UPI) —Australians are drinking three times as much beer and wine as they did 30 years ago, says the Bureau of Census and Statistics.

Beer swallowed annually averages out at 27.1 gallons (imperial) per capita, third highest in the world behind West Germany and Czechoslovakia. Thirty years ago it was less than 12 gallons. Wine sipping has quadrupled and now amounts to about two gallons per year per Aussie.



NEW SPORTS CAR

The 1800ES, the first new sports car Volvo has turned out in 12 years, introduces a new rear compartment design. The roof, extending almost to the back of the car, blends into a frameless rear window which serves as a door to the luggage area. Standard equipment includes a computer controlled fuel injection engine and four-wheel power disc brakes. The 1800ES is available through Annex Motors, San Rafael.

INCOME TAX FACTS

By PETER J. WIKEL, C.P.A.

How To Correctly Deduct Your Automobile Expenses

Automobile expenses are deductible. Here are the rules:

Your expenses in commuting from home and any job within the area of your tax home are not deductible, regardless of the distance, or even if you worked at different job locations on different days within the area of your tax home.

If you haul tools, etc., in your car to and from your place of business for your convenience, the cost of operating your car is nondeductible. However, if you cannot store the tools at the place you work, or if you work at different locations every day, and you would not have used your car but for the necessity of hauling tools, etc., which are too bulky or heavy to be carried otherwise, the expense is deductible.

If you are in business and your auto is used exclusively for business purposes, the cost of its operation is deductible on Schedule C, Form 1040.

If you are an employee and use your car exclusively in your work, you can deduct the total cost of its operation, such as gasoline, oil, repairs, garage rent, insurance, depreciation, interest, taxes, licenses, etc.

If you use your car for both personal and business travel, you must divide your expenses. Suppose you are a salesman and drive your car 20,000 miles during the year, 8,000 miles for business and 12,000 miles for personal, only 8,000/20,000 or 40 per cent of the total cost may be claimed as a business or employment expense.

Also, you can just keep a record of the business use of your car. You can deduct 12 cents per mile for the first 15,000 miles and nine cents per mile for miles over 15,000 in each year.

The miles must be for business use and you must have a record of them.

If your employer reimbursed you less than 12 cents a mile, and you'd do better with 12 cents and nine cents per mile, you can deduct the difference by including the reimbursement in income and deducting the mileage allowance as above. The mileage allowance is not available if you took the extra first-year depreciation allowance on your car, or you took depreciation on one of the accelerated methods.

The mileage allowance is instead of auto expenses, depreciation, insurance, etc. You can't take both. But you can take parking fees and bridge and road tolls attributable to business travel and interest costs of buying the car.

Also, you can deduct six cents per mile for the use of your car to secure medical care, or for charitable contributions, where automobile expense qualifies as deductible as a medical expense or as a charitable contribution.

Some auto expenses are deductible if you itemize on Schedule A even though your automobile is entirely used for personal purposes.

These expenses include: Gasoline taxes - California seven cents per gllon, there is a chart on page 8 of the instructions to your income tax form; state and local sales taxes; interest on auto loans; casualty and theft losses over $100; and California license fees in excess of $11 ($12 if a station wagon).

Caution. If you have used your car for business and personal travel, and if you itemize your deductions, be sure that you list on Schedule A of your return only the interest, taxes, etc., which were not claimed as traveling or transportation expense anywhere else on your return. An expense can be deducted only once.

Car pools. Expenses of an automobile used in a car pool to and from work is a personal expense and not deductible. Amounts received from passengers are not included in income unless they exceed the expenses.

Fines for violation of traffic or other laws and regulations are not deductible.

Hewlett-Packard Sales Are Up

PALO ALTO (BW) — Hewlett-Packard Co. has reported an increase of 15 per cent in sales and a 29 per cent increase in earnings for the first quarter of the company's fiscal year.

Sales for the quarter ended Jan. 31 totaled $97,964,000, compared with $85,197,000 for the first quarter of fiscal 1971.

Net earnings amounted to $6,202,000, equal to 24 cents per share on 26,187,282 shares of common stock outstanding.

TransAmerica Corp. 1971 Income Rises

SAN FRANCISCO (BW) — TransAmerica Corp. has reported consolidated net income for the year ended Dec. 31 of $61,932,000, or 95 cents per share on record revenues of $1.6 billion.

The figures compare with net income of $42,645,000, or 66 cents per share on revenues of $1.5 billion for 1970.

China Warms Up As Nixon, Chou Confer

Ballet Ends 2nd Day, More Talks Tomorrow

PEKING (UPI) —President Nixon and Chou En-lai conducted an intensive three hour 50 minute working session today as the government-controlled press and the people of Peking noticeably warmed to the President's momentous visit to China. (See related stories, pictures, pages 2, 8, 9)

At the summit level, Chou was smilingly cordial in the company of Nixon. The 73-year-old Chinese premier and the wife of Mao Tse-tung also accompanied the Nixons to a colorful, two-hour ballet performance in the evening that ended the President's second day in the ancient city.

Ronald L. Ziegler, White House press secretary, declined to divulge any substance of the Nixon-Chou talk but he was smiling broadly while fending off questions by reporters on how the summit talks were going. Today's meeting was the second long conference between the two, with another set for Wednesday.

The Nixons sat side by side with Chou and Madame Mao at the ballet performed at the Great Hall of the People in a mammoth auditorium that can seat 10,000.

It was also significant that the official government newspaper, Peoples Daily, blossomed forth with a full spread of pictures of Nixon and two and a half pages of text on the visit.

Peking television, which like the newspapers had given scant advance or immediate attention to the Nixon visit, also carried filmed accounts on the President's arrival, his later meeting with Mao and Monday night's big banquet.

Such publicity was considered unprecedented and the strongest possible sign that China's leaders, from Communist Party Chairman Mao on down, had decided to deal in earnest in ending the 20-year freeze in relations between the two countries.

Long lines formed at news vendor stands to obtain copies of the four-page newspaper. In addition, wall posters blazoned details of Nixon's meetings with Chou and Mao Tse-tung and drew large throngs of readers.

On the street, the atmosphere also seemed to have turned friendlier. Almost by signal, Chinese in the downtown stores turned on smiles for the 300 Americans who accompanied the President on his mission.

Mrs. Nixon also made her first official outing among the people and delighted a group of chefs at the Peking Hotel. She watched them prepare dishes of classic cuisine, including Peking duck, and amused them by the way she handled chopsticks in sampling some of their dishes.

The people of Peking still were not lining the streets to see Nixon, but UPI's Norman

A REPORTER'S VIEWS

China Visit Becoming More Of A Reality Day By Day

By COURTNEY R. SHELDON
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

PEKING — History is being made by the hour in this historic capital city of China.

The leaders of the most populous and most powerful nations on Earth have met after more than two decades of utter hostility and — even if, as both sides have already said, great differences still divide them, they have shaken hands and are talking to each other.

In the history books, this almost unbelievable rendezvous in Peking between President Nixon and Chairman Mao Tse-tung and Premier Chou En-lai might well go down as the 20th Century equivalent of the Field of the Cloth of Gold or Napoleon's meeting with the Czar on a raft in the middle of the river at Tilsit.

The President's diplomatically correct but politically cool reception on his arrival got his mission off to a realistic start. But within a few hours of being greeted at the airport by Premier Chou he had an unexpectedly early meeting with Chairman Mao and heard Chou propose an unexpectedly warm toast.

No indication was given of what the Chairman and the President discussed, but their conversation was described as "serious and frank." They were together for an hour. With them were Premier Chou and presidential advisor Henry A. Kissinger — but not Secretary of State William P. Rogers.

In his toast at a banquet later in the day, Premier Chou said that the great differences between China and the United States should not prevent their establishing relations and relaxing tensions.

President Nixon, in his toast, thanked Chou for his "very gracious and eloquent remarks." Their two countries, he said, have common interests that transcend their differences. Neither would compromise its principles. If they could not close the gulf between them they could at least try to bridge it so that they could talk across it.

A correspondent with the President is in the difficult circumstances of trying to interpret a historic summit meeting and at the same time understand a country with many more centuries of living than his own.

Job Bill Debate Cut; Passage Due

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Senate voted today to limit further debate on a fair employment practices bill, ending a southern-led slowdown that began at the start of the session last month.

The vote was 73 to 21 —10 more than the two-thirds majority required.

Two earlier attempts to impose cloture were defeated, once by nine votes; once by six.

The action signaled almost certain Senate approval of the bill later this week. A similar bill already has cleared the House of Representatives.

The bill has occupied the Senate since the Congress convened Jan. 19.

Here is what the bill would do:

—Grant the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission authority to sue in federal court for enforcement of the ban against racial, religious, sexual or color discrimination in hiring or promotion.

—Extend coverage of the law to 10.1 million state and local government employes.

—Cover employers and unions with 15 or more workers, instead of the present 25.

Novato 'Congress' Focus —Taxes, Housing, Airport

Novato citizens will conduct their second annual Community Congress Saturday, taking as their theme: "Taxes and Alternatives."

To be held from 8:30 a.m. to 3:15 p.m. at Novato High School, the time will be devoted to study of airport and industrial development, open space, housing and taxes. To be explored are not only those matters of importance to the growing city, but citizens' attitudes toward them.

The program, cosponsored by the Novato Chamber of Commerce, is one of several such congresses developed by Pacific Gas and Electric Co. in various Marin communities with an eye toward securing citizen involvement in community affairs.

William Siden, cofounder of San Francisco Beautiful, will present a film documentary, "A Stranger Returns," which will show how Novato looks to a visitor. Supervisor Arnold M. Baptiste will speak at a luncheon in the cafeteria.

Members of the discussion groups will be:

Tax Information — Baptiste; Herschel Johnson, assistant county assessor, Marin County; City Mgr. Charles A. Brown; Asst. Supt. Eugene De Brecht, Novato Unified School District; Julius Selinger, chairman of the Marin County Assessment Appeals Board; Donald Van Dyke, chairman of the Marin County Taxpayers Association. Robert K. Madgett, congress chairman, will be moderator.

Airport-industrial development — Joseph A. Forest, deputy county counsel, Marin County; William Gilfillan, director of the regional airport study commission; Ralph Girard, manager of area development, Bank of America, San Francisco; William B. Lynch, Marin County planning commissioner; J.R. Mettler, manager, Los Angeles International Airport; Benjamin R. Ostlind, former member of the Marin County airport commission. Ned Dean, president of the Novato Chamber of Commerce, will be moderator.

Open space — George Barnwell, publisher of the Novato Advance; Lee Gerner, Marin County parks and recreation commissioner; Patrick H. Hefernan, North Marin County Water District director; Novato planning director Brian W. Mattson; Marin County planning director Werner Von Gun-

2 Sisters Killed In Collision

I-J Special Report

RICHMOND — Two Larkspur sisters were killed and a third injured in a head-on collision here yesterday.

Killed in the crash at 10 p.m. were Margaret Cloney, 63, and Katheryn Cloney, 59, both of 15 Monte Vista Avenue. Their sister, Frances Casey, 62, was reported in good condition today at Brookside Hospital in San Pablo with scrapes, cuts and several broken bones.

Mrs. Casey was driving westbound on Cutting Way with her two sisters as passengers, police said, when a car driven by a 29-year-old Pittsburg man jumped a divider at high speed and hit her car.

Ira Toole, who was treated for minor injuries, was then jailed while police investigated grounds for felony manslaughter charges. No bail or court appearance had been set today.

The three sisters had lived in Larkspur most of their lives, according to Larkspur Police Chief Howard Clark. He said their father was an employee of the Northwestern Pacific Railroad in the town.

Chief Clark said they are survived by a sister, Helen Parks of Greenbrae, and a brother, Michael.

Katheryn Cloney, who was born in Tiburon, had worked as a budget auditor for the United Bay Area Crusade since 1943. Margaret Cloney was an employee of I. Magnin's department store in San Francisco.

Mrs. Casey works for the fund raising organization. She went to work at its San Francisco office as an accounting clerk in 1959.

Nominee For Attorney General Against Marijuana Legalization

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Richard G. Kleindienst, President Nixon's choice for attorney general, said today "I would oppose legalization of possession or use of marijuana" if confirmed in the Cabinet post.

Kleindienst, now deputy attorney general, told a Senate Judiciary Committee confirmation hearing that he believes marijuana "is a euphoric substance that permits young people to depart from reality."

Legalization would make it more accessible, Kleindienst said, and added that this would help unravel "the fabric of a strong society."

He said that a national commission on marijuana that has been studying marijuana usage "would have to come up with a very convincing argument" to change his mind. The commission is expected to make a report shortly and is expected to recommend liberaazation of laws governing penalties for use of marijuana.

Kleindienst also renewed his support for use of electronic eavesdropping devices in cases involving national security.

He testified that "I will assume full resposibility" for every electronic surveillance instituted without a court order.

Kleindienst, No. 2 man in the Justice Department since the start of the Nixon Administration, was nominated for the top job by the President Feb. 15 when Attorney General John N. Mitchell announced he was stepping down to run Nixon's re-election campaign.

Smiling broadly for photographers and flanked by his home-state senators, Republicans Paul J. Fannin and Barry M. Goldwater of Arizona, Klein-

Welfare Checks To Nun Called Office Slip Up

Who would believe a Catholic nun on welfare?

Marin County Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell wouldn't and didn't as he voided two county welfare checks made out to a sister.

Mitchell, who said he was barred by state law from divulging the nun's name, said his auditors picked up the "discrepancy" when the two checks came through his office made out to Sister ---- ----.

"We thought there was something strange when we saw 'Sister' in front of the name," he explained, adding that inquiry disclosed the checks totaling $525 really were intended for a nun.

Betty L. Presley, director of Marin public social services, explained the checks were issued because a worker in her office had failed to make a routine check with the nun's order to find out why she could not obtain assistance through normal channels.

Miss Presley said the nun had come to the welfare office in November apparently seeking financial aid for medicine. Forms were given her, Miss Presley said, and the nun subsequently was allotted the $525 under the Old Age Security program.

"It was all due to a misunderstanding," Mitchell said.

Miss Presley said the welfare worker who authorized the funds would be reprimanded. And Mitchell said the nun has been scolded by her order.

Ex-Rhodesian Leader Released

SALISBURY (UPI) — The Rhodesian government today released former Prime Minister Garfield Todd and his daughter Judith from solitary confinement" for health reasons and on humanitarian grounds.

A government statement said two black African nationalists held, like the Todds, without trial would also go free.

The four have been held in separate jails without trial or charge since Jan. 20.

Todd, 63, and his 28-year-old daughter were placed under house arrest at the family ranch near Shabani.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Nobel Winner Maria Mayer Dies

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Nobel Prize winner Dr. Maria Goeppert Mayer, a professor of physics at the University of California at San Diego, died Sunday night at 65.

Mayer

Awarded the nobel prize in 1963, she was the first woman to be so honored since Marie Curie won the prize for discovering radioactivity in 1903.

Dr. Mayer was born in 1906 in a section of Germany that is now part of Poland. She studied at the University of Gottingen and came to the United States in 1930.

She taught at Johns Hopkins University, Sarah Lawrence College and Columbia University, where she worked on the Manhattan (atomic bomb) project.

She was the co-author with her husband in 1951 of a work dealing with the elementary theory of nuclear shell structure.

Bloodless Coup In Persia Gulf

DOHA, Qatar (UPI) — Prime Minister Sheikh Khalifa Bin Hamad al Thani today seized power in this Persian Gulf state in a bloodless coup, Doha Radio said.

al Thani

He deposed his cousin, Emir Sheikh Ahmed Bin Ali al Thani, who was on a hunting holiday in Iran, government sources said.

The new ruler immediately issued a series of decrees, among them two raising the salaries of the armed forces and civil servants by 20 per cent, the sources said.

Political observers in this 4,000 square mile emirate said the coup was staged with the support of the majority of the Al Thani family which has ruled Qatar since ealry this century.

Qatar occupies the Qatar peninsula on the Persian Gulf on Arabia's northeast coast.

Nixon-Mao Photos

PEKING (UPI) — In an unprecedented display, the four-page Peoples' Daily published seven photographs of President Nixon today. The people of Peking queued up to get their copy.

Two of the photos showed Nixon beaming and shaking hands with China's Communist party !atriarch, Chairman Mao Tse-tung.

Another picture depicted Mao's study, with the chairman sitting back in an armchair near a table piled with books. Nixon is leaning forward and Henry A. Kissinger, Nixon's National Security Affairs adviser, is sitting beside the President and listening raptly, his hands folded.

Cardinal Dies

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — When Cardinal Eugene Tisserant summoned the conclave which followed the death of Pope Pius XII in 1958, there were many who said he would be presiding over his own election as pontiff.

A little-known Northern Italian named Angelo Roncalli was elected instead and the French-born dean of the Sacred College of Cardinals quietly went on serving the new Pope John XXIII as chief librarian of the Vatican.

Tisserant died Monday night at the age of 87 at the Regina Apostolorum clinic in the Alban hills 15 miles south of Rome. He had been confined there for months with an ailment which affected his legs.

Pope Paul VI, who visited Tisserant at the clinic last summer, sent another Frenchman, Cardinal Jean Villot, papal secretary of state, to the dying man's bedside Monday carrying the papal blessing.

Tisserant's death reduced to 119 the number of cardinals.

Middle East Talks

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

U.N. Middle East negotiator Gunnar V. Jarring will carry his peace mission to Jerusalem Frijay for talks with Foreign Minister Abba Eban, an Israeli government spokesman said today.

A foreign ministry spokesman said Eban will interrupt a short vacation he is taking for the meeting with Jarring. He made no mention of the possibility of a meeting with Prime Minister Golda Meir, who also is on vacation.

The spokesman said Jarring had suggested he make the visit to Israel following talks in Cairo with Egyptian leaders, and Eban agreed to the visit.

A Birthday Call

PEKING (UPI) — President Nixon gave his daughter Tricia Nixon Cox a special birthday present Monday — a telephone call via satellite from Peking.

First Lady Pat Nixon, speaking with reporters in the kitchen of the Peking Hotel, said the President called Tricia to wish her a happy 26th birthday.

Mrs. Nixon said the telephone reception via satellite was "clear as a bell."

Moon Landing

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union today said Luna 20 safely soft-landed on a rugged lunar mountainside within yards of where another unmanned Soviet moon probe vanished five months ago.

The Tass news agency said the unmanned Luna 20 touched down at 11:19 a.m. PST Monday on the extreme eastern side of the moon as viewed from earth.

Sentence Upheld

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Supreme Court of the Russian Federation today upheld the 12-year sentence of prison labor camp and exile imposed last month on Vladimir Bukovsky, one of Russia's most active dissidents.

Bukovsky, 29, was sentenced Jan. 5 to seven years imprisonment and five years banishment to a remote part of the Soviet Union, probably Siberia. He was accused of carrying out anti-Soviet activity, primarily by complaining that Soviet courts used mental institutions to suppress unorthodox political views.

4 IRA Deaths

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI) — The army said today a bomb blast killed four men who were identified in a Belfast newspaper as an officer and three volunteer members of the outlawed Irish Republican Army.

A second bomb, possibly planted by protestant extremists, exploded in front of a hotel in Dungannon where three Roman Catholic political leaders were meeting, security sources said.

The army said the four men died in Belfast Monday when their small, blue car exploded and burst into flames while turning a corner in the mainly Protestant Castlreigh district.

Fire Destroys Eureka's TV Station Building

EUREKA (UPI)—A fire early today destroyed the broadcasting station of Channel 6, KBIQ-TV, the National Broadcasting Company outlet in Eureka.

Lyle Wallace, news director, said the fire was reported at 6:25 a.m., 35 minutes before the station was scheduled to begin the day's broadcasting.

The split-level building which housed the station's studios and equipment, was totally destroyed. The loss was not immediately estimated. Wallace said every effort would be made to resume broadcasting "as soon as possible."

No injuries were reported. Wallace said a witness reported seeing a lightning bolt strike an unused tower at the station shortly before the fire was reported. It took firemen an hour to put out the blaze.

Pandas Will Come Here From China

PEKING (UPI) — Premier Chou En-lai is trading President Nixon two giant black and white pandas for two San Francisco musk oxen.

Pat Nixon disclosed that Chou offered the two giant white pandas during a banquet in the Nixon's honor Monday night at Peking's Great Hall of the People.

"You've given us oxen. We'll load up the plane with pandas," she quoted Chou as saying.

Three U.S. zoos, in Washington, D.C., Detroit and St. Louis, already have bid for the native Asian pandas.

At present there are only two pandas in captivity outside China—a female named "ChiChi" in London and a male called "An-An" in Moscow.

In 1966, Chi-Chi was sent to Moscow for a three-month rendezvous with An-An. The most passionate moment between the two came when ChiChi gave An-An a sound slap on the jaw.

THE TRADE — Two U.S. musk oxen — one of them, Matilda, is shown at top — will be given to Red China as a vft. In return, China will send two giant pandas — like the one pictured at bottom — to the U.S.

Dogfight Over Laos: U.S. Phantom Downs Red MIG

SAIGON (UPI)—A U.S. Air Force F4 Phantom jet shot down a Soviet-built MIG21 in a dogfight over Laos Monday and other U.S. jets struck five times into North Vietnam Monday and today, the U.S. command announced.

On the ground, the South Vietnamese reported killing 62 guerrillas in the heaviest single battle this year, while suffering only two wounded of their own.

In addition, they reported killing 60 more guerrillas in two other battles in Quang Nam province 300 miles north of Saigon at a cost of 10 of their own wounded and six missing. All three battles were fought in South Vietnam's Military Region I, comprising the five northernmost provinces.

The surge of Communist attacks that marked President Nixon's Peking visit tapered off from more than 50 Monday to 22 today.

South Vietnamese counterattacks helped account for 239 guerrillas reported killed in the 24 hours ending at 6 a.m. today, 86 of them in allied air attacks, at a cost of no South Vietnamese killed and 36 wounded. No American casualties were reported.

In late reports of action since 6 a.m. today, an additional 14 Communists were reported killed and two South Vietnamese soldiers were reported wounded.

By comparison, three Americans, 40 South Vietnamese and 84 guerrillas were killed in the previous day's fighting, and 12 Americans and South Vietnamese wounded.

The MIG21 was the second knocked down by American F4's in a little more than a month.

A U.S. Navy F4 shot down a MIG21 jet Jan. 19 over North Vietnam. Only one F4 has been shot down by a MIG21 since the air was began to heat up three months ago.

The dogfight began when two F4's escorting other aircraft on bombing runs over the Ho Minh Trail network in Laos encountered two MIG21's that were trying to intercept the bombers.

One of the F4's loosed three missiles at one of the MIGs. "The U.S. pilots observed an explosion a fireball, and reported one MIG21 destroyed," the U.S. command said. "There was no damage to the U.S. aircraft."

U.S. F4's and F105 Thunderchiefs made five "protective reaction" strikes into North Vietnam from late Monday morning to early this morning.

That brought to 62 the number of "protective reaction" strikes this year and 291 since President Lyndon B. Johnson stopped the strategic bombing of North Vietnam Nov. 1, 1968.

The heaviest ground fighting broke out at noon Monday in Quang Ngai province—the same province where the My Lai killings occurred—about 300 miles north of Saigon.

According to the South Vietnamese communique, a battalion of South Vietnamese Rangers took on an estimated battalion of Communist troops.

"The fighting lasted several hours," the South Vietnamese communique said.

UPI correspondent Donald A. Davis reported from the Central Highlands capital of Pleiku that Vietnamese air force jets and prop-driven bombers Monday tore into Communist forces in their border base camp.

Pilots reported killing 50 Communists when they hit an ammunition dump, triggering a 20-minute chain of explosions, Davis said. The Communists also lobbed 10 rounds of 82mm mortar and 75mm recoilless rifle fire into a South Vietnamese base camp in the region but caused no casualties.

$7,000 Robbery Staged At Home

MOUNTAIN VIEW (UPI) —A restaurant owner was robbed of over $7,000 Monday while his wife, young daughter and her friend were held captive for an hour.

Two men who forced their way into the home of Ted Faravelli Sunday night were being sought, police said.

One of the men stayed with Faravelli's wife Gloria; a daughter and her overnight guest while the other went with Faravelli to his restaurant in Sunnyvale.

After taking weekend receipts the robber returned to the victim's home and with his partner, escaped.

Ahmad: That 'Other' Man In The Harrisburg 7 Trial

By TRUDY RUBIN
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

HARRISBURG, Pa. — His swarthy skin and foreign look set him apart from the other six defendants in the trial of Harrisburg 7.

In journalists' lists of the seven, he is always the "and" at the end, "six Roman Catholic nuns, prients and ex-clergy, and a Pakistani scholar."

At the beginning of jury selection, Judge R. Dixon Herman queried a room full of venire men, "Would you be predisposed to distrust Ahmad because he is a foreigner, not a member of the white race, a Muslim?"

Two of the final jury panel have indicated their reservations about an alien taking part in protest in the United States.

Seated against the wall, he frequently whispers to Rev. Philip Berrigan and confers more often with the lawyers than the other defendants.

He is more sophisticated and worldly in conversation than the others; friends say he would have preferred to handle his own defense. In appearance he is slightly sinister (an impression quickly dispelled by his smile and quick charm). He is an expert on revolutionary movements and guerrilla warfare; some think the government will argue that his master mind led the group of nonviolent clergy astray.

Who is Eqbal Ahmad? How did a Muslim academic becaome entangled in a trial of Catholic activists?

Dr. Ahmad himself professes astonishment at his situation. "There is not an iota of truth in the specific charges," he says in his precise British accent.

(The first count is conspiracy to destroy draft files, blow up heating tunnels under federal buildings in Washington, D.C., and kidnap presidential aide Henry A. Kissinger.)

Before the first indictment, the scholar was pursuing his study of "third world" revolutionary movement as a fellow at the Adlai Stevenson Institue of International Affairs in Chicago and editing Afrasia, a French news magazine about third-world affairs.

He arrived in this country on a Fulbright grant in 1957 and got his Ph.D. with highest honors from Princeton in 1965.

His link to the defendants stems from his friendship with Rev. Daniel Berrigan, brother of the accused, whom he met at Cornell University in 1967. The priest, already becoming known as an activist was the cochairman of a campus religious organization and Ahmad was teaching political science.

"We shared a lot of things," reminisced Dr. Ahmad with a mischevious grin, "we both liked cooking, we both loved poetry, and we were both very much against the war." Dr. Ahmad met Philip Berrigan a few times through his brother. "But we had no real relationship at all until the indictment."

Of the other five defendants, he knew only Sister Elizabeth McAlister "fairly well" before the indictment, and "two, I'd never met at all"

Dr. Ahmad is said to have taken no part in any of the various raids condcted by members of the Catholic Left (the government appears to be centering its case on proving conspiracy to destroy draft files).

The government indicates in its indictment that the alleged plot to kidnap Dr. Kissinger was hatched at a meeting in Connecticut called "on or about Aug. 17, 1970," by Dr. Ahmad.

In two letters attached to the second indictment, which the defendent has never denied are authentic, Sister Elizabeth wrote to Father Philip of a meeting at which "Eq outlined a plan for ... a "citizen's arrest" of Henry Kissinger.

She asked Father Philip's advice; his reply was enthusiastic with some sharp reservations about Dr. Ahmad's capabilities for action. (He has since written an apology to Dr. Ahmad.)

The meeting has been described by those present as primarily an informal social gathering to discuss what should be done in the wake of Father Daniel's capture.

The defense maintains the discussion of the Kissinger matter never went beyond the letters. Dr. Ahmad insist he never knew such letters existed nor that they were being smuggled in and out of Lewisburg Prison where Father Philip was jailed for destroying draft files, by a special prisoner named Boyd Douglas who at some point became an FBI informer. "I never heard of any such thing (as the exchange of letters)," he says excitedly. "If I had, I would have stopped it."

Dr. Ahmad is also alleged to have made two phone calls to Boyd Douglas immediately after the meeting in Connecticut. He says, "I never talked to, read of, or heard of Boyd Douglas before the indictment."

Asked about the discussion in Connecticut Dr. Ahmad replied indirectly, "We have discussed publicly and privately a large number of possible things the antiwar movement could or could not do. This includes $1 stock purchases on Wall Street, tying down the Pentagon by 5,000 phone calls, as well as the possibility of a citizen's arrest. After 20 minutes of intense discussion you see this cannot be done nonviolently.

"It is a citizen's right to be able to discuss any number of things and to reject them."

Why then, does Dr. Ahmad think he was indicted? "There is a lot of personal vendetta in this trial," he says. "I don't know of any group which has embarrased J. Edgar Hoover more," he adds, referring to Father Daniel's four and one-half months of highly publicized underground flight from arrest, which, it is widely rumored, was largely organized by Dr. Ahmad.

Dr. Ahmad's friends also fear that the government may present him to the jury as an outsider who turns people to violence.

He insists violence has no place in the U.S. today.

Dr. Ahmad has criticized violence in tha American antiwar movement both publicly and privately.

In reference to the charge of conspiring to blow up underground heating tunnels, he insisted in an interview, "We (the defendants) have never discussed bombing anything except to discuss it in negative terms." As a revolutionary theorist, Dr. Ahmad has been considered fairly moderate by those on the Left.

Dr. Ahmad, who married an American schoolteacher, Julie Diamond, in 1969, says he has remained here in part because he "very deeply felt that it was not safe abroad unless we can change the policy in the U.S. towards third-world countries." In addition, political differences with the former military regime of Gen. Yahya Kahn made it impossible for him to go back.

However, the new President, Zulfikar Ali Bhutto, is a contemporary of Dr. Ahmad's. According to friends, he might have been offered a high diplomatic post if he had been interested, which would have given him diplomatic immunity from the trial.

Dr. Ahmad says he is "not interested in a government position," but would prefer to join a major daily newspaper in Pakistan. His greatest sadness, he says, is not being able to go back to Pakistan at this particular moment. If the defendants win their case, the "alien" of the Harrisburg 7 will "definitely go back" to work for change in his homeland.

Clark Claims Evidence Will Prove No Berrigan Conspiracy

HARRISBURG, Pa. (UPI) — The beanpole of a man drew his 6-foot-4 frame erect before the jury, thrust both hands into his pants pockets, and with a slightly sad look on his lean face began a short and quiet-spoken opening statement for the defense.

"I will say what I don't like to say," Ramsey Clark, former attorney general of the United States, told the nine women and three men of the Harrisburg Seven jury. "The evidence will show that the government's charges are false."

"It charges a conspiracy. There was no conspiracy—no agreement. You have to draw on your common sense ..."

Sitting at a government table near him was a prosecutor who had once worked under Clark in the Justice Department. William S. Lynch, yellow-haired, chunky and forceful, opened for the government Monday before Clark spoke and he too said:

"You don't check your God-given common sense at the courthouse door."

It was the opening of a trial in which the jurors must ?ecide whether seven antiwar activists —six of them present or former priests and nuns of the Roman Catholic left—plotted in 1970 to kidnap Henry A. Kissinger, dynamite Washington heating ducts, and vandalize draft boards to publicize their abhorrence of American action in Vietnam.

Lynch said the government expected to prove that the Rev. Philip F. Berrigan, 48, a Josephite priest serving a six-year sentence for destroying draft board records, was the group's leader, that he "put together an organizational plan" of action.

The kidnaping of the top White House foreign affairs aide and blowing up of heating systems was plotted to "cause great consternation and disruption" in official Washington, Lynch said. He told how Boyd Douglas, a Berrigan fellow convict, had carried letters and verbal messages out of Lewisburg prison for Berrigan and for the group outside the Berrigan inside—and in the middle of this had turned informer.

Berrigan, a big white-haired man of commanding presence who was brought to court from prison daily, moved Monday to dismiss his three lawyers, become his own attorney and deliver his own opening statement. Federal Judge R. Dixon Herman denied the motion.

Lynch told the jury that, during the 1970 planning, 10 letters went from Berrigan in prison to Sister Elizabeth McAlister, 32, a nun, who is a defendant, and 14 krom her to him.

"There has been a lot of talk about Boyd Douglas and letters, letters," Clark said. "That's the saddest thing about this case. Douglas has made lying a way of life, and it hurts me to say that."

He said Douglas had been indicted for impersonating an Air Force officer, had forged checks, got out of jail and been indicted again on forgery, and finally charged with assault and resisting arrest by an FBI officer.

The alleged plot came to light in testimony by FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover on Nov. 27, 1970, in congressional committee when he announced "an incipient plot ... of an anarchist group, self-described as being composed of Catholic priests, nuns, teachers, students ..."

Clark said Monday that the indictment came in 1971 when "it became necessary to stop a movement, silence people, and justify some things that J. Edgar Hoover had done."

"There was no conspiracy," Clark said. "Kissinger is alive and well in Peking. These people are not capable of harming anyone. They are gentle — cannot be violent. They are deeply concerned about violence in our world and they stand to end it before it ends us.

Jack Hemingway To Idaho Game Board

BOISE, IDAHO (UPI)—The appointment of Jack Hemingway, son of the late author Ernest Hemingway, to the Idaho Fish and Game Commission was confirmed Monday by the state senate.

Hemingway, of Ketchum, Idaho, was appointed to the commission last summer by Gov. Cecil D. Andrus. State Sen. John V. Evans said Hemingway was one of "the best appointments ever made to the board."

Body Found; Identy Sought

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Coroner's investigators sought the identify today of a man whose body was found floating in San Francisco Bay about a half mile southeast of Alcatraz Island.

The man was found Sunday afternoon by seven people returning to the city after a day of sailing. He was described as in his 30s, wearing a white lace shirt, tan pants and brown jacket.

The investigators refused to link him with a reported suicide Sunday morning from Golden Gate Bridge. The Highway Patrol said witnesses reported seeing someone jump from the span about seven hours before the body was discovered.

WINE OF THE MONTH
Bourbon Shops are very proud to endorse this excellent wine. It is a strong wine in the Saint-Emilion tradition; heavier in body and darker in color than other wines of the Bordeaux. The aroma is right, the taste is varietal, acidity, sweetness and astringency are in almost perfect balance, and the body correct. With its five years of age we recommend it as ready to drink now, and it will last and improve perhaps another year or two.

Marin, S. Sonoma Dampened By Rain

The first significant rainfall in more than two weeks fell in Marin and Southern Sonoma last night and early today, although the showers added little to the area's wanting water supply.

Up to .42 of an inch of rain fell as a weather front, packing gusty winds as well, crossed Northern California. Previous measurable rainfall was more than an inch dropped on many parts of Marin and Southern Sonoma on Feb. 5.

However, J. Dietrich Stroeh, principal engineer for the Marin Municipal Water District, said reservoirs remained below normal levels. He reported the district's supply at 78 per cent of capacity, whereas up to 85 per cent is normal for this time of year.

Last year at this period, he said, district reservoirs were full.

Despite the fact the rainy season is fading, Stroeh said, the district still is looking to the skies for help. "Hopefully, we'll get it," he said.

The district has warned of water control methods this summer if the situation doesn't improve.

Partly cloudy weather was forecast by the National Weather Service for tonight and tomorrow, with a 30 per cent chance of rain.

Amid the rain, cooler temperatures prevailed. A Novato resident reported ice on his car this morning. Lows dipped to the high 30s in some parts of Marin and Southern Sonoma.

Rainfall recorded for a 24-hour period ending at 8 a.m. were: Petaluma, .42 inches; Ross, .39; San Rafael, .38 (24-hour period ending at noon); Woodacre, .33; Larkspur (Chevy Chase), .32; Santa Venetia, .26; Fairfax, .25; San Anselmo and Tamalpais Valley, .24; Novato and Sausalito, .20; Bolinas, .17, and Mill Valley, .13.

Despite winds occasionally heavy at times, neither public works officials nor Robert H. Williams, district superintendent of Pacific Gas and Electric Co., had reports of significant storm damage.

Kennedy, Passengers Are Freed

By U. P. INTERNATIONAL

Arab guerrillas who hijacked a Lufthansa 747 Jumbo jet to Southern Yemen today freed the 172 passengers, including Joseph P. Kennedy III, son of the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, the airport's director announced. They still held 16 Lufthansa crewmen.

A group of Palestinian guerrillas who had brought along their own pilot hijacked the plane with 188 persons aboard on a flight from New Delhi to Athens and forced it to land today at Aden, the capital of war-torn Southern Yemen at the southern tip of the Arabian Peninsula.

The hijackers, protesting West German aid to Israel, first freed a group of women, children and an old man, then later permitted the other passengers to go free. Among those still held were nine stewardesses.

Young Kennedy boarded the plane in New Delhi with several other Americans after touring Bangladesh with his uncle, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy. The senator returned earlier and his 19-year-old nephew remained behind to tour India.

First word of the impending release came from an aide of the senator, Richard Drayne, who said in Washington the senator had received unconfirmed raports that the release had been negotiated for the passengers.

Drayne said the senator had been on the telephone since late Monday night trying to arrange the release through calls to Lufthansa, the International Red Cross, the State Department and various embassies in Washington.

Sen. Kennedy had gone directly to the home of Joseph's mother, Ethel, at suburban McLean, Va., when word of the hijacking arrived. Drayne said a government aeronautical official had told him that release was imminent.

The passengers were released in two groups—first the women and children and then the other male passengers who were taken to downtown hotels in Aden. Lufthansa said they would be flown out on special planes.

UPI correspondent Farouk Luqman reported from Aden, the capital of the Marxist republic of South Yemen on the southern tip of the Arabian Peninsula, that the big plane was refueled and food and water taken to the passengers still aboard.

The hijackers identified themselves as members of the "Zionist Occupation Victims Organization."

Interior Minister Mohammed Saleh Muteeh and Foreign Minister Mohammed Saley were allowed to board the big plane using a makeshift ramp and said they had been told the aircraft was wired with explosives "to guard against any eventuality."

The British ambassador drove to the airport to try to reason with the hijackers but they refused to see him. The plane stood in the hot Arabian sun at the end of an isolated runway, heavily guarded —but at a distance.

The hijackers, believed to be five men including two Jordanians, were reported using the aircraft radio to dicker directly with the Bonn government but their demands still had not been made public. It was a Jordanian, Sirhan B. Sirhan, who assassinated young Kennedy's father. Sirhan is now held on death row in San Quentin Prison in California.

REPORT

Some reportorial tasks are made easier. In Peking you don't get a different political line at every street corner. Ultimately, one settles on a few Chinese who are willing to converse in detail — and that usually means government officials.

What they say is not new. It does not have more interest and relevance at a time when China and the United States are groping for common ground.

The eye of the visitor tells him that amid the many splendid momuments of the dynastic past are living conditions that are not improving as fast as the Chinese might like. Through his ear he learns from the Chinese how great they feel progress has been since the Communists took over.

What is the life of one government worker like? "We work six days a week," he said matter-of-factly. No vacations? he was asked. "No. We have so much to do to build our country. We are behind. We cannot afford vacations."

But can't you get away once in a while? "If we want to visit our mother and father we can go on a leave of absence." With pay? "Yes." Can you save money? "We do not get much money, but we can save some." Can you get interest on saved money? "Yes."

All real estate and businesses are owned by the state, but what happens to an individual's savings and personal property when he passes on? "We don't really have that much, but it goes to one's family." Do you as a government worker receive higher pay than, for example, a factory worker? "Yes, slightly." Do you have more pay for more experience and extra pay for merit? "Yes, both."

Communes are different, he went on to explain. There are no set wages, but what a commune earns is divided up among the workers. Does this mean that if a commune has very productive soil and its goods are valuable that it can keep all it earns? "Yes, they can save their money."

"We go to the fields to learn the life of the workers, sometimes for a few months or even a year, sometimes nearby and sometimes hundreds of miles away," he continued.

Without wife and family? "Yes." Do older persons have to do this, too? "No." At what age would one be exempt? "About 60 and, of course, anyone who is ill or disabled would not have to go. Workers, he explained, do have their medical bills taken care of. But they have to pay for the families. "It really costs very little."

And so it goes on. In the government worker's bearing one senses a kind of security.

Delay Ordered In Alioto Trial

OLYMPIA, Wash. (UPI)— The state Supreme Court today ordered a two-day delay in the $2.3 million trial of San Francisco Mayor Joseph Alioto.

The delay was ordered so the court could consider motions for a mistrial. The decision came after 30 minutes of argument before six members of the high court.

The trial had been scheduled to resume today in Clark County Superior Court in Vancouver, Wash.

Supervisors Put Hold On EOC Funding

Marin Supervisors agreed today to hold back additional county grants to the Marin County Economic Opportunity Council, pending a county audit of already disbursed funds.

County Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell told supervisors he has requested a financial statement from the poverty agency on $37,000 of local funds previously released before turning over another $11,000 budgeted.

The county's action follows disclosure last week that the Marin County EOC had mistakenly received and then used $62,983 in federal funds destined for Orange County.

How and why the funds were used is not known.

The regional headquarters of the Office of Economic Opportunity announced Friday in San Francisco that it was in the process of conducting a full scale audit of the local agency's books.

Purpose of the audit, according to federal officials, is to determine if the local agency has "responsible internal fiscal control."

In the meantime, it is not processing the EOC's budget request for next year, the officials said.

Mitchell said his auditor will move in after the federal government completes its audit which is expected to take another week.

In June, supervisors budgeted $48,000 to the Marin EOC to help cover administrative costs and several programs.

To date, Mitchell said, $37,000 has been released to the poverty agency which in September had accounted for about $18,000 in a financial statement.

He said an updated financial statement — through January — is expected within a week.

NIXON

Kempster noted, "there does seem to be a change somewhat in the attitude."

"On the first day, they seemed determined not to look at the President, or for that matter to notice the Americans," Kempster observed. "They're turning their heads to look now."

Both Chou and Nixon appeared to be in good spirits as they posed for pictures following their private negotiations at the Great Hall of the People — a meeting that lasted from mid afternoon to almost dusk.

At the ballet —titled "Red Detachment of Women" —an interpreter was in the party to explain to the President and Mrs. Nixon the theme of the performance, carrying a revolutionary theme.

The ballet depicted the liberation of a working girl from enslavement and her emancipation after she joins the Red Army. A highlight of the ballet was a flashing sword dance performed by both men and women dancers.

At the end of the performance by the Peking Opera, the Nixons rose and heartily applauded the company and the company in turn applauded them back in keeping with Chinese custom.

The weather during most of Nixon's second day of his eight-day visit was again sunny but cold.

The people of Peking were lined up for two blocks at newsstands waiting to get copies of the four-page "Peoples' Daily," which devoted seven photographs and text covering 2 1-2 pages to Nixon and his meeting with the top level of China's Communist officialdom. The paper went on sale during the second formal meeting today between Chou and Nixon.

The paper printed the text of Chou's toast at Monday's big banquet, perhaps the friendliest speech he ever has delivered about America.

UPI Diplomatic Correspondent Stewart Hensley said the unprecedented display in the Peking papers "underscores the importance the Chinese attach to their efforts to get closer to the United States."

"Even more," he said, "it makes it clear that Chou and Communist Party Chairman Mao Tse-tung have been convinced by Nixon in the first round of discussions that he is sincere in his desire to end 22 years of bitterness and find a formula for cooperation and stability in Asia."

Chou's press aide said he assumed that the press waited until today to splash the story of Nixon's visit "in order that our American friends might have the opportunity to publish the pictures first in their papers."

Such treatment of a guest is highly unusual in papers which, of course, take their cues from the government. And the papers rarely print pictures.

Secretary of State William P. Rogers met separately with Chi Peng-fei, the Chinese foreign minister, while Nixon and Chou had their formal conversation.

Rogers said he took a walk "down the street to see the people" in the morning. "So far, we didn't buy anything," he said.

A long, green table under a huge painting depicting the Red Army's "Long March" —where Chou and Party Chairman Mao Tse-tung solidified their leadership —set the scene for the talks.

The march was a 6,000-mile trek of 90,000 Communist troops led by Mao in 1934-35 to escape encirclement by Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalist forces. The march, considered "an epic of human perseverance," is the event that unified its survivors to an extent unmatched in any Communist regime.

The Nixons scheduled a night at the opera this evening. The event at the Great Hall of the People has the always present Chinese revolutionary theme — a communist village during World War II successfully defending itself against Japanese invaders.

OBITUARIES

Conrad Speidel, 49, Dies

Memorial Service for Conrad Speidel, 49, of Belvedere, Bay Area public relations executive, will be held at 4 p.m. Thursday in St. Stephens Episcopal Church in Belvedere.

Speidel collapsed and died Sunday while being examined by his physician at Ross General Hospital.

Death was apparently caused by cardiac arrest, according to Donald L. Cornish, a coronor's deputy.

Speidel, a native of Seattle, Wash., had lived in the Bay Area since 1956. He resided first in Tiburon, and for the past five years at 11 Cove Road in Belvedere.

He graduated from the University of Washington in 1948 with a degree in journalism, While in college he was a member of Delta Epsilon Kappa fraternity and worked on the Seattle Post Intelligencer.

Later, he was affiliated with the Washington State Press Club and the Press Club of San Francisco.

After graduation he entered the Marine Corps, attaining the rank of corporal and seeing action on Bougainville and Guam.

After he was discharged from the service, Speidel worked as public relations director for the University of Washington and in the public relations departments of Boeing Corp., Weyerhauser Co., Kaiser Aluminum and Chemical Co., and Crown Zellerbach Corp.

Following employment with Crown Zellerbach he worked as a free lance public relations man, first in Palo Alto, then in Tiburon. He joined Daniel J. Edelman Inc., a public relations firm in San Francisco, in January, 1972.

He was an accredited member of the Public Relations Society of America. He was also a member of St. Stephan's Parish in Belvedere.

Speidel is survived by his wife Audrey, a son, Steve, Santa Cruz and two daughters, Paula, Los Angeles and Dorothy, Boston.

MRS. CROWELL

Requiem Mass for Augusta I. Crowell, 69, of Santa Rosa, mother of Isabell Tacherra of Petaluma, will be offered at 10 a.m. tomorrow at St. Vincent de Paul Church, Petaluma.

Mrs. Crowell died Sunday at a Sebastopol hospital after a long illness. She was born in Miles, Tex. and had moved to Santa Rosa in 1953. She had worked for several motels in Santa Rosa.

She is also survived by a son, Gene Crowell of Sebastopol; five brothers, Leo Mierzwik of Concord, John, Paul, Jerome and Bernard Mierzwik of Texas; three sisters, Anna Logen, Mrs. Francis Ashmore and Agnes Pollard, all of Texas, and four grandchildren.

Recitation of the Rosary will be at 8 p.m. today at Sorensen Funeral Home, Petaluma. Burial will be at Calvary Cemetery.

MRS. ISAACS

Funeral for Edith Mae Isaacs, 89, a 10-year Petaluma resident, was held yesterday in Petaluma.

Mrs. Isaacs died Saturday at a local convalescent hospital after a lengthy illness. She was born in Ransom, Ill., and had lived in North Dakota for 45 years. Her late husband, Walter Isaacs, had owned and operated a jewelry store in LaMoure, N. D. for many years.

Mrs. Isaacs was a member of Bartholomew Chapter, Order of Eastern Star, LaMoure. She moved to Petaluma in 1962.

She is survived by two daughters, Barbara Larsen of Petaluma and Eleanor Stevens of San Diego, and a grandson.

IDA YEPEZ

A Mass of the Resurrection will be offered for Ida Roma Yepez, 56, of Novato, at 10 a.m. tomorrow at Our Lady of Loretto Church, Novato.

Mrs. Yepez, wife of Samual M. Yepez, died Sunday at a local hospital after a long illness. She lived at 8 Gothic Drive.

She was a native of California and had been a resident of Marin for five years.

Surviving, besides her husband, are two daughters, Mrs. Norman Terry of Novato and Carolyn Munn; a son, John Munn and two grandchildren.

Rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. today at Keaton's Chapel of Marin, Novato.

MRS. OLSEN

Catherine Olsen, 58, of Daly City, mother of Bradley Hall of Petaluma, died yesterday at a local convalescent hospital after a lengthy illness.

Mrs. Olsen was a native of New York and had lived in Daly City for the past 25 years. She had moved to Petaluma a month ago. Her late husband, Clyde Olsen, had worked for the Acme Brewing Co., San Francisco.

She is also survived by two other sons, Troy Hall of Bremerton, Wash., and Darryl Hall of Bakersfield; a sister, Marjorie Stenzi of Santa Ana, and six grandchildren.

Funeral will be held Friday at 9:30 a.m. at Parent Funeral Chapel, Petaluma. Burial will be at Golden Gate National Cemetery, San Bruno.

EZRA MILLER

Funeral arrangements for Ezra R. Miller, 63, of Novato were pending today in Newport, Ark.

Miller, of 56 Glen Road, died Saturday at a San Francisco hospital after a four-month illness.

He was a native of Arkansas and had been a resident of Calfornia for 14 years. Miller was a veteran of World War II and worked as a laborer.

Surviving are eight brothers, Herby of Novato; Clarence and Abe Miller of Illinois; Calvin and Laris Miller of Arkansas; Forest and Dale Miller of Missouri; and Marion Miller of Sonoma, and a sister, Bernice Brown of Georgia.

Burial will be in Arkansas.

MRS. EDMONDS

A Mass of Resurrection for Estelle R. Edmonds of Mill Valley was held yesterday in Our Lady of Mount Carmel Catholic Church. Mrs. Edmonds, 68, died Saturday in a local hospital after a long illness.

A native of Lansing, Mich., she had lived in California and Marin County eight years, residing at 2 Bigelow Avenue.

Mrs. Edmonds is survived by two daughters, Janet O'Rielly of Mill Valley and Deborah Edmonds of San Francisco and four grandchildren.

Burial was private.

STEFANO DePAOLI

A Mass of Resurrection for Stefano De Paoli of Mill Valley was held today at Our Lady of Mount Carmel Catholic Church. De Paoli, 90, died Saturday in a local hospital after a long illness.

A native of Italy, he had lived in California and Marin County 12 years, residing at 4 Azalea Drive. Prior to his illness, he was a self-employed custodian.

De Paoli is survived by his wife, Louise De Paoli; a daughter, Rosalyn Morini and two grandchildren, all of Mill Valley. He is also survived by a brother, Joe De Paoli of Benicia, Solano County.

Burial will be in the Italian Cemetery, Colma.

ROBERT BRADFORD

Robert F. Bradford, 75, of Novato, a retired maintenance man, died yesterday at a local hospital after a short illness.

Bradford retired 10 years ago from Marin Building Maintenance. He lived at 1602 Hotchkin Drive.

He had been a resident of Marin for 28 years and had worked at Marinship during World War II. He was a veteran of World War I.

Surviving are his wife, Doris, of Novato; a son, William F. Bradford of Petaluma, a daughter, Linda Lee Bradford, of Berkeley and four grandchildren.

Funeral will be at 1:30 p.m. tomorrow at the Redwood Chapel Funeral home. Burial will be at Cypress Hill Memorial Park, Petaluma.

MRS. ERICSON

Margaret K. Ericson, a lifelong resident of San Rafael, died yesterday in a local hospital after a long illness.

She was born and reared in San Rafael. Her husband, the late William A. Ericson was a retired locomotive engineer for the Northwestern Pacific Railroad. He died in 1952.

She is survived by a daughter, Muriel Weber of San Quentin; two sons, Waldo A. Ericson of San Rafael and John A. Ericson of Belvedere; 11 grandchildren, and five great-grandchildren.

A Mass of the Resurrection will be celebrated at 9:30 a.m., Thursday, at St. Raphael's Church, San Rafael. Recitation of the Rosary will be at 8 p.m. tomorrow at Harry M. Williams Mortuary, San Rafael. Burial will be in Mount Olivet Cemetery, San Rafael.

MICHAEL PETERS

Michael Peters, 69, retired Petaluma carpenter, died yesterday at a local hospital after collapsing at his home at 118 Upham Street.

The Sonoma County Coroners office said death was due to natural causes. Peters was born and reared in Chicago, moved to Phoenix 25 years ago and to Petaluma 15 years ago. He retired as a carpenter seven years ago.

He is survived by his wife, Eleanor; two daughters, Marian Scott of Laguna Beach and Shirley Schiefelbien of Lombard, Ill: a son, Ray Peters of Madison, Wis.; two brothers, Anthony Peters of Oklahoma City and Martin Peters of Ojai; two stepdaughters, Maxine Cernini and Harriet DeWitt of Petaluma; two stepsons, Lyle Plank of Petaluma and Albert Plank of San Jose; eight grandchildren, and a great grandchild.

Funeral will be held Thursday at 2:30 p.m. at the Parent Funeral Chapel, Petaluma. Burial will be at Cypres Hill Memorial Park.

HEARING

dienst sat relaxed with head bowed as they described him as an outstanding lawyer who, teamed with Mitchell, "has given law a new meaning in this country."

Committee liberals quickly began to turn Kleindienst's confirmation hearing into a broader examination of the administration's handling of law and order issues.

Given the first opportunity at questioning, Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., immediately zeroed in on the Justice Department's commitment to gun control legislation, among other things.

Bayh asked Kleindienst why the Department had not firmly supported legislation to ban cheap, small-caliber hand guns of the type used in many crimes, according to police statistics.

Leaning forward in his chair and puffing on a cigarette, Kleindienst answered that a federal ban on such guns "for all practical purposes would be unenforceable." But he said the Treasury Department, which administers gun laws, is working on proposed legislation.

"I think anybody charged with the administration of laws should lend his position to any reasonable step calculated to remove such weapons from society," Kleindienst said.

Also appearing before the committee was L. Patrick Gray III, nominated by Nixon to take Kleindienst's place as deputy attorney general. Senators from his home state of Connecticut appeared with him to urge support of his nomination.

First Tour: Hotel Kitchen

PEKING (UPI) — Pat Nixon nibbled her way through a Chinese kitchen today, again demonstrated her mastery of chopsticks, confessed that she is a mediocre cook, and said her husband's waistline was showing the effects of his love of Mandarin cooking.

The First Lady spent about 75 minutes on her first solo outing in Peking touring the kitchen of the Peking Hotel, whose chefs are acknowledged masters of the ancient art of Mandarin cuisine.

"I love Chinese cooking anywhere in the world, but it's especially good in China," she told reporters. Then she disclosed that "My husband always has cottage cheese for lunch, but he had the works in Chinese cooking and he's abandoning his Spartan diet while in the capital."

But she vowed she would get him back on the cottage cheese regimen when he returned to Washington.

Mrs. Nixon wore a flattering soft green jersey dress with a wide black belt. Her blonde hair was perfectly coiffured by the hairdresser who accompanied her from Washington.

Leading her tour of the Victorian-style building was the head of the hotel's Revolutionary Committee. He wore a gray Mao-cut suit and a red Mao button.

In the white-tiled, immaculate kitchen which was crowded with 110 chefs and helpers wearing white jackets and caps, she was told that it takes a decade to become a good Chinese cook.

"I've always been trying to be a good cook all my life," she said, "but I'm still not a good cook."

She leaned over at one point in the tour and kissed a small Chinese girl on the head. She chatted and shook hands with the chefs who stopped while slicing bamboo shoots with great cleavers on wooden boards. At one point she stuck her hand out, but the chef she aimed at had both hands full of dough. They both laughed.

"I'm really enjoying it," she said as she walked through the labyrinthian kitchen with steam and pungent odors pouring from huge cauldrons. "They're so friendly, warm-hearted and generous. I've loved every minute."

The Peking Hotel, one of the city's best, was built more than 70 years ago at the turn of the century. All the best Mandarin chefs are trained at its famous kitchen, and China's most famous dish, Peking duck, reportedly originated there — perhaps not the recipe, but certainly the execution. And execution is the right word, because properly cooked, it takes days to prepare.

She promised to try the Peking duck when she returned to Washington, and even invited the head chef to the White House for a Chinese dinner she said she would prepare.

On Mrs. Nixon's agenda for later in the day was some shopping and a visit to the Summer Palace. She said she would visit a peoples' commune Wednesday and that she and her husband were saving a trip to the Great Wall for Thursday.

ON HER OWN — Mrs. Richard Nixon admires a Chinese dragon statue at the famous Summer Palace in Peking. Mrs. Nixon put in a full day of sightseeing today while the President continued formal talks with Premier Chou En-lai. (UPI Telephoto)

Mrs. Chou, First Lady Hold Visit

PEKING (UPI) —While their husbands discussed matters of state, Mrs. Richard Nixon and Mrs. Chou En-lai met for the first time Monday but, according to the First Lady, their conversation cosisted primarily of "a few little asides."

"She isn't too well," Mrs. Nixon said of the wife of the Chinese premier, "but she made the effort to come out and I really appreciated it."

Neither the traveling White House nor the Chinese announced the visit to the Nixon guest house by Mrs. Chou, who fought in the revolution and participated in the 6,000-mile long march of the 1930s.

Mrs. ixon said that they talked about "how exciting the trip has been so far, and how generous the people are and friendly." Mrs. Chou does not speak English.

Asked if they devoted any of their discussion to Chinese women, the First Lady said "No, the men sort of got most of the conversation in and we just listened ... we got a few little asides."

Heredity Linked To Psoriasis

STANFORD (UPI) —A study by Stanford University dermatologists indicates that hereditary factors play a part in the contraction of the skin disease, psoriasis.

A higher incidence of the skin eruption was found among identical twins than among fraternal twins, according to Dr. Eugene M. Ferber.

In a report to the American Medical Association, Ferber concluded that "a genetic component is at play in the etiology of this disease."

He said that the frequency of psoriasis was "significantly higher" among relatives who have the disease than it was among a control group of the general population.

The Nixons Attend Ballet Performance

PEKING (UPI) —The revolutionary Chinese ballet performed for President and Mrs. Nixon tonight, "The Red Detachment of Women," was a highly professional, intensely dramatic, smooth flowing performance.

The Nixons capped a busy day by attending the two-hour ballet with Premier Chou Enlai. A translator sat between them to explain the action on the stage, and the Nixons appeared to enjoy a performance that drew tremendous applause from an enthusiastic crowd at the Great Hall of the People.

At first the stage was barren save for the small cast which danced in a thin shaft of spotlight that changed from red to blue to white. Scenery and props entered the act in what might be interpreted as the second act.

The dancing was graphic and highly melodramatic. The dancers performed to fast, exciting, symphonic music. Not only were the actions of the ballet portrayed in body movements, but in the changing expressions of the dancers.

The story was of a young girl who joined the Communist army. The setting is a Communist village during the 1930's, a village surrounded by Japanese invaders ultimately repulsed by the dedication of the army volunteers.

Costumes were simple and characteristic of Peking street clothing. The prima ballerina, an attractive young girl, wore a loose-fitting, burgandy pajama-type outfit. A long dark braid was flung over her shoulder and hung down in front.

The ballet was seen by early morning television viewers in America. The viewers were given extensive interpretation of its story by Chinese commentators.

The second act of the performance, with an expanded cast, contrasted sharply with the first act that used fewer than half a dozen performers.

The dancers wore only eye makeup. Their eyes were a vital part of the performance, expressing emotions from sadness to jubilation to revelation to move the story along.

They were acrobatic, a twist of the hand, an arched back, a kick, a leap, a split —all to strident, uplifting music.

Just before the finish, in the dramatic highlight of the evening, the prima ballerina reached up to grasp the flag of the Red Army. A look of revelation and piety crossed her face as she burrowed her cheek in the fabric.

AEC Post Filled

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Veteran Atomic Energy Commission executive Robert D. Thorne has been appointed manager of the AEC's San Francisco operations office.

Thorne, an AEC executive since 1955, succeeds Ellison C. Shute, who retires April 14 after a 36-year career.

Beret Acquitted Of Murder

LONG BINH, Vietnam (UPI) —Green Beret S.1. C. Andre J. St. Laurent, who said he shot another soldier during a scuffle in a Vietnamese steam bath last Nov. 4, was acquitted of murder Monday by a U.S. Army military tribunal.

St. Laurent, a Canadian who recently acquired U.S. citizenship, said he accidentally shot Spec. 4 Martin M. Vasquez when Vasquez attacked him in the steam room.

He said the scuffle occurred after he heard screams and ran into a massage cubicle where Vasquez was brawling with a Vietnamese masseuse.

When he intervened, Vasquez attacked him instead, and during the struggle a gun went off, he said.

Dock Pay Now Up To Pay Board

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— With West Coast longshoremen back on the docks and their 135-day strike over, the only question is whether the U.S. Pay Board will approve their new contract.

The contract, ending the longest and costliest waterfront walkout in U.S. History, calls for $1.12 an hour in pay increases, a $5.2 million package providing for a guaranteed weekly wage, and improved pensions and other benefits.

The wage increase is in two steps, 72 cents an hour retroactive to last Dec. 25, which raises the longshoremen's base pay to $5 an hour, plus another 40 cents next July 1.

The wage increases in the contract exceed the pay board guidelines for pay hikes, but the board has made other exceptions in approving recent labor contracts."

President Nixon issued a statement in Peking Monday saying he was gratified the strike was over, but noted that the settlement was still "subject to approval by the pay board."

Nixon also took time out from his China visit to sign a law passed by Congress during the strike to force the longshoremen back to work and have a new contract determined by arbitration.

Secretary of Labor James D. Hodgson said in Washington that it seemed "appropriate" for the President to sign the bill even board as to whether the agreethough the strike was ended by negotiation and the law cannot be applied to any other walkout.

The labor secretary also noted that it was "now up to the pay board as to whether the agreement fits their criteria."

Female Bandit Was Persistent

ATLANTA (UPI)—Bank officials said a female bandit approached a teller Monday and handed her a note.

"Give me all your money," the note said. "Someone is watching you."

The teller at the Citizens and Southern Branch bank told the woman that her station did not handle money.

The bandit thanked her and then went to another teller with the note.

The second teller turned over her money and the woman fled.

Panicky Robber

CARMAGNOLA, Italy (UPI) —A panicky bank robber shot his two pistols into a crowd of bank customers, killing one man and wounding two, before someone knocked him out with a chair, police said Monday. Most bank robberies in Italy do not result in bloodshed; in the past 10 years only 16 persons were killed in 1,205 bank or post office holdups.

It's Unanimous

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Without debate and by unanimous voice vote, the Senate approved the nomination of Peter G. Peterson Monday to be Secretary of Commerce. Peterson succeeds Maurice H. Stans, who resigned to head the fundraising effort for President Nixon's re-election campaign.

A COMIC BOOK

Cartoonist Uses Mao For Capitalism Debut

By KIYO S. MOURAKAMI
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

TOKYO — China is one of the hottest topics of conversation all over the world. So it is in the world of comic books in Japan. A comic book on the life of Chairman Mao Tse-tung is one of the best sellers in the country.

More than 200,000 copies were sold at 180 yen (approximately 60 cents) since the first publication in mid-1971. Now hard cover copies of the same comic book are on sale at 530 yen ($1.80).

"I am especially interested in Mao's life, ... that he struggled through those difficult days in China to become Chairman of the Communist Party in 1949," said Tomoo Abiko, the 38-year-old cartoonist who drew the book.

After reading Edgar Snow's "Red Star Over China" about 10 years ago, he knew he wanted to draw the chairman someday, "but I didn't try until about two years ago. At that time, a publishing house mentioned to me that it was considering a book on Mao. I jumped at the idea," Abiko recalled.

He calls the book, which took about six months from start to finish, one of his experiments. "I wanted to show our readers in an easy way how Chairman Mao lived. I also wanted to prove that we cartoonists can do more than drawings for small children. We can teach people something serious through cartoons," Abiko commented.

Within weeks of publication, the cartoonist received many encouraging comments from readers.

"I remember very well one letter from an old man. He wrote that a roof I had drawn in my book was a bit different from the real ones found in China, where the old man had once lived. Letters like that were encouraging and educational," Abiko said.

From such letters, Tomoo Abiko could judge the age of his readers, which he estimated to be from 13 to 77 years. His original hypothesis — that cartoons could appeal to all ages — was proved right.

The research on Chairman Mao and the contemporary culture in China was a tough job. "For example," recalls. Abiko, "I had to draw his first wife according to my imagination, as I could not find any pictures of her in Japan. After I had drawn her and had the picture printed for publication, I managed to get her photograph through a Chinese government office here. To my great surprise, I found that the woman in the picture was very similar to the one I had drawn.

"I am glad that Chinese people here are quite favorable in response to my book. But I am not particularly interested in politics and have no political aspirations whatsoever," the cartoonist explained.

"But," he added, "any of those people who struggled through life to achieve greatness are always fascinating to me."

For Abiko, who had been an impoverished artist since he came to Tokyo in 1952 from his hometown in northeastern Japan, this Mao story is a step on the road to his own success.

GIs 'Trapped' On Burial Cost, Report Claims

WASHINGTON (UPI) —A report by a group of George Washington University law students has charged hundreds of U.S. veterans are being trapped into costly burial arrangements by private cemetery owners who offer "free" grave sites.

The report issued Monday said a growing number of private cemeteries offer veterans "privileges to burial plots and services at advantageous rates" and then overcharge veterans' widows for crypts, markers and grave opening services.

Cited in the study was the case of an elderly Norfolk, Va. woman, Mrs. Raymond Wolford, who had to exhume her husband's body because she was unable to pay $1,100 for a "free" grave.

There was no immediate comment about the charges from the National Association of Cemeteries.

N. M. Senator Backs Jackson

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Sen. Clinton P. Anderson of New Mexico today endorsed Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington for the Democratic presidential nomination.

In a letter to party officials in New Mexico, Anderson said, "The candidate we nominate to head the ticket at the Democratic convention must be a man who can appeal to a broad spectrum of voters, including our traditioal workingman constituency.

"He must also be the kind of man who can draw solid support from middle-of-the-road voters as well as capture a certain amount of disillusioned Republicans.

"I firmly believe Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington is that man," Anderson concluded.

In another development, Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine yielded to the prodding of his rival Democratic presidential hopefuls and agreed to meet them in public debate. Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota quickly issued a statement welcoming such a debate.

In Boston, Sen. George S. McGovern, D-S.D., urged a complete overhaul of federal programs for the elderly including lowering the eligible age forfull social security from 65 to 62.

Muskie gave his go-ahead for a debate in a letter to Democratic National Chairman Lawrence O'Brien.

"I respectfully request that you contact other declared candidates to make suitable arrangements," said the senator.

Until now, Muxkie had been playing the traditional role of the front runner, arguing that he had everything to lose and nothing to gain from a debate while the reverse held true for his competitors.

Also McGovern, one of those who has been needling Muskie on the debate issue, defended school busing as "one of the penalties we pay for having constructed a segregated society."

McGovern told students at the University of Virginia in Charlottesville, that he considered busing "an inconvenience and a nuisance" but that he also felt"you can't rule that integration in the schools is important and not do something to achieve it."

Meanwhile, Jackson, stumping hard in Jacksonville for the prize share of Florida's March 14 primary vote, attacked Muskie for saying recently that busing "works."

"He's quite an expert in this area," said Jackson. "He's got his kids in private schools. I am the only candidate from the Senate who has his child in a public school."

Jackson's 9-year-old daughter attends a public elementary school in one of Washington's most fashionable sections. It is about one-third black, with most of the Negro children bused in from poorer sections to fill vacancies.

Alabama Gov. George Wallace, the acknowledged leader in Florida and the most vocal antibusing, antibasing, speculated in Annapolis, Md., that a Wallce victory in the Florida contest might induce the President to abolish busing by executive order. Such a directive could influence desegregation plans initiated by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare but would not carry any legal weight on busing ordered by the courts.

—New york Mayor John Lindsay shifted his campaigning into Florida today where he planned to address separate sessions of the state House and Senate. In the capitol of Wisconsin Monday Lindsay got a rousing welcome from a crowd of about 2,500 students and teachers at Madison East High School.

Kerr Play To Open On Friday

The Marin Repertory Theater will present Jean Kerr's "Mary, Mary" at the Corte Madera Recreation Center Friday and Saturday at 8 p.m. and again March 3 and 5 at the same time.

The play is directed by Donald Walker and Victor Massad and stars Adrienne Farrel, Michael Percy, Patrick Vaughan, Gregory Brockbank and Annie Long.

It is a situation comedy about a man and wife in the process of a divorce. They still love each other, however, and she returns to him because he is having income tax problems. The plot is further complicated by the fact that he is about to marry another woman.

Bill To Focus On Heart Disease Rate

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Sen. Richard S. Schweiker, R-Pa., believes the United States should determine why it has "the worst rate of heart disease of any industrialized nation in the world."

Schweiker introduced legislation Monday that would establish national centers for prevention of arteriosclerosis and cardiovascular disease and an office of health education within the national heart and lung institute.

Tam Fire Dept. Gets Cash Gift

Paid and volunteer firemen in the Tamalpais Fire Department have received a $150.55 gift from the Committee for Fire Protection, which had the money left over after an unsuccessful bond issue election campaign several years ago.

Robert M. Glessner, chairman of the committee, said the money was given to Fire Chief William G. Canlett to divide equally between the district's two stations "to purchase conveniences which would not ordinarily be included in the district budget" for use by the paid and volunteer firemen.

Chief Canlett said firemen previously purchased color television sets with their own money for use by men on duty in the station, and probably would put the gift to similar use.

Glessner said the gift originally came from donations to support the bond campaign, mostly from persons who expressed gratitude for services they had received from the district's firemen.

Peking's Like The Bronx: A Reporter's Random Thoughts

By NORMAN KEMPSTER

PEKING (UPI)—THis ancient capital probably looks less like the stereotype of China than does the Chinatown section of San Francisco. In fact, with its row of barracks-like red brick apartment houses, it more closely resembles a working class section of The Bronx.

Certainly, there are areas of colorful tile buildings with the picturesque curlicue pagoda roofs that Americans usually equate with China. But there are many more plain buildings, constructed of red brick and adobe.

The streets are very wide and at times almost deserted, appearing to belie the fact that this city of 4 million-plus is the capital of the world's most populous nation.

The air is clear because there are few motorized vehicles. Most of the residents walk or pedal bicycles.

I commented on the clean air to a Chinese newsman, who smiled and explained: "The people have followed Chairman Mao's order to clean up pollution."

The chairman is everywhere. China watchers who harbor the theory that Mao's star is descending are wrong. His blown-up portraits are everywhere. His picture is on little badges the people wear. And his slogans are quoted like the gospel.

The hottest selling tourist item in Peking among visiting Americans is the acupuncture doll.

For less than one U.S. dollar, you can get a doll complete with a set of long acupuncture needles. The doll also has the proper nerve endings to permit simulated practice of the ancient Chinese medical art.

Despite their unisex clothing, many women in Peking are quite feminine and pretty, though eschewing makeup.

The slinky, slit skirts that once meant high style in China have given way to baggy slacks and loose-fitting coats and jackets, all in drab colors. Their hair is trimmed short and lacks style, but there is a femininity that not even the sack-look can hide, even when the woman is a member of the People's Liberation Army and carries a rifle tipped with a gleaming bayonet.

The Chinese had said there would be no censorship of the press, and they are more than living up to that promise.

American correspondents file copy freely and the Chinese telegraph aides are friendly and smiling.

There is no tipping in China and correspondents are wondering how they are going to justify expense accounts.

Lin Huei-ching, the female world champion women's table tennis player, said that she would like to visit the United States someday —perhaps when the Chinese team makes an American tour this spring.

She was invited to the state dinner in honor of President and Mrs. Nixon and was a symbol of the ping pong diplomacy that led to Nixon's breakthrough with the Chinese.

Instead of saying that she would like to play against some of the American women ping pong players, the pretty Miss Huei-Ching, 30, told a reporter "I would be very glad to be able to make a contribution to the friendship of the United States American peoples."

The Chinese people and the reporters covering the trip are beginning to warm to each other.

Unusual And Cruel —Because Of Courts

One day soon, the "little green room" at San Quentin Prison will be dismantled. Death Row will be emptied, with its 101 inmates reassigned elsewhere in the prison. San Quentin officials will dispose of the prison's supply of deadly cyanide tablets.

There will be no more legal executions in California — at least for awhile.

The United States Supreme Court is expected to rule in about two months on whether the death penalty comes under the constitutional proscription against "cruel and unusual punishments" (the Seventh Amendment). It may have difficulty doing so, since elsewhere in the Bill of Rights (Fifth Amendment) is the provision that no one shall be "deprived of life, liberty or property without due process of law" — which appears quite definitely To recognize the death penalty.

THE CALIFORNIA Supreme Court, however, decided last week that taking a human life in punishment for crime violates the California Constitution, which forbids "cruel OR unusual punishment." In a semantic exercise, the court held that infliction of the death penalty is unusual, therefore it is forbidden by the state constitution.

The court was on sound ground as the situation exists at present. There has not been a legal execution in the United States for over four years, so certainly the penalty may be called highly unusual at this time.

The reason there has been no execution in such a long time, however, is that imposition of death sentences has been held up awaiting the snail-like progress through the legal labyrinth of several challenges to their constitutionality. The U.S. Supreme Court has repeatedly dodged the issue. But it has promised a decision during its current session.

The unusualness of execution, therefore, is a creation of the court processes themselves.

THE SAME IS TRUE of the long wait of prisoners on Death Row, which the state court also declared is cruel (though it could hardly call it unusual).

Keeping men and women year after year in uncertainty as to when — and if — the death sentences imposed on them will be carried out is certainly cruelty.

It happens because of the procedures set up by the courts themselves (with legislative assistance) which make trial and conviction merely preliminary to the legal fight on behalf of the felon.

The unusualness of the death penalty, and the cruelty of the wait for it, thus are both creations of the courts. If they are unconstitutional, the courts are to blame for the constitution being broached.

Feeding the Plants

The lady at our home is an avid gardener. Like many Marin gardeners, she has developed a feeling for plants which is reflected in her speech.

"That poor little fuchsia is thirsty. I must give it a drink," she will say. Or, "Our dear azalea looks a little pale. I will give it a special feeding."

Who knows? Maybe plants, like animals, respond to this kind of doting care. Anyway, we've had no complaints.

SACRAMENTO SCENE

System Of Former Years Moved Legislation Faster

By EARL G. WATERS

While legislative leaders have announced a determination to improve procedures to avoid a repetition of the lengthy and somewhat futile 1971 session, no evidence of progress in this direction is yet apparent.

In fact, the setting of April 7 as the last day for bill introductions would seem in opposition to such plans. Since measures cannot be heard until 30 days after introduction, the date set seems to assure another extended session. Under current practices, bills generally must be screened by two committees in each house. If there is a deluge of last-minute bills on April 7 the committees will be bogged down. Unless it is intended to give short shrift to late proposals, it can be expected the Legislature will be in session through the summer. Either way the promised improvements are absent.

PERHAPS THE PROBLEM is simply one of not knowing how to improve. When it is realized that 90 of the 120 legislators have been members no longer than 10 years, and more than half of the total have five years or less of service, this is understandable.

Excepting for Senators Collier, Grunsky and Dills and Assemblymen Thomas, Conrad, Collier and Porter, none were here in the days when the Legislature met only every two years. Some others served before the annual sessions but after the budget session was introduced. The budget sessions rapidly grew in length with the many special items placed on the agenda by the various governors. The effect was almost the same as having regular annual sessions and actually led to the decision for regular annual meetings, which started in 1967. It was at that time that 30 new assemblymen and eight new senators arrived on the scene. Since then 18 more assemblymen and five senators have taken office.

Back in the days of biennial sessions, bills were introduced in the first 30 days. By March things were rolling with both houses meeting every weekday. The members knew they didn't have any time to waste. They sometimes met on Saturdays and even Sundays. Holidays were just another workday. Under this schedule sessions were usually concluded by mid-June.

Under the old system most committees met at night. This avoided conflict with the legislative sessions.

IN TODAY'S OPERATIONS, with one house meeting in the forenoon and the other afternoon, committees are scheduled in opposition to one house or the other. This means members must leave the floor to present their bills before cmmittees of the opposite house.

Because of this there has developed an intolerable absenteeism both in the sessions and in the committees. The members simply cannot be in attendance on the floor and handle their bills in committee at the same time.

Having once discovered it is not mandatory to be on the floor all during a session, there has been a growing tendency to be absent for reasons other than appearing before committees.

Whether the newer members realize it or not, much has been lost in debate because of this absenteeism. And without the exchange of arguments on the floor a deliberative body is not truly deliberative.

While there does not seem to be much sentiment at present for a return to biennial sessions, a major effort to eliminate meeting conflicts is essential to legislative improvement.

One way would be for both houses to meet simultaneously and not schedule committee meetings during the hours sessions are normally in progress.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Court Ruling Belongs On The Comic Page

At times, you come up with great classics for ironic amusement on your page ones. For instance, the one where our superstar supreme court solemnly intoned, with perfect straight-faced delivery, that capital punishment is "incompatible with the dignity of man."

A pity it wasn't signed, "Your Exalted Masters, Kings of Kings, Lords of the Earth, Monarchs of the Sun and Rulers of the Universe and All the Galaxies."

It would have been a smash on the comic page.

Council Missed Chance To Improve Center

We wonder how many San Rafael residents are aware of the action that was taken last week by the city council concerning Montecito Shopping Center. The council has overturned the planning commission's unanimous recommendation that all free-standing signs be removed permanently from the center. They thereby passed up the opportunity to upgrade and beautify what has long been one of the homeliest and distastefully unplanned shopping areas in the county. Perhaps the councilmen were unaware of San Rafael residents' concern about Montecito's appearance. We therefore urge all concerned people to correspond immediately with Councilmen Jensen and Barbier and Mayor Bettini in order that their concerns be heard before it is too late.

When our Senator Tunney was campaigning for office, he promised that he would be a "fighter" in representing his constituents. If we had "truth in packaging" for politicians, it appears he should be billed as "a skier, not a fighter" to judge by the fact he was reported off skiing in Europe when key votes came up in the Senate.

Veterinary Association Fixes Spaying Price

In response to Mrs. Leo Schober's letter regarding the Marin County Humane Society.

The Humane Society passes out pamphlets about the crisis of animal surplus breeding.

If you have ever been to the Humane Society Center you would see the posters that have been posted around the premises explaining the pet over-population. The Humane Society is not responsible for the pet over-population. It's you, the person who lets their dog stray and cat run around unspayed.

Also the Humane Society did not set the prices for spaying, the Marin County Veterinarian Association did. The ABC clinic is not a member of this association. However the Humane Society has a rule that if you can get the operation done cheaper you may receive a refund.

I also believe that the Humane Society is doing a wonderful job, and don't think they deserve to be criticized by anyone.

Pass-Fail, Optional Attendance: Why Not Eliminate College?

By Dr. JOHN W. GILBAUGH
Professor of Education, San Jose State College

Most students expect higher marks than they earn in college and university classes. And the gap between expectation and actual achievement is often a source of conflict between students and their professors.

Because rapport with students has become a primary objective of most college teachers, academic achievement has been relegated to a position of secondary importance. Rapport at any price is the philosophy which currently determines virtually all policies on most college and university campuses.

ONE CONCESSION made to students in the interest of rapport in recent years has been the pass-fail grading system, which sacks everything from D- to A+ in the same bag. Whoever heard of a student failing a subject graded on a pass-fail basis? What a fraud it is on the employer of a graduate whose college transcript conceals inferior achievement by a pass-fail system of grading! Why not go the rest of the way and merely report that Joe Doaks was enrolled at Podunk University, giving dates of attendance, and that he was awarded a certificate of enrollment?

Many schools have eliminated mandatory attendance in classes, and forbid instructors from using class attendance as a factor in calculating grades. Would not taxpayers benefit if the standard baccalaureate degree were conferred upon graduating high school seniors? California requires that achievement at eight grade level in some academic areas be accomplished for high school graduation. Would not the awarding of the high school diploma to grammar school graduates save a great deal of taxpayer pain and parental frustration?

BACK TO THE OPENING statement. For several semesters this educator has tried out a new dimension in evaluating student performance in his college classes.

In classes conducted with a lecture-discussion approach evaluation includes objective-type examinations over specific subject matter read before and discussed during class sessions, and an appraisal of contributive discussion by each class member. In the interest of objectivity students are asked to fill out a student advisory evaluation form in which they rate each other on contributive discussion. They are admonished to remember that all talk may not be contributive. They are also asked to rate themselves in comparison with other class members.

Some most interesting results have surfaced from this experiment. The following tentative conclusions seem to be apparent: (1) There is little or no relationship between the generally high academic esteem in which a student views himself and the level of academic esteem in which he is held by his fellow students. (2) There is little or no relationship, or possibly a negative relationship, between academic performance as measured by objective-type examinations and contributive participation in class discussion as evlauated by a student's peers.

With the "rap session" style of teaching growing in favor, one wonders how much basic subject matter college students are absorbing in some classes. And with the pass-fail system of grading expanding in popularity, both the professors and students are moving beyond the reach of the taxpayer who cries in vain for accountability.

Mails Move More Slowly While Postal Service Increases Rates

WASHINGTON — The theory was that a postal service divorced from the patronage control of Congress would be able to move a letter between two principal cities in, say, a day and a half instead of two to three days. Efficiency, economy — that was the pitch of former Postmaster General Winton M. Blount, a supersalesman, who argued that it was time to junk the old mess for a business operation.

Today, nearly two years after the divorce, the turgid mass of the mail moves at the same glacial pace. Nothing so directly touches millions of Americans as the delay and uncertainty in the delivery of the mails. It is everybody's business and yet almost nobody seems able to do anything about it, if only because the process has the same impenetrable bureaucratic look as it had when Congress was calling the shots.

ELMER CERIN, a Washington lawyer who has made himself a postal expert, did a careful study last year on first-class mail delivery. He concluded that a program heralded as making better use of manpower and equipment had resulted in increasing mail handling time by 29 per cent for outgoing letter mail originating and destined for the nation's 10 principal post offices. The Cerin study was put in the Congressional Record by Sen. Gale McGee, chairman of the Post Office and Civil Service Committee, with the threat that the Post Office Reorganization Act would be greatly modified or even repealed if things did not look up.

A fair-minded man, Cerin says there has been a slight improvement since he did his study. But it is almost imperceptible as the Postal Service faces the same frozen structure of union rigidity, rapid turnover of personnel and outmoded techniques as under the old system.

The choice is between stepping up efficiency and raising rates in the hope that more money will turn the trick. A business operation, the service was to pay its own way and Congress surrendered control over mail rates.

IN MAY the first-class letter rate went from six cents to eight cents. The air mail rate is soon to jump from 11 to 13 cents. Business and banks, the principal users of first-class mail, will simply pass it on to the consumer, which means another upward notch in the inflationary spiral.

The power of the postal service over rates cuts a wide swath. It threatens to put in further jeopardy the printed word that is now hard pressed under the impact of television. Nothing could illustrate this better than the way the Nixon China expedition is tailored for the cameras with the new technology of the satellite.

Under the old system Congress provided a subsidy for second-class mail covering magazines and newspapers. This was in the belief, advanced in the early days of the republic, in the educational value of the printed word. With that subsidy wiped out, the Postal Service is proposing a 142 per cent increase in second-class rates.

IN TESTIMONY the other day before Sen. Sam Ervin's subcommittee on freedom of information, Andrew Heiskell, chairman of the board of Time, Inc., said the increase would raise the mailing costs of Time's four magazines by $27 million over a five-year period.

The concept of the subsidy as underwriting education has been stretched a long way, with publications pandering to sensationalism and others that offer thinly disguised political propaganda. Life's squalid conduct in the Clifford Irving case hardly merits sympathy.

Yet the demise of the printed word is a fact of the television era. Collier's, the Saturday Evening Post, and Look have gone, and Life suffers heavy losses. Metropolitan dailies benefited little, if at all, from the subsidy, since distribution was largely by truck. But weeklies, the specialized periodicals of nationwide organizations, and a host of other printed media will feel the heavy hand of the rate increase.

Setting up published service standards late last year, the postal service promised one-day delivery within a 600-mile radius for first-class mail and a 95 per cent improvement in delivery of air mail. The way is open for infinite improvement.

20 Million Non-Readers In U.S. —And The Number Is Increasing

It's tough enough making ends meet these days even if you have a good education.

You can imagine what it's like for people who can't read and write.

In a technological society, with an ever-dwindling demand for brute manual labor, an illiterate person is perhaps even more cruelly handicapped than one who is blind or crippled.

The illiterate can't fill out the papers necessary to apply for a job, or for unemployment compensation. He can't read the newspapers so he may not know about things — such as food stamps or free health services — that the government makes available to relieve his poverty He can't vote, or get a driver's license, or read his mail, even if it happens to include something very important, such as a foreclosure notice.

NO NATION with a trillion dollar economy should leave anyone in this fix.

Yet there are in the United States today at least three million adults who are totally unable to read or write. And the U.S. Office of Education estimates there are upwards of 20 million other — young and old — who are such poor readers as to be "functionally" illiterate. That's more than 10 per cent of the population of a land which prides itself on high educational standards.

By contrast, our chief rival for world power, the Soviet Union, has an illiteracy rate of only two per cent.

So what are wo doing about it? Put that question to the U.S. Office of Education, and you'll be subjected to a barrage of information, facts, figures and jargon — especially the latter — about their new "right to read program."

The stated goal of this program, says its director, Dr. Ruth Love Holloway, is to "insure that 99 per cent of the people in the United States 16 years of age and 90 per cent of those over 16 will be functionally literate by 1980.

THE GOAL SOUNDS FINE, but as so often is the case with federal programs, there has been to date a lot more talk about what's going to be done than actual achievement.

During the current fiscal year, the Office of Education scraped up $10 million from various sources to get the program going. An awful lot of this went into overhead — as always happens in such programs. But they did manage to teach reading and writing skills to 60,000 adults.

That's right — 60,000 in the whole country. Dr. Holloway concedes this is scarcely a drop in the bucket of need. In fact, she estimates they are actually losing ground, and that the number of illiterates is increasing by 200,000 a year.

ONE WOULD LIKE to be able to report that President Nixon, aghast at the problem, is hurling massive new federal resources into the battle. But the sad truth is that his federal budget for the coming 1973 fiscal year allocates only $14 million to the "right to read" program.

Mary Jean LeTendre, chief of the "right to read task force" of the adult education section of the U.S. Office of Education, reluctantly agreed with my observation that "this sounds like a token program."

"But it really is much more than that," she insisted. "We are building up slowly, testing various methods, financing pilot projects and Having them evaluated by outside experts. We want to be sure we have something that works.

"When we can show real results, I'm confident we'll get the money to expand training activities as much as necessary. We hope that, by demonstrating how it can be done, we may draw a lot of other people, including the whole public school system, into helping do this job."

Anyway, Joint Airport Use Was Fun While It Lasted

Marin historians studying joint civilian-military use of the Richard Nave International Airport, formerly known as Hamilton Air Force Base, uncovered evidence in 1987 which they believe led to abandonment of the airfield.

Hidden in a buried foot locker was a tape recording of the following speeck by a commanding officer to the troops:

"GENTLEMEN, I'VE CALLED this meeting today because the situation has become urgent.

"Ever since we've had civilian planes at the field, you've been acting more like civilian pilots than military men, and it's got to stop.

"First of all, there will be extra week-end duty for all of you who claimed you were hijacked to Las Vegas last month, particularly the paymaster who said the hijacker parachuted out with the base payroll.

"Also, we've had some complaints from the wives about those of you who are carrying hostesses aboard, and that includes the wise guy who painted the slogan 'coffee, tea or me' on his plane.

"Fortunately, your advertising slogan 'I'm Freddie . . . fly me to Travis,' was a flop.

"YOU ALL KNOW we have rules against moonlighting on Air Force time, so all you helicpoter pilots will have to knock off sending those freeway traffic reports to the radio stations and you men in the weather station will have to cut off the outside work, particularly that guy who's been working as the weather girl on Channel 47.

"As for you fighter pilots who have been selling tickets for thrilling rides over Marin, you might have gotten away with it if it hadn't been for the passenger who had to eject at 10,000 feet over Angel Island.

"I might also remind you that the secretary of the Air Force has cancelled movies on flights, since three squadrons strayed over enemy territory while viewing an X-rated film.

"Now, a word about security. It's not necessary for control tower operators to announce flight schedules at the terminal during secret training missions.

"Of course, you all know of the case of the pacifist in our midst, who refused to carry his bombs because they9were over the weight limit for luggage.

"And as for the guy who cancelled General Cribbage's reservation to fly to Washngton, the less said the better."

IN ANOTHER CORNER of the footlocker was a telegram to the general from Golden Fleece Airways:

"Urgent. We repeat request that your fighter planes stop shooting down our aircraft for practice. We have lost 13 planes this year and business is falling off."

In Shadow Of Great Wall, Presidential Muse Takes Wings

WASHINGTON — President Nixon is prepared for any emergency that might arise while he is in China. His staff has been working for months on every contingency the President might face. I can now reveal that the President, after hearing that Mao Tse-tung writes poetry, is carrying poetry of his own in his briefcase to rad to Mao when the occasion presents itself. These are the poems that Nixon could spring on Mao Tse-tung at any time:

If I must fly in a Chinese plane,
Will Air Force One be far behind?

I STAND at the Great Wall with Pat at my side.
And as I breathe the centuries of history,
the New Hampshire primary looks very small.

There are no clouds in the sky,
the wind is but a whisper in the trees,
lakes sparkle as birds sing,
it's a good day to bomb Cambodia.

THE JOURNEY of a thousand miles must begin with one single step.
Unless you go to school and have to take a bus.
Daybreak comes quietly,
sneaking up on the dark.
The sun finally commands the earth.
I hope Kissinger had a good night.

A dog barks, an eagle cries.
The birds take flight,
the deer stand frightened.
I told them Phase II would work.

The streams rush down from the mountain washing the rocks with blue.
The woods are filled with buds
as spring wipes the frost from her eyes.
I wonder if it's too early in the year to call a football coach.

I MADE THIS journey into yesterday
because I must think about tomorrow.
If I should trip or lose my way
I'll deny it.

When I look at the universe, I am nothing.
When I look at a rose, I am nothing.
When I look at a newborn baby, I am nothing.
When I look at the ocean, I am nothing.
When I look at the polls, I am 49 per cent.

As the sun sets over the Yellow River and the moon rises in the China Sea,
I reach to the stars with both hands
knowing I will be on American TV.

Funds For Hub Park Activities To Be Studied

The San Anselmo City Council will consider request for funds from the city parks and recreation department, when it meets at 8 p.m. today in the city hall.

Gary Howell, parks and recreation director, requested $1,680 for the senior citizens in 1972-73 budget at the council's Feb. 15 meeting. He also asked for $600 for lighting improvements inside Robson House and $500 for improvements to the recreation office at Memorial Park.

Other items to come before the council include directional signs for the First Presbyterian Church, a protest of the application fee for signs at Ten Bank Street Boutique, accepting a deed for a portion of Creekside Park, changes in the salary negotiation unit and extension of eligibility list for police sergeants.

Lung Disease Research Sought

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. Robert C. Byrd, D-W. Va., said today he will seek a $10 million appropriation to step up research on black lung disease.

The disease plagues coal miners.

Byrd said he will offer an amendment to the labor and HEW appropriation bill adding $10 million to "develop improved or new methods of diagnosis of pneumoconlosis (black lung), especially those methods which enable miners to qualify for black lung benefits under the Social Security system."

Probation In Marijuana Case

Gregg P. Stacy, 22, of no known address, has been placed on probation for one year and sentenced to the time he has already served in jail for a marijuana offense.

Stacy, who was arrested in November 1970, had already served about 45 days in jail.

He was arrested after Sausalito police stopped his car for a traffic violation and found four kilos of grass in the car.

Earlier this month he pleaded guilty to possessing the drug and a more serious charge of possessing it for sale was dismissed.

He was sentenced Friday by Judge Joseph G. Wilson of Marin Superior Court.

School Will Bring 'How To Succeed'

San Rafael High School music and drama department students will present the musical, "How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying," March 2, 3 and 4 in the high school auditorium.

The Pulitzer prize-winning musical will have nearly 100 students in this production. Curtain time is 8 p.m. for each performance.

Main characters include: Finch, played by Douglas Smith; Rosemary, by Carol Brannan; J. B. Biggley, by Bradford Curry, and Bud Frump, by Gregory Hassold.

Barbara Jay will direct the musical, which is a takeoff on the book by the same name. Shepherd Mead wrote the book; and Frank Loesser and Abe Burrows wrote the musical.

Miss Jay will will be assisted by Karen Pullin of the University of Washington as technical director and Bobby Hernandez of the College of Marin as set designer. Byron Jones is choral director and Charles Perrier the choreography director. Hugo Rinaldi will conduct the orchestra.

Warning To Buyers In Recreation Areas

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — The Bay Area Consumer Protection Coordinating Committee, which includes federal, state and local law enforcement agencies, has issued a warning to Bay Area residents considering buying lots in outlying recreational areas.

After numerous complaints regarding sales of recreational subdivision property, the committee is advising potential buyers to be "extremely careful when considering purchase of these lots."

The committee warned that buyers should review the official state subdivision public report on property, which the developer is required to furnish. The buyer should note whether the report says that recreational facilities are guaranteed or merely "planned" or "proposed."

Claims that land will quickly appreciate in value should be met with scepticism, the committee said. So should sales pitches which urge the buying of two or more lots for "investment."

Buyers also should check the cost of owning a lot in a subdivision, such as cost of the streets, drains, fire protection, cost of electrical hookup and taxes.

The committee said that under a new state law which becomes effective March 1, a buyer has a right to cancel a purchase contract within 14 days and get his money back.

Suspicious sales practices and advertising claims should be reported to the California Department of Real Estate, local district attorney or the state attorney general's office in San Francisco.

Rescued From Ventilator Shaft

DENVER (UPI) —Jimm Harr, 18, and six companions were exploring an abandoned missile silo on the Lowry Air Force Base bombing range Monday when Harr and another teen-ager tried to crawl through a ventilation shaft.

The weight of their bodies triggered a pressurized circular 3,000-pound steel cover which shut and trapped them inside the shaft.

Traffic Suit On Moscone Settled

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —An out-of-court settlement of $25,000 has ended a traffic suit against Sen. George Moscone, D-San Francisco.

Moscone was originally sued by John Taylor of Sacramento for $250,000 as an outgrowth of an accident in April, 1971, in the parking lot of a suburban Sacramento shopping center.

Taylor contended he was injured in a collision between his car and a state-owned auto driven by Moscone.

Land Rezoning Likely Tonight

The Corte Madera Town Council is expected to rezone 7.5 acres on Tamal Vista Boulevard and make three appointments at its meeting beginning at 7:30 p.m. today.

The site where the boulevard intersects the Northwestern Pacific Railroad had been zoned for apartments to allow a development, but when that fell through, a move to rezone it again to light industrial gained momentum.

Two vacancies exist on the town park and recreation commission and the council is considering creating another seat on the board of adjustments.

Among the 20 other items to be discussed is a possible request that the Northwestern Pacific fill its tunnel through town because of fears it will cave in.

MEMBERS OF the Marin Circle of the Florence Crittenton Home of San Francisco will attend the 10th annual Florence Crittenton volunteers' seminar Thursday at 9:30 a.m. at the FIrst Unitarian Church in San Francisco.

Speaker will be Mrs. Alexander Ripley.

Mrs. Arthur Bradac is Marin reservations and transportation chairman.

THE "NATURAL Soul Fashion Troupe" of Marin City is having a fashion show Sunday at 7:30 p.m. at Charlie's Half-Note in San Francisco.

The public is invited to the presentation of spring fashions, according to Ruth Howard, the assistant coordinator.

COURT ST. Agnes, Catholic Daughters of America, is sponsoring a spaghetti dinner Monday at 6 p.m. at Le Tonneau restaurant in Corte Madera.

Following dinner there will be music, singing and dancing.

Lorraine Irving is reservations chairman.

Proceeds will benefit the seminary bursary.

COLEMAN SCHOOL Parent-Teacher Association board members are having a reception Friday from 6 to 8 p.m. at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Whisler in San Rafael to honor faculty and staff of the school.

Divorce Workshop Tonight

Sharing feelings and experiences with others is a way of coping with problems caused by divorce or separation, according to divorce counseling specialist Mel Krantzler, who is leading a workshop for recently divorced or separated persons.

The first session will be held tonight at 8 o'clock at the Marin Jewish Community Center in San Rafael.

The goal is to provide divorced or separated perons with a group of about 12 persons who will accept one another for what they are without being judgmental, Krantzler said.

Krantzler, a California licensed family counselor, will help participants find ways of dealing with feelings and discovering how to live in the present, he said.

Engagement Announced In Novato

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence R. Simmons Jr. are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Linda Rae, to Davey Wade Cameron, son of Mr. and Mrs. William W. Cameron, all of Novato.

Linda is the sister of Lawrence R. Simmons III and Jeffry Joaquin Simmons of Novato. Her local grandparents are Joaquin P. Miranda of Novato and Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence R. Simmons.

She was graduated from Novato High School.

Davey is the brother of Benny, Timothy and Dennis Cameron. He was graduated from North Marin High School and is employed by Ray Emmins Sanitary Service at Davis.

New Name Enters Pantyhose Field

String is the name of a new design in pantyhose designed for spring by Betty Curry for Burlington. It is a delicate crochet knit pattern.

String for spring comes in bright navy. If you wear the spring string pantyhose in the sun, expect your legs to be tanned in a pattern of little squares.

New Bodysuit

A new bodysuit for spring features a snappy shirt collar and guimpe in wisteria and white checks. The bodysuit is meant for wearing for a coordinated gingham skirt.

Dishwashers Up

One out of ever three new homes is built with an automatic dishwasher installed, according to the Plumbing, Heating and Cooling Information Bureau.

Plenty Of Tools For '72 Homemaker

By NANCY SAVAGE
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

CHICAGO, Ill. — Man, woman, or child — whomever is in the kitchen this year will have plenty of tools. In store for the homemaker in '72 are more appliances, more plastics, time-savers, gourmet cookware, bright color, floral patterns and always emphasis on more.

At McCormick Place the house-wares industry unveiled mile after mile of new housewares for every room in a home at the National Housewares Show. Kitchenware is color coordinated in dozens of unchippable patterns. Gourmet cookware is still on the upswing.

Space-stretcher cabinets and etageres (elaborate whatnots) are multiple. And abundant time savers emancipate the mother, father, whomever does the cooking and cleaning.

In the kitchen, the biggest change is in cookware. Stainless steel pans far outsell Teflon. It is a sign that consumers are willing to pay a little more for a more durable product.

A SPOKESMAN for Ecko, makers of stainless, porcelain enamel and Teflon pans, explained, "The magic of Teflon is gone. Women look at their Teflon pans, scratched after a few years, and compare them with their mother's stainless pots, still good after maybe 20 years. Durability has become more important."

For those torn between durability and an easy clean surface, the Hardkote Teflon II finish eliminates many disadvantages of Teflon. Northland aluminum shapes Teflon II into a bundt-lette pan — bake and voila! Six individual bundt cakes. Northland also coats glass ovenware with Teflon II in casserole sizes.

Tall vegetables, like asparagus, and corn, are awkward to cook, but they fit perfectly in Ecko's five-quart porcelain cooker with an extra tall steaming basket. A four-piece "sizzling server" set includes three bowl-like pans in assorted sizes. They fry, bake, broil, warm and serve cereal or soup. A sturdy, detachable handle locks into the side handles of these pans.

A special help for busy cooks is the lead-free crockpot, designed for slow electric stoneware cooking. The 4-½-quart capacity has detachable cord heat control. A booklet tells what foods may be cooked safely for long periods at low temperatures.

There is almost as much versatility in kitchenware as in the people who use them. Sanyo Electirc makes a combination juicer, extractor, and blender. Van Wyck has a pint-size electric can opener and solid-state blender, both sealed for easy storage.

Corning makes a portable work surface that saves counter space. The non-pourous non-absorbent surface makes it possible to dice onions, roll out pastry, wipe and set our hot foods on it with no odor left behind and no harm to the surface.

AWAY FROM the kitchen, inhabitants of the press-button, plug-in age may or may not live better electronically, but they will definitely be well groomed this year.

Personal care appliances head the list of new housewares. From east and west people will plug in new or improved body machines — styling combs, shavers, hair dryers, massagers, toothbrushes, clothes brushes, sunlamps, instant mist hair setters and automatic cleaning brushes.

A General Electric spokesman expressed concern over the controversy that electrical appliances cause power plants to generate more electricity and thus pollute the air. Although many appliances are convenient luxuries, he said that the benefit to the individual can be more important than the amount of electricity used. For example, he said, an electric toothbrush "cleans better than most people will do by themselves. In a year it uses only five kilowatt hours."

Modern electrics for the home, range from an electric broom and improved shag carpet cleaners to a fireplace that burns no wood and doesn't pollute. It even has a switch for heat.

Plastic housewares still are the most common. Oxco Brush has more than 100 kitchen brushes with sturdy plastic slip-proof handles and wire shanks coated with plastic to prevent rust. Ecko applies vivid florals and color to the handles of slicers, beaters and ladles. Microware's plastic dinnerware goes from microwave oven to the table.

BUT PLASTIC housewares haven't changed nearly as much as the advertising. A prime target for ecologists' warnings against products that will not decompose, the plastics industry is attempting to turn this flaw to their advantage.

Plastics are now part of the pollution solution, according to advertising. A spokesman for Kodite plastic trash bags remarked, "We used to be concerned that out product is not biodegradable. Now we're happy that it isn't."

He said that biodegradable products leach gases into the earth and water, but plastic doesn't leach anything. It just sits there.

Despite ecologists' frowns at the use of plastics, it is hard to imagine modern housewares without the diversity plastic and other synthetics offer.

Consumers have more choices to make than ever: Is it biodegradable, safe, guaranteed, disposable or reusable, too noisy, a waste of electricity and water, a brand name, advertised honestly? The quality of products at next year's housewares show largely depends on the answers consumers demand.

AMONG NEW products for the kitchen introduced at the National Housewares Show in Chicago is a procelain cooker for tall vegetables. The vegetables are placed in the five-quart steaming basket and no longer present an awkward cooking problem.

Very Vexing Problem: How To Stop Cracking Those Knuckles

DEAR HELEN AND SUE:

After reading all those suggestions for nail-biters, and your idea about having readers ask help from other readers on their bad habits, I felt "this is for me." Can anyone tell me how I can stop cracking my knuckles?

I've been doing this for three years, and I don't think it's a nervous habit — just a bad one. Already my knuckles are getting big, and by the time I'm 20, my hands will look twice that old.

I do it unconsciously.

Help, anyone? — LISA

DEAR LISA:

Most bad habits (unless they're tied up with extreme nervousness) can be licked by transferring them from the unconscious to the conscious.

Tell your friends, your family, your teachers not to hold back: If they'll let you have it every time you get cracking, you'll soon be aware of those noisy knuckles. — HELEN

DEAL LISA:

When you're alone, keep your hands busy, like with knitting or crocheting. Use lots of hand lotion, and massage your knuckles when you feel an urge to crack them. That's called "transference" — substituting one motion for another, but it sometimes works.

Now, readers, let's hear how you licked the habit. — SUE

DEAR RAP:

Does anyone have a sure-fire cure for lying? This started when I was in grade school, and now I'm 21 and working. I don't think I could tell the absolute truth if my life depended on it.

I know it's wrong, but I fabricate some fantastic story and out it comes. Don't know why I haven't been caught, but I usually stick to lies that can't be proved. My friends seem to believe me.

I lie in bed at night and think, "Why on earth did you say that?" "Nothing was accomplished by it. True, no one was hurt (except me) but I know I need help. — LIAR

DEAR LIAR:

You can be darn sure your friends don't believe those lies, but They go along because they wonder what wild story you'll fabricate next.

Psychologists say habitual liars are so insecure they can't face the truth. Then again, You mught be a frustrated actor who needs the limelight — and your "tale-wagging" does make you the center of attention, right?

Whichever, you must understand yourself before you can change. And professional help might hurry along the transformation. — HELEN

DEAR READERS:

There's another kind of liar too — the person who feeds you a line to see how much you'll swallow.

I'm talking about the hoaxer from New Jersey who keeps jivin' us with a new "character" almost every week — but his typewriter gives him away: we can recognize this guy by his damaged letter "S." (And also from his style, which might sell to "torrid confessions" magazines.)

Maybe he needs help, or maybe he just wants to see his stuff in print. (Which he won't — not in Generation Rap, anyway.) — SUE

DEAR HELEN AND SUE:

How do you cure nail-biting? Wear braces. If you need them, that is. — PROBLEM SOLVED, but PARENTS BROKE

DEAR RAP:

I solved my nail-biting problem with an engagement ring. Who wants to show it with a fist, instead of an extended hand? If "biter" can't swing an engagement, why doesn't she buy a gorgeous ring? It helps. — KAREN

Got a problem? Or a subject for discussion, two-generation style? Direct your questions to either Sue or Helen Bottel — or both, in care of the Independent-Journal, if you want a combination mother-daughter answer.)

Courreges Has A Bike Track

PARIS (UPI)—Andre Courreges, the Paris high fashion designer, has taken up bicycling in his apartment on a specially-installed miniature bicycle track, a spokesman for the designer said today.

"I can't tell you exactly when he had it installed, but it was some time ago," the spokesman said. Courreges, 48, was recently photographed taking a work out on the oval track.

"The advantage of the indoor track is that he can get exercise even when it's raining, and he can do it with his daughter Marie. He is very athletic", the spokesman said.

The designer's favorite outdoor sport is cross-country running, the spokesman said.

Antique Interiors Seminar Topic

Recognizing, buying and designing interiors with antiques are topics for a seminar&at Marin Jewish Community Center in San Rafael, "Everything You Want to Know about Antiques," which begins Monday at 9:30 a.m. at the center.

"Participants will learn how to judge the authenticity of antiques, how to recognize styles, and which antiques are investments," program instructor John S. Doughty said.

How About A Pattern Planning Switch?

By CAROLYN S. MURRAY

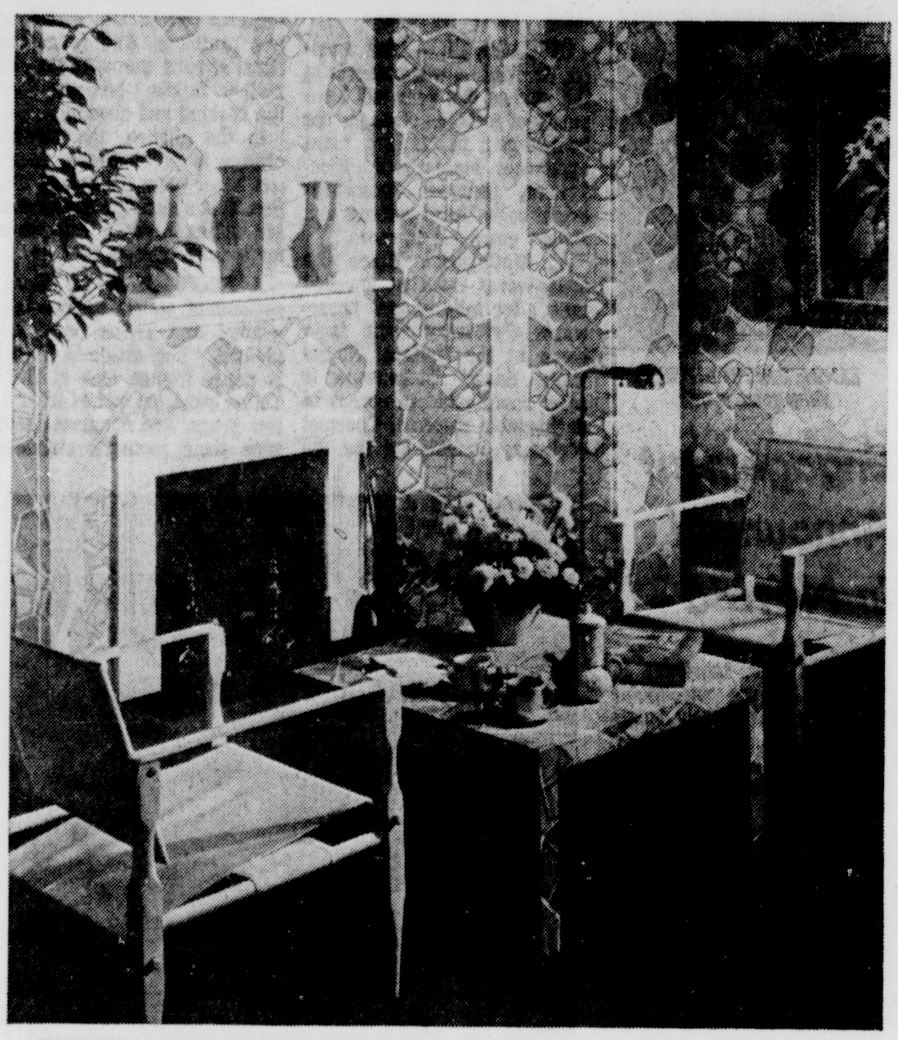
Not all of us like the idea of using pattern-on-pattern the way many of the national magazines describe and illustrate the concept. Frankly, that kind of busy interior is eligible for women who change their houses or home furnishings every three or four years.

Nothing is as dated as the home furnishings fad. For years we've been encouraging more freedom and personal expression within the framework of the home. Women want to break the old rules and let things happen in a freer, more individual way. It's a disaster to be sidetracked by every groovy promotion that comes along.

In the most individual homes you'll find a core of decorating sanity and practicality. You'll see how new purchases elate to older possessions even while taking a giant step away from overcontinuity. There does seem to be a thread of kinship, some home furnishings genes, running through a nicely organized home.

THE IDEA of using pattern freely is a reasonable one, especially if you like the look of printed fabrics and wall coverings. So as a trial run why not use an idea, such as illustrated today, of picking one pleasing pattern and using it liberally? They, instead of adding another pattern, simply work with solid-colored contrasts. You get the effect of pattern-on-pattern without the visual confusion.

In implementing this idea, the wall covering industry bureau added some new notions about what can and cannot be covered with pattern. They brazenly covered the wood part of the fireplace mantel, they covered two tall screens and in the same creative vein covered the coffee table. They used an over-all geometric design in a vinyl-coated product from Columbus Coated Fabrics.



THERE ARE any number of ways to get pattern and color into a room. Here, some "Pye-O-Mye" vinyl-coating wall covering is lavished upon screens, fireplace mantel and coffee table.

THEIR USE of a vinyl-finished covering makes sense since a wipe of a damp cloth keeps the product in shape. And an old coffee table covered in easy-care surfacing maintains a feet-up comfort for the entire family. The same covering could be used to cover a sofa-back table or a Parsons-type table, the kind you can order, knocked-down and unfinished from a catalogue. A good spray adhesive and a roll of wall covering goes a long way in giving the homemaker and family a variety of decorating projects. All it takes is guts.

Novato P-TA Honors Two At School

Two honorary service awards have been given by the Marion School Parent-Teacher Association in Novato.

Mrs. Robert Listman, a school bus driver for several years, continues as parliamentarian at Marion School, although she has no children attending the school. She has served as den mother for the Cub Scouts, Little League team mother, room mother at Marion, carnival chairman for two years at the school, first vice president of the P-TA for two terms and president of the P-TA in 1969-70. She is the mother of three children and has one grandchild.

Richard Emery, a teacher at Marion School, also received the award. He teaches the elementary secondary education act program and has established a math lab, where other teachers may bring their classes. He also has remodeled three classrooms with help from some of the students to serve as an area for special programs. He also is a volunteer tutor for a 19-year-old boy in math and reading.

Robert is the son of Mrs. Mary Gunther of Salinas and W.D. Gunther of San Francisco. He is the brother of Mrs. James Shebli of Stockton. He was graduated from Palma High School, will be graduated this year from the University of San Francisco and is employed at Wells Fargo Bank in San Francisco.

The couple plan to be married on July 2.

Consumer Costs: A Look At 1985

In 1985, according to some economists, consumer expenditures will have increased in the following amounts over what we're paying today: food and beverages, 79 per cent; personal and medical care, 185 per cent; housing, 172 per cent; recreation and education, 149 per cent; household operation and furnishing, 110 per cent; transportation, 107 per cent and clothing, 95 per cent.

These predictions are based on a corollary forecast that all Americans will be eceiving equivalently higher incomes.

CALIFORNIA CASE

Tribunal Ignoring Aid Time Element

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Supreme Court today refused to give speeded up attention to California's appeal from a decision preventing the state from cutting Child support to families with other types of income.

The decision was handed down by the California Supreme Court on Dec. 6, 1971.

California Attorney General Evelle J. Younger asked the court to hear the case along with a similar one from Texas scheduled for argument today. This plan would have required postponement of the Texas case.

The court denied the Younger application without comment.

The California lawsuit was brought jointly by the Long Beach Legal Aid Foundation and the San Francisco Neighborhood Legal Assistance Foundation on behalf of welfare recipients whose benefits would be cut under one of the provisions of the State Welfare Reform Act of 1971.

They won a ruling in the state Supreme Court that the cut is unconstitutional.

Under U.S. Social Security standards, California established a "standard of need" for a family of four at $314 a month. But states are not compeiled to pay the full standard of need. They may fix a maximum payment or pay a percentage. Half the money is supplied by the federal government and half by state and county appropriations.

Under the old law California had fixed a maximum monthly payment of $260. The 1971 law raised it to $280.

TESTIMONY

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Supreme Court agreed today to resolve the dispute over who is obliged to testify before a Boston grand jury about the role played by Sen. Mike Gravel, D-Alaska in making the Pentagon Papers available for publication.

Gravel and the Justice Department both appealed from a decision on Jan. 7, 1972, by the 1st U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Boston. The ruling protected the senator's aide, Dr. Leonard S. Rodberg, from inquiry as to the events in question. But officials of publishing houses may be called, provided the object is not to "attack the legislator's motives in speaking."

The Justice Department claimed Rodberg should be questioned, while Gravel contended the publishing officials also are immune by virtue of the constitutional rights of a senator.

AMTRAK

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Supreme Court today upheld the 1970 National Railroad Passenger Act, which provided for the takeover of most intercity rail passenger service by Amtrak, a semipublic corporation.

In a brief order, the Court affirmed a ruling handed down June 21, 1971, by a special three-judge federal court in Chicago. The case was started by citizens of Macomb and Quincy, Ill., who were fighting discontinuance of train service between West Quincy and Chicago.

TWA-HUGHES

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Supreme Court agreed today to review a $165 million default judgment in favor of Trans World Airlines (TWA) against Howard Hughes and the Hughes Tool Co.

The judgment was awarded by a lower court when the multimillionaire recluse failed to appear at court proceedings.

The Court will hear the case next fall or winter and decide it later by written opinion.

U.S. District Court Judge Charles M. Metzner entered the judgment in 1963. It was affirmed with added interest payments ordered by the 2nd U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals on Sept. 1, 1971.

The suit, filed by TWA in 1961, named Hughes as a defendant but he could not be located to be legally served as a party to the case.

HOUSING

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Supreme Court agreed today to decide whether persons already residing in a housing complex have standing to complain about the management's racial policy.

Most test cases are brought by blacks whose desire to buy or rent has been frustrated.

The Court will hear arguments later this term in a San Francisco case initiated by residents who claimed discrimination injured them in their "social, business and professional activities." A written opinion will follow.

Lower federal courts ruled they had no standing to sue.

The suit was originated by Paul J. Trafficante, white, and Dorothy M. Carr, black, who live in the Parkmerced Apartments. They were later joined by Rev. Arthur H. Newberg, James Embree, Albert James Heick and Jaqueline Tchakalian.

The complaint cited both the Civil Rights Act of 1968, which prohibits racial discrimination in sale and rental of housing, and the Civil Rights Act of 1866, which says "all citizens ... shall have the same right ... as is enjoyed by white citizens ... to inherit, purchase, lease, sell, hold and convey real and personal property."

Educational Goals Will Be Studied

Trustees, administrators and parents of children in the Lagunitas School District will attempt to resolve the question of what the district's educational goals are in a special meeting tonight.

Meeting at 7:30 p.m. in the San Geronimo Valley Elementary School, two groups of parents — those who believe that the district's programs of ungraded classrooms and flexible programming should be expanded, and those who want a return to many traditional teaching practices — will air their views, according to district superintendent William E. Johnson.

The one-item agenda grew out of disagreement that came to light during the last two regular board meetings. Subsequent discussion, according to Johnson, made it clear that district educational policy needed to be defined before the district proceeded on any specific programs.

He said both groups were nearly in agreement that the district should strive to lower the teacher-student ratio. Ideas discussed included more paid or unpaid adult classroom workers, he said. Hiring additional teachers for the purpose has not yet been discussed by the board, he said.

The district began a program last September giving children in some grades a choice of eight electives above the normally required courses. Teachers were given the option of teaching in teams or individually.

WORD-A-DAY

Proposed Lucas Valley Plan Backed

A proposed Lucas Valley master plan was endorsed last night by the Marinwood Community Services District board.

The proposal, prepared by the Lucas Valley Homeowners Association, seeks to keep valley density low and hillsides open. Rezoning recommended in the proposal is to be considered by the Marin County Planning Commission next Monday.

The Marinwood board last night also drafted a letter to the county, saying that further development in Upper Lucas Valley would be beyond the capabilities of the Marinwood fire department, which provides fire protection by contract to Lucas Valley.

Future development will require an additional fire station, which should be financed by developers, the board agreed, according to its secretary, Genevieve T. Bolding.

The Marinwood Community Services District board also:

SENIORS — Approved a $1,400 budget for 1972-73 senior citizen activities. Half of the figure is to be contributed by the Marin Senior Coordinating Council.

FIRE — Agreed to submit a preliminary 1972-73 fire department budget of $117,455 for approval by the Marin County Board of Supervisors, but indicated it hoped to make cuts in the budget proposal prior to final adoption. County approval is needed because of the contract with Lucas Valley, which will pay $37,586 of the total proposed.

COMMISSIONER — Appointed Walter O. Johnson of 581 Miller Creek Road alternate member of the Marinwood Park and Recreation Commission.

Housing Authority Sets Closed Round

Shortcomings in the performance of several employees in the Marin County Housing Authority's public housing program, and staff changes which could result will be discussed at a closed session of the housing authority board at 8 p.m. today. The meeting will be held in the authority's administrative offices, 429 Drake Avenue, Marin City.

The board will also inszruct its representatives for upcoming negotiations with employee unions, according to Wallace K. Shapherd, authority executive director.

7 Die In Explosion — IRA 'Retaliation'

ALDERSHOT, England (UPI) —A bomb exploded today in a British parachute regiment mess hall, killing seven persons. The Irish Republican Army said the blast was in retaliation for Northern Ireland's "Bloody Sunday" when the paratroops killed 13 civilians.

An army spokesman said the explosion flattened the officers' mess of the 16th ParachuteBrigade, killing one army officer, a male civilian and five women civilians. The spokesman said another 17 persons were wounded in the noontime explosion.

The official wing of the IRA issued a statementqin Dublin which said one of its units carried out the explosion in retaliation for the deaths of the 13 persons in Londonderry on Jan. 30 when troops opened fire on Roman Catholic civil rights demonstrators.

Both the official wing and the more militant wings of the IRA vowed revenge for the deaths of the 13.

"The operation took place at the officers' quarters of the brigade," the IRA statement said. "The operation, which resulted in the deaths of several officrs of the brigade, was carried out as a reprisal for the murderous killings by troops of this brigade when they fired without provocation on unarmed civilians in Londonderry."

Earlier, a caller telephoned the British news agency Press Association and said in an Irish accent that a British-based unit of the provisional IRA carried out the explosion.

Army sources said Scotland Yard had begun an immediate check on movements of known IRA members. Police flung a security network of road checks around Aldershot and a spokesman said, "We are looking for two youths who left Aldershot in an army type minicar."

The explosion in the parachute regiment's third battalion officers' mess at Aldershot came within seconds after a car drove up to the building. Members of the parachute regiment were on duty in Londonderry Jan. 30 when troops fired on the civil rights demonstrators, killing the 13 civilians.

Police and firemen searched the debris for further victims and explosives experts probed the wreckage for clues to the cause of the blast and the persons who planted the explosives.

One witness to the explosion said "the building was flattened."

"A car drew up outside the mess," said Lt. Alan Petty, education officer of the 3rd battalion. "Within seconds of itsbeing parked the mess was completely wrecked".

"The car was full of explosives that blew up," he said. "The blast was heard two miles away."

Buildings 200 yards from the mess hall were damaged, a witness said.

Council Pay Is Meeting Topic

A proposal that the Mill Valley City Council let voters decide whether councilmen should be paid monthly salaries will be discussed by the council at 7:30 p.m. today in city hall.

Last month, council members voted themselves $150 monthly wages, despite opposition from some Mill Valley residents. A similar proposal for salaries was turned down by city voters last year.

The residents who oppose council salaries appeared at the council's last meeting to protest the matter further and asked that the question be put to citizens in the June 6 primary election.

In other business, the council will consider suggestions from the city planning department as to how off-street parking can be provided to replace parking that will be lost in the proposed widening of Miller Avenue. The council also will weigh whether it should suppress reports of burglaries in the city.

Pharmacy Looted During Weekend

An undetermined amount of cash and 10 packages of cigarettes were stolen between Saturday night and yesterday morning from Lockwood's Pharmacy, at 12 Miller Avenue in Mill Valley, police reported today.

Officers said the building was entered between 9 p.m. Saturday and 9 a.m. yesterday by prying open a back window.

Nominations Announced For Oscar Derby Races

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Three motion pictures—"Fiddler on the Roof," "The French Connection" and "The Last Picture Show" — tied with eight monimations each for the 44th annual Academy Awards presentations, the Film Academy announced Tuesday.

Nominated for best picture were "A Clockwork Orange," "Fiddler on the Roof," "The French Connection," "The Last Picture Show," and "Nicholas and Alexandra."

Jane Fonda ("Klute") and Vanessa Redgrave ("Mary, Queen of Scots"), two actresses who have politically lambasted the United States, were among the nominees for best actress. Filling out the best actress category were Glenda Jackson, last year's winner in "Women in Love," nominated for "Sunday Bloody Sunday" and Janet Suzman ("Nicholas and Alexandra"), and Julie Christie ("McCabe and Mrs. Miller"), who won the Oscar for "Darling" in 1965.

George C. Scott, winner last year for "Patton," led the best actor nominees for his performance in "The Hospital."

Also nominated in 1971 were Peter Finch ("Sunday Bloody Sunday"), Gene Hackman ("The French Connection"), Walter Matthau ("Kotch") and Topol ("Fiddler on the roof").

Nominated for best performance by a supporting actress were: Ellen Burstyn and Cloris Leachman ("The Last Picture Show"), Barbara Harris ("Who Is Harry Kellerman" and "Why Is He Saying Those Terrible Things About Me"), Margaret Leighton ("The Go-Between") and Ann-Margret ("Carnal Knowledge").

Best supporting actor nominees were: Jeff Bridges and Ben Johnson ("The Last Picture Show"), Leonard Frey ("Fiddler on the Roof"), RichardJaeckel ("Sometimes A Great Notion") and Roy Schneider ("The French Connection").

Best directing nominees were Stanley Jubrick ("A Clockwork Orange"), Norman Jewison ("Fiddler on The Roof"), William Friedkin ("The French Connection"), Peter Bogdanovich ("The Last Picture Show") and John Schlesinger ("Sunday Bloody Sunday").

Fred Reichman Exhibit Set

An exhibit of paintings and illustrations by Fred Reichman will open at 10 a.m. Saturday at Alemany Library at Dominican College in San Rafael.

The exhibit can be seen from 10 a.m. to noon and 1 to 5 p.m., daily until March 23.

A public reception for the artist will be held in the library from 2 to 5 p.m. Sunday.

Reichman has paintings exhibited at the Palace of the Legion of Honor and other Bay Area museums.

Smithsonian Gallery Featuring A Marinite

By KAY HICKOX
American University

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The work of a Marin County woodcraftsman is part of the opening exhibition of the Smithsonian Institution's Renwick Gallery here.

Arthur Espenet Carpenter of Bolinas is showing 10 pieces of handcrafted furniture.

The Renwick Gallery is the newest of the complex of Smithsonian Institutions. Planned as a national showcase for American design, crafts and the decorative arts, it has received high praise from critics. The gallery, across the street from the White House, is named for architect James Renwick, designer of the Smithsonian.

One of the capitol's loveliest and most historic buildings, it was constructed during the Civil War period as one of the city's first real art museums. However, it was used for half a century as a courthouse before it was turned over to the Smithsonian in the mid-1960s.

Carpenter's work was chosen by representatives of the National Collection of Fine Arts, a division of the Smithsonian Institute, and the Craftsmen's Council, according to Robert Tylr Davis, Assistant Director of the National Collection of Fine Arts. Davis said, "The representatives traveled all over the country to get the work of the most creative people working in wood today for the Gallery's Wooden Works Exhibit."

In addition to Carpenter, four other craftsmen were selected to display their work: Sam Maloof of Alta Loma, San Bernardino County, George Nakashima of Pennsylvania, Wendell Castle of New York and the late Wharton Esherick of Pennsylvania.

A primitive directness and strength characterize Carpenter's furniture. He tries to find the most economic use of time and material.

"My whole thing has been utility," Carpenter says in the story posted beside his work. "If it isn't comfortable, and if it doesn't last, and if it doesn't function, it's no good. Furniture to me is something the body touches. . ."

His work is described by critics as individualistic. His rolltop desk, with its charmingly shaped pigeon holes, is one of the exhibition's most commented on pieces.

Carpenter earned a bachelor's degree in economics and English from Dartmouth and planned to work on Wall Street. Instead he moved to San Francisco after World War II, bought a lathe, and started making wooden bowls to sell.

In 1950 when his work was chosen for the Museum of Modern Art's Good Design Exibits, Carpenter discovered the world of crafts. Although he continued to produce wooden bowls, he also taught himself the necessary skills, and acquired machinery for making wooden forms with greater creative possibilities — furniture.

Working under the name "Espenet," he accepts church and library commissions, but much of his work is one-of-a-kind pieces. He feels his shop is better scaled to special orders from individuals.

Hub Candidate Selects Staff

Janice Fairchild, a staff member of the Marin County Library, has been appointed campaign coordinator for Pieter Toal, candidate for the San Anselmo City Council, Toal announced today.

Valmar Schaaf, an engineer, and Daniel Goltz, San Francisco architect, will organize precinct volunteers, and Richard Shaffer, Oakland business consultant, and Gay Kagy, secretary, will head the finance committee. Judy Ainsworth, a publicist for the Marin Transit System, is in charge of publicity for Toal's campaign.

The Genius Of De Sica Once Again

By LOUISE SWEENEY
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

"The Garden of the Finzi-Continis" is an elegant ghetto in Ferrara, Italy, in 1938. It is also the title of one of the best films director Vittorio De Sica has made in years, wiping out the memory of a reputation gone to seed with such films as his last, "Sunflower."

This new film is a return to the art which gave us "Umberto D," "The Bicyle Thief," and "Two Women." It may not be one of the classics which gained him his fame as a director, but it is a superior film on a tragic subject. The subject is the complicity of some Italians in the persecutions and arrest of the Jewish members of their community.

Surprisingly, De Sica has filmed his story in a shimmering, sometimes soft-focus color instead of the stark black and white you might expect from him as a director once labeled a neorealist. At times it is too soft for the subject, but often it serves well to frame an evocative tragedy.

We meet the Finzi-Continis: a wealthy Jewish family in Ferrara living in a rose-and-cream palazzo surrounded by a garden the size of Central Park. Insulated by money, they protect themselves against the steadily escalating Fascist rulings against Jews by never leaving their kingdom. "They don't seem Jewish," comments one character. The outside world, Jewish and non-Jewish, comes to them: Barred from clubs, they have their own tennis matches in a drowsy, sun-drenched opening scene as steeped in the 1930s as anything from another antifascist film, "The Conformist."

In fact, Dominique Sanda, the blond star of "The Conformist," plays the chilly beauty Micol Finzi-Contini in this film. A sensual-looking but arid actress, she fails to be moving in the role which should stir pity, as the beautiful remnant of a noble family who is arrested one day for the crime of just being Jewish and doomed to a concentration camp.

Helmut Berger, who plays her delicate brother, is an unfortunate choice for those who remember his recent appearance as the degenerate Nazi princeling in Visconti's "The Damned." He is not a convincing enough actor to throw off the shadow of that grotesque, anti-Semitic role.

The remaining cast is excellent, though: the rest of the frail, dignified Finzi-Continis; a gentle, steady actor named Lino Capolicchio as Giorgio, the boy who adored Micol from afar across the synagogue and grew up to discover she was unobtainable; Romolo Valli as his father, unable to believe that his fellow Italinas will help in the persecution even after an edict forbidding Jewish obituaries, membership in clubs, marriages to "Aryans." Giorgio, working on a college thesis and banned from a public library, hears an official explain his own complicity: "I have a family . . ." "All Italy has a family," Giorgio realizes grimly.

De Sica's "Garden" has its flaws — at times it is too melodramaitc, particularly when Manuel De Sica is underlining a scene in italics with his obtrusive score. It has received an R rating, presumably because it contains a nude love scene. The film won the grand prize, the Golden Bear, at the 1971 Berlin Film Festival.

Dominican Will Do Comic Opera

Dominican College will present four performances of the early American comic opera "The Mock Doctor" at 8 p.m. March 3, 4 and 10 and at 2 p.m. on March 11 in Angelico Hall on the San Rafael campus.

The 18th Century opera is from the files of Dominican's American Music Research Center and was adapted from a Moliere story by Henry Fielding, better known as the author of "Tom Jnes."

The production is under the musical direction of Sister M. Dominic Ray, pianist and director of the research center, who has composed the musical settings and overture. She believes it will be the first revival of the opera in more than 120 years.

The cast is led by Dominican students Bettina Weinstein, mezzo soprano, and Clay Roni, bass. In supporting roles are baritones Jerry Dixon and Roy Loney. Cast in speaking roles are Marsha Wagner, Jim Armington, Bruce Fleischer, Tito Kuhlman, Marc Hildebrand and Vanessa Witt.

Dan Caldwell is stage director, with Bob Cooper, designer-technician, and Steve Loergering, stage manager. Musical accompaniment will be provided by Barbara Baum, harpsichord; Laurel Elkjer, flute, and Michele Bergman, cello.

The production is the fourth colonial opera presented by the Dominican College Music Department from the college's American Music Research Center, which contains a collection of music spanning our centuries.

Labor Sees Economy As Key Issue In November

MIAMI BEACH (UPI)—As labor leaders view it, voters will be thinking mostly about their pocketbooks when they vote for president and members of Congress next November — not the Vietnam War or school busing.

"I think the number one issue in the minds of voters is going to be the economic issue—jobs and consumer prices," AFL-CIO President George Meany said Monday.

"But it seems that the candidates are going to continue to make the war in Vietnam an issue, although I don't think it's going to be as big an issue in the minds of the voters as the economic issue," Meany told reporters at the conclusion of the midwinter meeting of the AFL-CIO Executive Council.

The 77-year-old labor leader said school busing also would be an issue in the campaign, but "just how it will affect the electorate I don't know. The whole question of busing is in rather a confused state at the moment.

Meany said President Nixon's trips to Peking and Moscow could develop campaign issues but it was too early yet to tell.

Viewing the economy and other pocketbook problems as the main issues in election campaigns is nothing new for organized labor leaders, who must look out for the economic welfare of their members.

Before closing up shop at its midwinter meeting, the council denounced the Nixon administration for economic policies the labor leaders said are designed to benefit business and the wealthy at the expense of the workers.

Work Program Expansion Will Be Discussed

The San Rafael Board of Education will hear a report on an expanded work experience program for district high school students at a meeting at 7:30 p.m. today in the district administration building.

Floyd Peterson, vocational educational director, will explain to trustees a broadened program which now includes "exploratory" unpaid time spent by students in various professions and businesses.

About 300 students are now participating in the work experience program on both unpaid and paid bases, according to the superintendent, Dr. John F. Plank.

Mental Health Member Resigns

Dr. Richard W. Brunstetter of Tiburon has resigned from the Marin Mental Health Advisory board.

Brunstetter, a member of the board since 1964, said he is moving in June to New Orleans to take the job of director of child psychiatry at Tulane University.

He will continue on the board until the county board of supervisors selects a replacement.

SPECIFICS OF STRAWBERRY COMPROMISE

More than three acres of a 6.7-acre parcel on Strawberry Cove — site of a proposed 72-unit apartment —will be dedicated to the public under the terms of an agreement reached last week. Developer Paul J. Broman, who has an option on the property owned by Leonard B. Fleischman, agreed to the dedication, and the Strawberry Recreation District in turn dropped a condemnation suit filed in November 1970. In this sketch, by Independent-Journal artist Jack Lucey, the areas to be dedicated to the district are shown, along with the overlook (right) which would remain in Broman's ownership, and the tideland parcel to be bought jointly by Broman and the district.

Needed: A Place For Boys With Emotional Problems

By GEORGE NEVIN

Mark, only 14, already is what some might consider a misfit.

His father was an alcoholic who eventually left his wife and children, and Mark's mother, although she tried hard, couldn't hold down a job and still provide properly for Mark and his four brothers and sisters.

By the time he was 8, Mark had run away from home several times and habitually played hookey from school. Three days after his 10th birthday, he was taken into custody by Marin juvenile authorities. His "crime" — being beyond parental control.

Mark is no criminal, but much of his last four years has been spent in custody at Marin Juvenile Hall, not so much to keep him out of trouble but because there literally is no place else to7send him.

Vernon F. Black, a Homestead Valley man who has worked with emotionally disturbed children such as Mark — a hypothetical boy but typical of many youngsters — hopes to change that.

Since June, Black has been working full time toward opening of Horizon House, where six youngsters with backgrounds and problems similar to Mark's can be provided guidance, care, protection and love.

The greatest need, and the one Horizon House is most intended to fill, is "helping 15-year-old boys, whose mental and/or emotional age is 3, to grow up," Black said.

Such immaturity can manifest itself in dozens of ways. The boy may insist on instant gratification of every whim. He may take food to his room and hide it. His attention span may be five minutes or less.

No Marin group home provides the much-needed service for children aged 10 to 14 that Horizon House would provide, Black said, and only one — the Marin Foundation — accepts them from 14 to 18.

Two other agencies, St. Vincent's school for boys in Marinwood and Sunnyhills in San Anselmo, serve such youths, but Black calls them institutions, not group homes.

"Institutions as a rule don't work as well as group homes because they are bigger," he said. "Some large institutions have an administration completely apart from the kids. The administrators have no association whatsoever with the children, but they run the show."

Black, who did volunteer work with a group home for three years in Greenville, Pa., where he attended Thiel College, and for a year at an East Bay institution, said he "learned much" and hopes to put that experience to work with Horizon House.

"The staff that actually works with the children day to day frequently is handcuffed by a distant administration and its policies. It's hampered by armchair psychologists who never leave their offices, and it's handcuffed by the fact that staff memebers are told not to engage in any therapy."

The result, said the 32-year-old Black, who holds a bachelor of arts degree in psychology from San Francisco State College, is that the staff members never really counsel, although they're called counselors. "They're just guards. They turn keys, but that's all."

The only time these emotionally disturbed children are allowed to talk about their problems is for one hour per week when they are visited by a social worker, Black said. "The rest of the time, their physical needs are taken care of, but nothing more."

VERNON F. BLACK
Seeking help for boys

Shaking his head, Black added he wasn't criticizing such institutions. "They try as hard as they can but they're handcuffed in so many ways," he said.

Horizon House — which still must clear a large financial hurdle — would be set up for six boys from 10 to 18. Two "surrogate parents" — Black and a woman psychiatrist and social worker yet to be found — would live in.

To transform Horizon House from dream to reality will require about $40,000, Black estimated. This includes a down payment of about $11,500 on a house, some $20,000 for furnishings and $9,009 cash in hand to receive a license from the state Department of Social Welfare.

Black is seeking contributors — both of cash and furnishings for the house — and plans to hold a benefit next month, complete with celebrities.

Dorothy Wise, the U.S. women's billiard champion, will give a demonstration match at the Redwood High School gym at 8 p.m. March 18 and may even shoot a game or two with Herb Caen, columnist for the San Francisco Chronicle.

Screen star Bob Cummings, a Belvedere resident, will be master of ceremonies and Black is negotiating for other celebrities and a band to provide music.

Funds for supporting group homes such as Horizon House ar administered in California through the Short-Doyle Act, but the facilities must be established before they become eligible. Once a reality, Horizon House would draw $500 per month per child.

"The world is growing younger," Black said. "One of every two Americans is under 25, and many of these youngsters need some kind of help with the problem of growing up in a fast society."

The tidal wave of young people "is making its presence felt throughout the country, and this is only the beginning," he said. "The youth of the world will reshape history, and through Horizon House we pledge to help them find the best answers."

High State Taxes Ire Marin Group

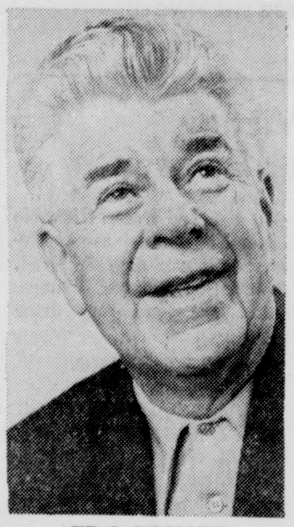
Pinched by high taxes, another segment of the silent majority is beginning to howl.

Its voice is the Tamalpais chapter of the California Republican Assembly, a group of about 60 Marinites formed in November. While affiliated with the Republicans to gain information on Sacramento events, the group is primarily a nonpartisan effort to lower taxes, according to founder Trudy president Ed J. Gilmore of Ross.

Gilmore shares with the radical left a deep distrust of government, but his reasons are different. "Everything I worked for, everything I saved for, they are just taking it away from me, but I am not the only one in that boat.



ED J. GILMORE
'Footing the bill'

"Those bastards are sitting up there (in Sacramento) on their axxxx having a ball and we are footing the bill," he told the Independent-Journal.

"So many people I know are getting ready to retire, but now they can't retire because of the cost of government, the cost of schools, and because they feel frustrated because they can't seem to stop the trend leading into their pocketbook or bank account.

"People have been screaming for years to our local government officials and state officials for relief, but certainly relief has not been forthcoming."

He charged that the Legislature is busy passing "garbage bills" instead of worrying about tax reform. "They are just not listening to us," he said. "Today we are working for the government instead of the government working for us."

Gilmore said he is "just one of many" Marin residents who give almost half their income to the government. At 59, he is an outspoken, self-made man, but grey-haired and surprisingly soft-spoken for an angry taxpayer.

He worked nights while in high school, then managed a gas station to put himself through the University of California. Living in Marin since 1940, he has commuted to an insurance job in San Francisco.

"I've worked my axx off all my life, but I can't afford the taxes over here anymore," he said. "I can't see myself retiring in another five or six years. I couldn't afford it. We (the middle class) have worked hard all our lives. We haven't asked Miss California Teen-ager conyet we are the ones that are getting squeezed out of the picture."

He said many of his friends and members of the taxpayers' group are scared to retire because of zooming taxes or have packed up and moved to more inexpensive futures in Oregon and Nevada.

"The middle class today is suffering from an erosion of everything they have worked hard for through their lives and they are frightened," he said.

Although Gilmore blames unresponsive legislators for government costs, he also aims his barbs at the taxpayers whoselves. He said commuters who leave for San Francisco at 5:30 a.m. and don't get home until after 6 p.m. are too tired to participate in government and let officials take advantage of that shortcoming.

Gilmore said he and his wife recently sought signatures to repeal a bill authored by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, which opponents say will force busing. "It is amazing about how many people know absolutely nothing about this bill," he said. "They don't know what the hell is going on."

One function of his group will be to end that ignorance, he said. "It all boils down to the fact that we would like to educate the people, and they are going to have to get away from that boob tube at night and attend some meetings at night and learn what is going on."

The group also will work for candidates favoring tax relief and plans to watch dog local meetings, but specific plans still are being formulated. The next meeting of the group will be at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in the faculty lounge of Redwood High School.

"What we can do, how effective we can be, I don't know, but the people are champing at the bit. They want something done," he said.

All Junior Horse Show Is Scheduled

Marin Mounted 4-H Club plans its 22nd annual all-junior horse show this weekend at the lCircle V stables in Fairfax. English division will take place Saturday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. and western division is scheduled Sunday, from 8:30 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Medal classes will be conducted for both divisions, and a cattle class is planned Sunday for the stock horse participants.

Five high point trophies will be awarded for the events. The English judge is John Melville. Western judge is John Brizil. Money raised by the show will be donated to needy organizations in the state and used for club functions.

Club representatives claim theirs is the only horse group in the state recognized concurrently by the American Horse Show Association, the California State Horseman's Association, and the Pacific Coast Hunter, Jumper and Stock Horse Association.

Warden Nelson To Be Guest Speaker

Louis S. Nelson, warden of San Quentin Prison, will speak and answer questions at a meeting tomorrow of the Marin County Task Force on San Quentin and Prison Reform.

The meeting, open to the public, will be at 8 p.m. in the conference room of the library at Dominican College in San Rafael.

$1,300 In Rock Toss Vandalism

Rock-tossing vandals smashed windows at Petaluma businesses, homes and cars during the weekend.

Police said the window breaking spree began Friday and continued through the holiday weekend. Total damage was estimated at more than $1,300. In most cases, the windows were broken by large white stones.

The historic town clock at Petaluma Boulevard North and Western Avenue was also damaged Saturday night when its hands were removed by vandals. Officers arrested Michael L. Nau, 24, of 1313 McKenzie Drive, Petaluma, on suspicion of malicious mischief.

He was released on $625 bail to appear March 6 in Southern Sonoma Municipal Court. Police said one of the 27-inch wooden hands was found in his possession and the other removed from a car. Both were returned to the Clock tower, but the old timepiece was not running today.

Businesses and homes damaged included the home of Alan Barber, 30 West El Rose Drive; the car of Mary Jane Jones, 626 Laurel Street; Ray's Grocery, 900 Western Avenue; Rex Hardware, 313 B Street; Art's Barber Shop, 18 Liberty Street; Jim Rose Chrysler-Plymouth, 115 Petaluma Boulevard South; Westerterp Brothers, 821 Petaluma Boulevard North; Swensen's Ice Cream parlor, 125 Keller Street; Radio Shack, Fourth and B streets; St. Vincent de Paul Thrift Shop, 331 Petaluma Boulevard North; the home of Earl Rosenthal, 832 Western Avenue; Petaluma Cannery Sales, 226 Petaluma Boulevard North; O'Neill Photo Store, 17-A Fourth Street; and B & B Tropical Fish, 697 Petaluma Boulevard North.

Signals Crossed, Cyclists Injured

Two Southern Marin motorcyclists cruising through Corte Madera yesterday got their signals and their motorcycles crossed and ended up in Marin General Hospital for treatment of injuries.

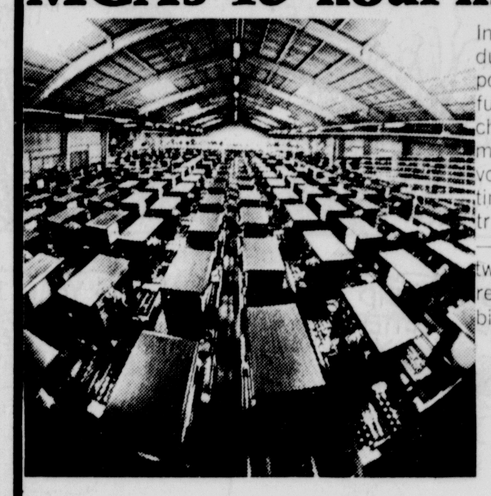
Mitchell Jodot, 20, of 314 Starling Court, Mill Valley, was treated for a fractured right wrist and scrapes. His companion, Robert Giuder, 19, of 119 Blackfield Drive, Tiburon, was treated for a variety of scrapes and bruises.

Corte Madera police said the two were riding their motorcycles side by side at 1 p.m. on Mohawk Avenue at Lakeside Drive when one turned left in front of the other.

The motorcycles and youths slid 54 feet before coming to a tangled halt, police said.

Why this MGA color TV arrived 2 days late at McPHAIL'S

MGA's 48-hour moment of truth



In addition to the normal "heat-run" testing during final production stages, every MGA portable and table color TV must successfully pass a ferocious test: in order to insure chassis performance stabilization, each set must operate 4 hours at 110% of normal voltage, followed by 1 hour "off," in a continuous cycle for 48 hours. This "moment of truth" subjects each set to the ultimate test —the test of use. That's why you had to wait two extra days for this set, and it's a big reason why MGA represents quality, reliability, value.

MGA T.M.

MGA is a member of the worldwide Mitsubishi family of companies whose reputation for quality, integrity and dependability spans five continents and 100 years.

BIRTHDAY QUIZ

By GORDON B. GREB

Guess who was born today, Feb. 22, and became famous as:

1. The first President of the United States? First in war, peace, and in the hearts of Americans, this Virginian successively became a land surveyor, Indian fighter, revolutionary war leader, and founder of a new nation: (A) George Washington; (B) John Dickinson; (C) Peyton Randolph.

2. A popular Massachusetts Democrat and U.S. Senator? Forty years old today, this sole surviving heir to the political fortunes of Irish-American brothers, whose fate was death, says he will not seek the presidency: (A) Jimmy Roosevelt; (B) Edward Kennedy; (C) Lawrence Lincoln.

3. A Hollywood film and TV star? Tall, thin, with a confident and winning smile, this actor (age 65 today) could step forward in answer to the call "Is there a doctor in the house?" and not a single TV viewer would object: (A) Vince Edwards; (B) Lew Ayres; (C) Robert Young.

4. A Polish composer and pianist? Said to be the world's greatest composer of music for the piano, this 19th century genius died at age 39, leaving a rich legacy of etudes, scherzos, preludes, and long list of truly great music: (A) Frederic Chopin; (B) Franz Liszt; (C) Claude Debussy.

ANSWERS

1 (A) (George Washington); 2 (B) (Edward Kennedy); 3 (C) (Robert Young); 4 (A) (Frederic Chopin).

HOW TO PLAY
WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

South Can Score Victory By Meeting Danger Halfway

"The gods are pleased when they see strong men contending with adversity," said Sherlock Holmes from his kibitzing chair at the Baker Street Bridge Club. The players looked pleased at this praise from the master, but the great detective added: "Of course, the gods know better than to waste their time watching anything at this table." The remarks came just after the play of the hand shown today.

OPENS SPADES

West opened the ace of spades and continued with the three of spades. South ruffed and craftily led the queen of hearts. West played low, and South won the trick.

When South continued with the jack of hearts, West stepped up with the ace and led the three of clubs. East won with the ace of clubs and led his last spade to put declarer's trumps in the middle.

If South ruffed low, West would overruff. If South ruffed with an honor, West's nine of hearts would eventually become the high trump. Either way, South was sure to go down.

Of course you have noticed what embittered Sherlock Holmes. Decide for yourself before you read on.

DANGER HALFWAY

South can make the contract if he meets danger halfway. After ruffing the second spade, South must reach dummy by ruffing one of the good diamonds.

Then declarer must lead a spade from dummy, doing for West exactly what he wants his partner to do. The point is that South discards his singleton club on the third spade, thus depriving the defenders of their club trick.

SOUTH IS SAFE

Now the defenders cannot develop a second trump trick. No matter how the defense continues, South can gain the lead, force out the ace of trumps, regain the lead and draw trumps.

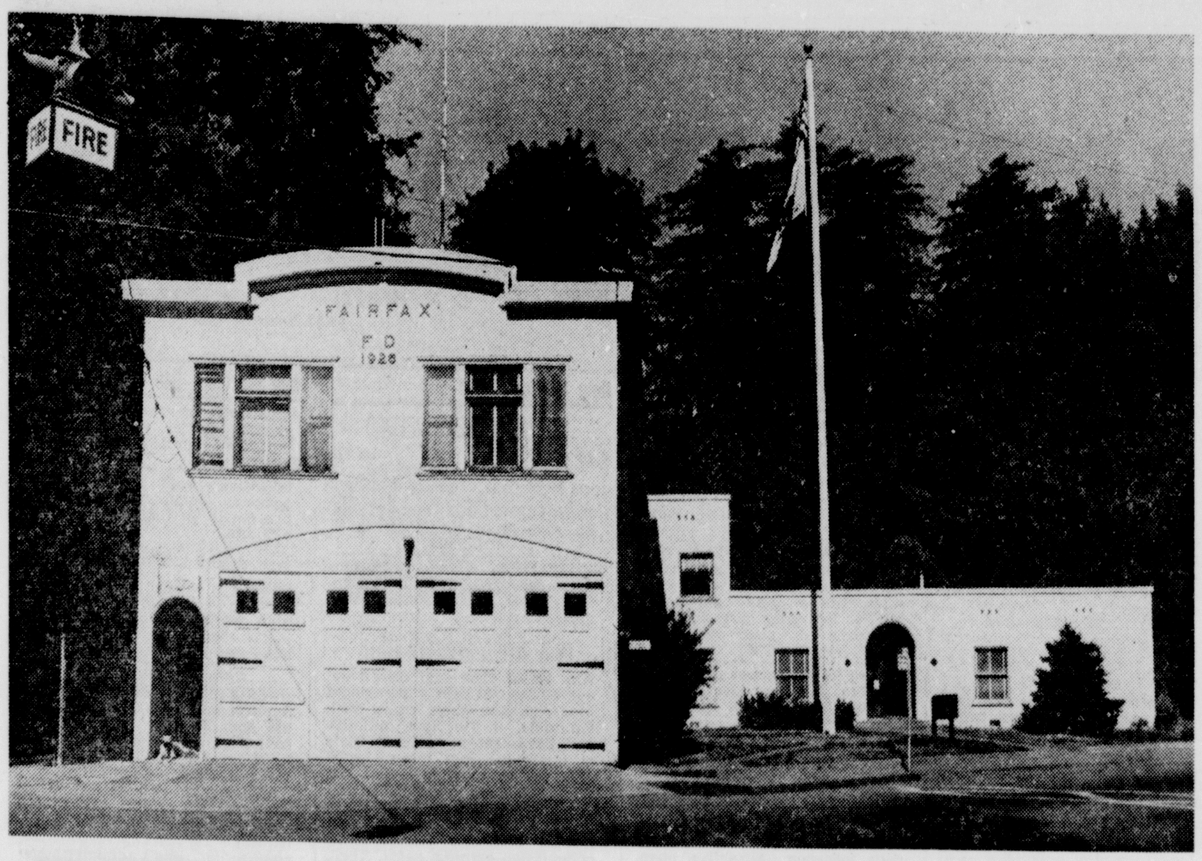
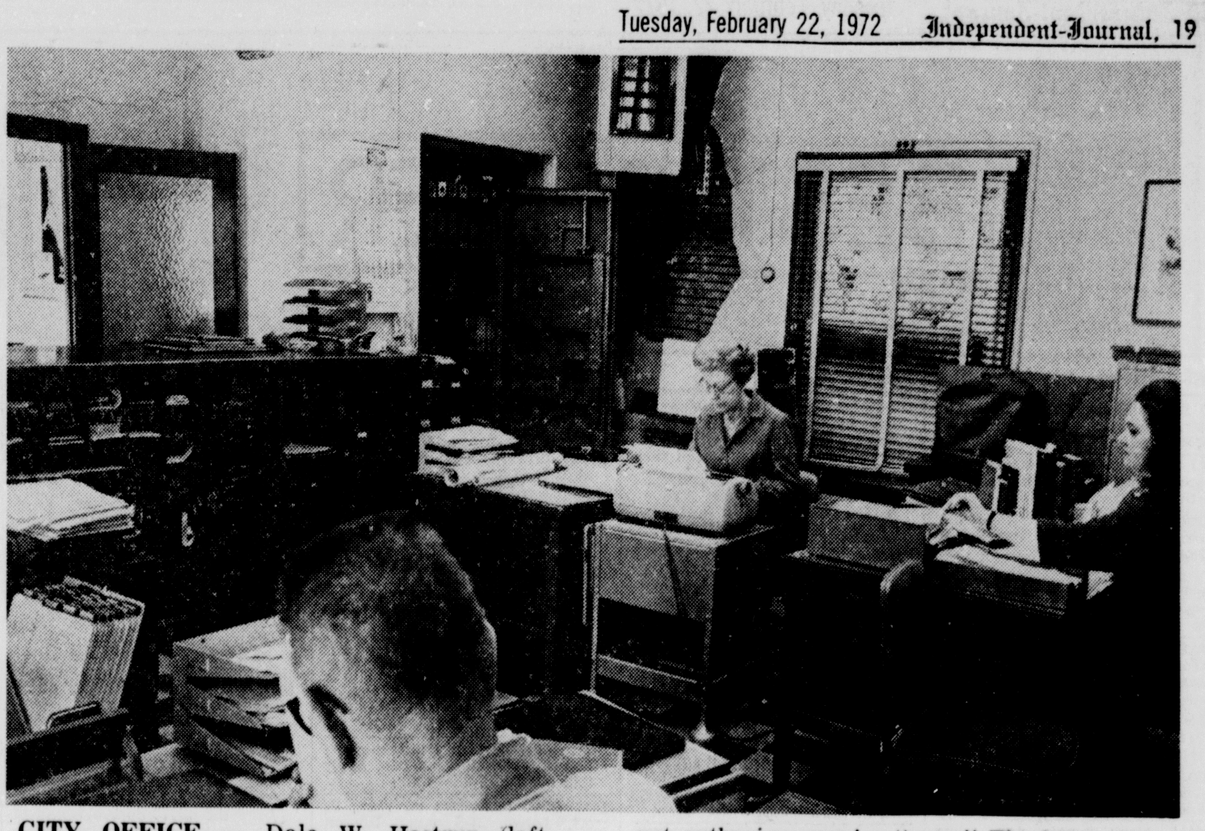
18 Die In Africa Guerrilla Attacks

WINDHOEK, South West Africa (UPI) —The administrator of South West Africa said Monday 18 persons had died in recent guerrilla attacks on the territory's border with Angola.

Guerrilla action has intensified since the South African government, which rules the territory, settled a strike of 13,000 workers in the area last year.

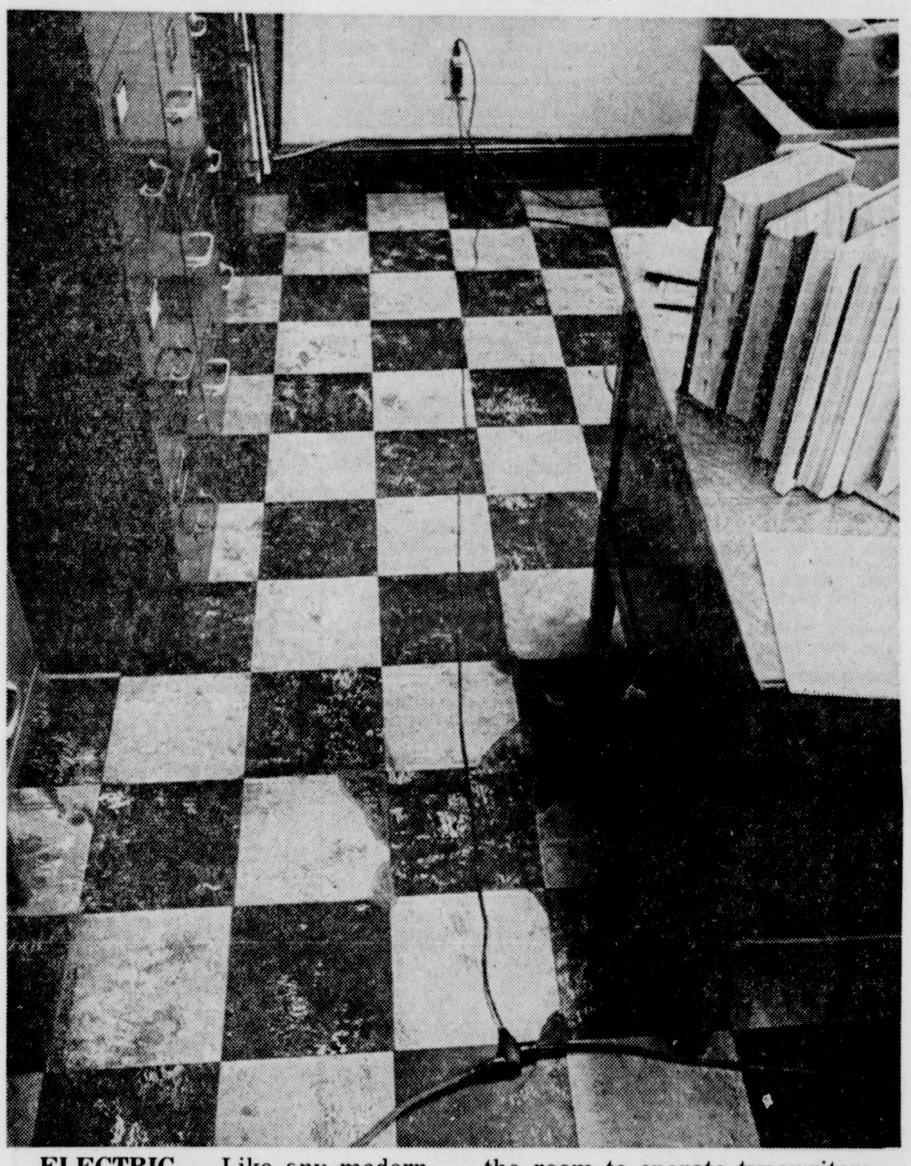


OLD GLORY — The Fairfax fire station, built in 1926, and the police and city administration offices (rear and right,) added in 1940, stand at the corner of Bolinas and Park roads, with Old Glory flying above. The fire department's dalmation mascot, Pappy, basks in the sun beneath the doorway of the fire house, apparently oblivious to the condition of the building.

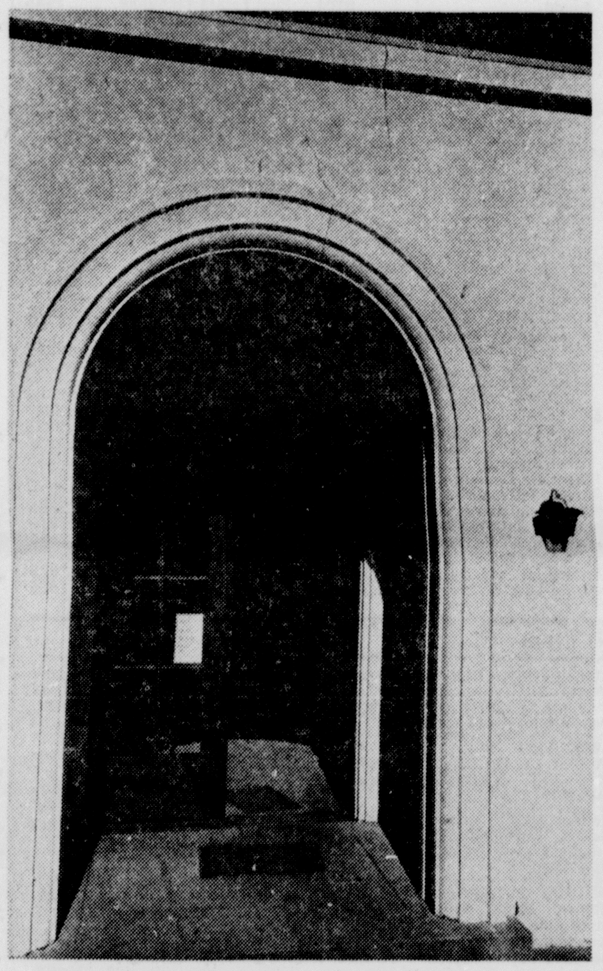


CITY OFFICE — Dale W. Hostrup (left foreground), Fairfax building inspector, works at his desk in the city office building he has threatened to condemn. Hostrup told the I-J that he would "take action" regarding unsafe conditions if the city council does not authorize repairs "now." The large area behind clerk Ellie Edgar (center) where plaster began falling more than two years ago is used by City Clerk Eileen Foster (right) for display of Christmas cards during the holiday season.

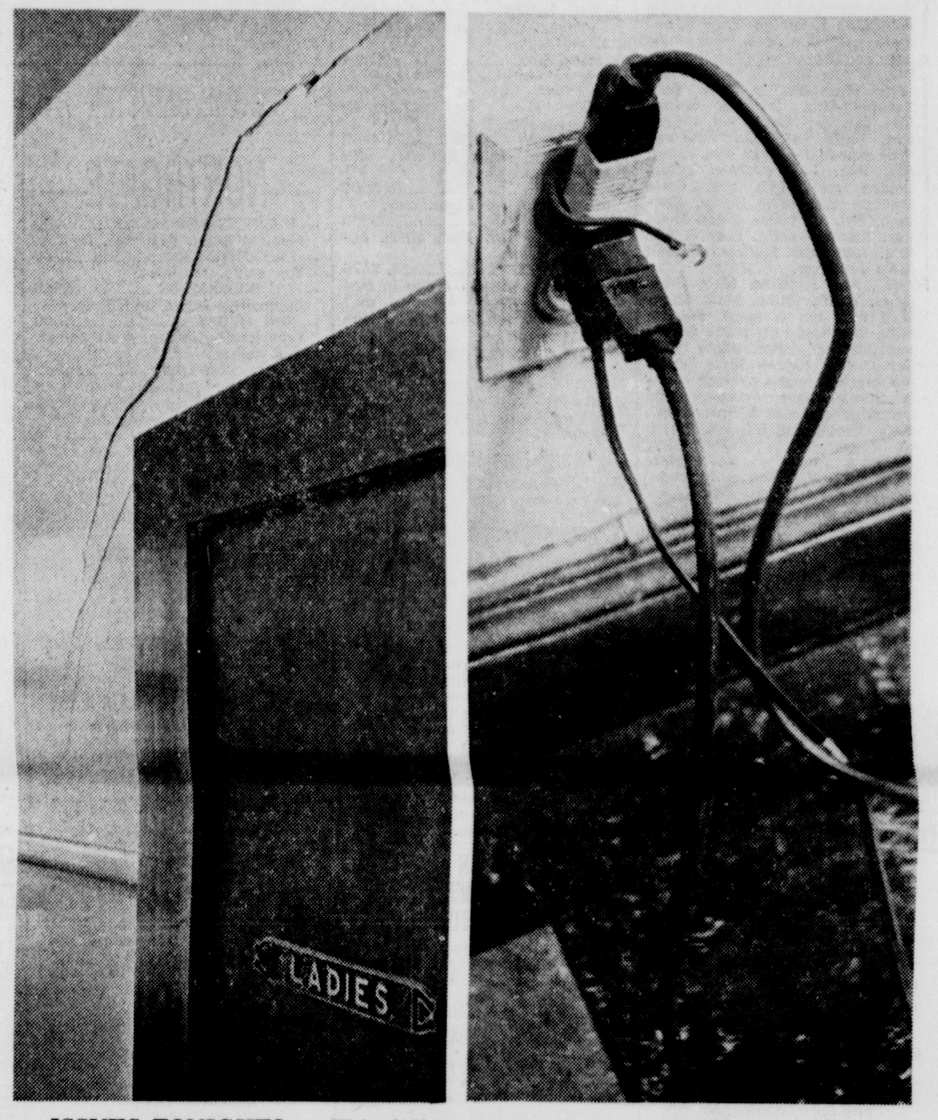
A Hot Issue In Fairfax



ELECTRIC — Like any modern building, Fairfax City Hall is wired for electricity, sort of. The difference is in how its done. Fairfax makes do with a collection of extension sockets and extension cords strung around the room to operate typewriters and other electric equipment. Employees walk through the office carefully for fear of tripping, which is what Independent-Journal photographer Bob Hax did while taking these photos.



ENTRANCE — Cracks grace the main entrance to the Fairfax police department and administrative offices. The police department's section of the building appears in reasonably good shape, but other portions of the building are riddled with cracks, falling plaster, and substandard wiring.



ISSUES TONIGHT? — This full-length cracked wall which greets visitors to the women's restroom in Fairfax City Hall (left) and the over abundment plugs in the building's few electrical sockets (right) will likely be discussed at 8 p.m. today when the city council, meeting at the Fairfax Women's Club, discusses repairing and renovating the existing structure. In 1968 Fairfax voters rejected two bond proposals totaling $550,000 for construction of a new fire station and police and city administration building.

NO OW NOW

Those days of sitting in a dentist's chair with nothing to think about but the drill, how much it hurts or how much it is going to hurt are over for patients of Marin orthodontist Dr. Marshall I. Rothstein. Large, full color murals painted on the ceiling of his office in the Eagle Rock Medical Building on the Tiburon peninsula provide Mill Valley artist Henry Breuer's depiction of world history from prehistoric days to man's landing on the moon. Included in the prehistoric mural (top) is the invention of the wheel and its ultimate development the skateboard. The great civilizations of Egypt and Europe (center) trace man's movement onto the sea and into the air and advertising makes its debut attached to a balloon. The final mural continues the development of manned flight, culminating with the moon landing. The honor is repaid, in Breuer's vision, with a landing on earth by moonmen who plant a moon flag in the lower right corner of the mural. Rothstein said the three-by-six-foot murals "give my patients — mostly children, but some adults, too — something to look at." He said they "put my patients in a relaxed frame of mind and make their visit a pleasant rather than a tense experience."

'U.S. Would Defend Taiwan'

LINCOLN, Neb. (UPI)—California Gov. Ronald Reagan said Monday President Nixon has told him the United States would defend Taiwan if the Communist Chinese ever tried to take over the nationalist government.

"The President only says he wants to open communication with Red China," Reagan said. "He said to me personally if the Red Chinese try to take over Taiwan, the United States will protect and defend our ally."

Reagan spoke at a fund raising dinner for Sen. Carl T. Curtis, R-Neb.

Blast Kills Two

SCRANTON, Pa. (UPI)—Two persons were believed killed and 13 others were injured Monday as a gas explosion ripped through a six-story building in downtown Scranton.

Bomb Fears Turned Out To Be False

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (UPI)—Police called in the Quonset Point Naval Air Station Bomb Squad Monday to investigate a suitcase found in the Federal Building.

Fearing the suitcase contained a bomb, police had the area closed and the bomb squad opened it. Inside was some clothing.

Equality Linked To Fewer Babies

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Stanford University biologist Dr. Paul Ehrlich said Monday equal rights for women might result in fewer babies because more women would work outside the home.

Women handed out leaflets before Ehrlich's speech criticizing his "dehumanizing" suggestions concerning women's lib.

Ehrlich said in his speech that a basic change in attitude would be the only thing that could counteract an exploding world population.

"The government now promotes the idea of haing lots of people," he said. "The President should turn it around.

"He should stand up and say we are overpopulated and it would be patriotic to decrease our population."

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Cardiologist Believes Physical Fitness Can Check Cholesterol

Regular exercise is said to lower the cholesterol level. Or, perhaps lack of exercise increases it. Medical journals are loaded with these types of theories, and the more written about them, the more confusing the picture becomes. There is some evidence, however, that exercise stresses the elimination of cholesterol from the body.

Cholesterol is changed chemically (oxidized) into carbon dioxide, water, and bile salts. The latter are excreted in the feces, and the carbon dioxide in the expired air. Exercise accentuates this process according to special studies on animals.

The dean of cardiologists, Dr. Paul Dudley White, believes that lack of physical fitness plays a causative role in hardening of the arteries and heart attacks. (Too much cholesterol in the blood does the same.) In his opinion, the majority of American males between 45 and 65 have hardening of the coronary (and brain) arteries, whether they know it or not. They are well-fed and physically inactive, and may get into trouble if subjected to enough physical or emotional stress.

WOMEN ESCAPE this fate when they try to maintain their figure by avoiding obesity, and performing greater physical activity while shopping and doing housework. In addition, female sex hormones protect the woman against too much cholesterol and atherosclerosis. The lesson for our males is more physical activity, less inactivity and watch the waistline.

Cholesterol is more likely to settle in the walls of a damaged artery. For this reason, anyone known to have arterial trouble should keep the serum cholesterol within normal levels through exercise, lowering blood pressure, reducing if necessary and no cigarette smoking.

(Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the Independent-Journal.)

AN EXTRA PUPIL

P. G. writes: I have two pupils in my left eye. What causes the extra?

REPLY

Ask your physician because there are several causes. Some persons have two openings in the eye (polycoria) due to a double set of shutters (iris). When both eyes are involved, there are four pupils. In other instances, the second pupil represents a hole in the iris caused by a blowout or disease. In some individuals, the iris atrophies and becomes no motheaten, four or five holes develop. Vision may be impaired because looking thru two or more pupils is comparable to looking thru a grid or screen.

NOT TOO YOUNG

P. B. writes: Is a child of 8 too young to start using antiperspirant? He has an underarm perspiration problem.

REPLY

The apocrine sweat glands (the source of odor) seldom mature before puberty. Perhaps this youngser is a bit precosious. Cleanliness with medicated sopa is helpful, and if this fails, antiperspiratns amy be necessary. It is also important to avoid emotional stresses, such as fear, pain and anger.

INFANT UPCHUCKS

H S. writes: My 6-month-old baby throws up everything she eats. Can something be done to stop this practice.

REPLY

Have her examined to determine whether the stomach is normal and the diet adequate. Do not delay, especially if it is true that she "throws up everything." Few people realize that even babies can suffer from peptic ulcer.

January Crime Rate Declines

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — There were 1,225 fewer major crimes in San Francisco last month than during January 1971, Police Chief Donald Scott said Monday.

The 23 per cent drop occurred in all but the categories of homicide and forcible rape, according to the monthly report. In those two categories, the increase was only 12 cases.

Robberies dropped 40 per cent to 409 cases, down from 685 in 1971. Larceny was next with a 25 per cent drop, from 1,141 cases last month compared to 1,524 cases in January, 1971.

Burglaries dropped 20 per cent; auto theft 16 per cent and aggravated assault 20 per cent.

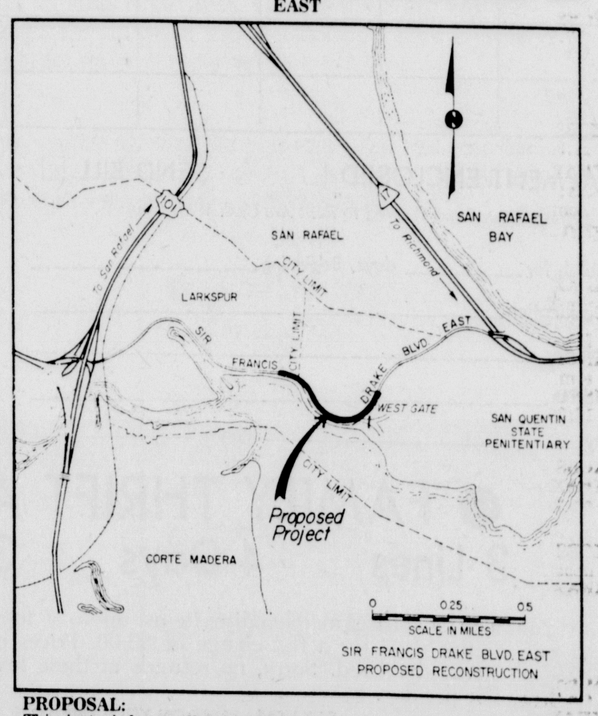
PUBLIC NOTICE
OPPORTUNITY FOR PUBLIC HEARING
FOR RECONSTRUCTION OF SIR FRANCIS DRAKE BOULEVARD EAST



PROPOSAL:

This is to inform all interested persons that the County of Marin, Department of Public Works, proposes to reconstruct a 0.5 mile section of Sir Francis Drake Boulevard East from 0.1 mile west of the Larkspur City Limits to a point two-fifths of a mile east, near the West Gate of San Quentin Prison as shown on the above map.

PURPOSE:

The proposed construction will provide two 12-foot wide undivided traffic lanes and an 8-foot paved emergency parking lane on each side. In addition, a left turn lane will be provided for westbound traffic to the San Quentin Prison West Entrance.

Some additional right-of-way will be required to provide the necessary width for widening of the highway.

OPPORTUNITY FOR HEARING:

Tentative plans and the environmental statement for the proposed project may be reviewed in Room 304 of the Administration Building, Marin County Civic Center, San Rafael, California.

A public hearing to discuss the basic design of the project may be requested by any interested agency or individual. Requests should be submitted in writing no later than March 8, 1972 to:

Sammy Davis In Vietnam - Will Warn GIs On Drugs

SAIGON (UPI)—Entertainer Sammy Davis Jr. arrived today for a weeklong tour of Vietnam aimed at warning GI's against the use of drugs.

The U.S. Army gave him a whirlwind tour of three U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division firebases east of Saigon. Brig. James F. Hamlet, commander of the division's third brigade, was his pilot.

Davis said he will spend most of his time here "rapping" (talking) with GIs about drug use and morale problems. An army spokesman said his schedule Wednesday called for four sessions with GIs at Long Binh, the U.S. Army headquarters 14 miles north of Saigon, in addition to a two-hour show there.

"We got a good show. We got some groovy people and I am very very thrilled and honored to be here. I really am," Davis said. "I just hope you like what we're going to do for you."

"I am here first and foremost as a black American, entertainer," Davis said. "I would sincerely like to see what's going on her first hand."

Davis said he would tour five major bases during his stay.

With him were his wife and an 18-member troupe of singers, dancers and musicians.

N.Y.C. Man Reports Relief For Hours From Itching Of Hemorrhoidal Tissues

In Many Cases Medication Gives Prompt, Temporary Relief from Pain, Itching in Such Tissues.

New York, N.Y.—Mr. J. Benson writes: "I had lots of burning itch. I tried Preparation H and got relief for hours. I've never been so satisfied with such a product in my life."

(Note: Doctors have proved Preparation H® in many cases gives relief for hours from pain and itching in hemorrhoidal tissues. It also helps shrink painful swelling of such tissues caused by inflammation and infection. There's no other formula like doctor-tested Preparation H. And no prescription is needed.)

Honors Friday For Two Pilots

TUCSON, Ariz. (UPI)—Two pilots will be honored at ceremonies Friday for their efforts in guiding an Oklahoma City woman to a safe landing after her husband died at the controls of their private plane.

The Federal Aviation Administration will present its distinguished service award to Roger B. Cutter, a civilian pilot instructor, and Lt. Col. Keith L. Porter, who is stationed at David-Monthan AFB.

The two pilots escorted Mrs. Robert H. Delafield to a safe night landing at Tucson International Airport last Oct. 19 after her husband suffered a fatal heart attack while flying from Hermosillo, Mexico.

Mrs. Delafield radioed for help when about 40 miles south of Tucson and said she was a novice pilot but had no experience in night flying.

Porter was dispatched to find Mrs. Delafield and to lead her plane through a cloud covering so she could fly without instruments. Cutter later flew alongside the woman, telling her how to make a nightime landing.

Learning By Rote Inside A China School

PEKING (UPI) — The young Chinese girl with braided hair, a red plaid skirt and baggy blue pants stood by her desk and intoned in clear English:

"We love our Chairman Mao — our great leader, the red sun in our hearts day and night."

She sat down and another student, a young man about the same age, repeated what she had said — also in English. He pronounced the words slowly, very carefully.

It was the English class at Peking's secondary school No. 26. The students were learning by rote, as Chinese pupils have learned for centuries.

But like the old McGuffey's reader, the text stressed the virtues of society. In today's China, that means the thoughts of Chairman Mao Tse-tung.

The school was exhibited today to a group of newsmen in Peking to cover President Nixon's trip. It probably was better than most Chinese secondary schools, but methods of instruction showed that the typical education follows closely the dictates of the cultural revolution.

In art class, teacher Teng Yuan-Chong deftly exhibited classical Chinese brush-painting to the pupils. With skill and taste, he painted a black and white picture of the trunk of a pine tree with one branch showing needles.

It looked like a scene from countless Chinese paintings. But there was a Communist party theme here, too. The pine tree symbolizes heroism, steady purpose, unyielding devotion to cause. A few characters drawn on the blackboard reminded the students of the virtues of the pine.

In sharp contrast to the simple beauty of the painting, the walls of the classroom were decorated with examples of revolutionary art. A poster showed a heroic-looking factory worker reading the Communist Manifesto. Beneath the picture was the caption: "read books earnestly."

On the front wall of the classroom, flanking the inevitable picture of Mao, were two slogans from the chairman's writing: "education must serve the proletarian politics and be combined with productive labor."

"The force at the core leading our cause forward is the Chinese Communist Party, the theoretical basis guiding our thinking is Marxism — Leninism.

Li Shu-Ying, 15, was asked what she wants to be when she grows up.

"I wish to be a successor to the revolutionary cause of the proletariat. I will do what will be beneficial to the people," she replies.

What would she like to do if she could choose anything at all?

"My choice is what the party needs," she replies.

The same question was asked of Tsai Kuo-Ching, 18.

"I hope to be a successor to the proletarian revolutionary cause and serve the people," he replies fervently.

HOW TO TURN A TYPEWRITER INTO AN X-RAY

When the Bay Area Air Pollution Control District Board or the Bay Regional Water Quality Control Board meets, the I-J's Paul E. Peterzell is likely to be one of only two or three reporters on hand. He's there also at the Golden Gate Bridge District, the Association of Bay Area Governments, and other regional agencies which include Marin and Sonoma. He also keeps track of legislation in Marin of particular interest to Marin. Because of what he sees, you see more of what's happening in his Monday column which supplements his daily news stories.

Mill Valley Scout Due Highest Rank

Mark A. Duncan of Mill Valley — a cub scout at age 8 and a boy scout since he was 13 — will be awarded the Eagle rank, scouting's highest, at a court of honor at 7:30 p.m. Thursday.

Duncan, 17, a senior at Tamalpais High School, has been a member of Troop 34 in Mill Valley since 1969, when he moved to Marin from Southern California.

He is the son of Leo L. Duncan of 624 Midvale Way, Mill Valley.

For his Eagle project, Mark served as acting junior scoutmaster for Troop 26, then of Mill Valley but now located in Strawberry, for four months in 1970 when that troop was without a permanent scoutmaster.

He is a member of the Order of the Arrow, an honorary scouting organization, and has held all green bar positions in scouting from assistant patrol leader to senior patrol leader.

Mark was one of 36 Marin scouts to participate in the 13th World Jamboree in Tokyo last summer and for the last three years, has been bugler at the Marin Boy Scout Jamboree.

He has been a member of the Honor T Scholarship Society at Tamalpais High for each year he attend the school, an honor reserved for students with a grade point average of 3.2 or better.

Mark's badge will be presented at ceremonies at the Mill Valley Scout Hall, 177 East Blithedale Avenue.

Expert On Sea Offers To Speak

An expert on the sea otter will speak on them and other marine mammals at 7:30 p.m. Sunday at the Marin Humane Society in Novato.

The talk by Judson VanDevere, a biologist at Stanford University's Hopkins Marine Station in Monterey, will be the third speaker in the "Preservation of Wildlife" lecture series of the Indian Valley Colleges, the Novato campus of the Marin Community College District.

Water Needs Survey Will Be Discussed

A proposal that the Marin Municipal Water District survey its customers for their opinions of district policies and actions will be considered by the water district board at 1:30 p.m. tomorrow in the district office in Corte Madera.

According to J. Dietrich Stroeh, manager of engineering, the survey may ask, among other things, what customers think the district should do to expand its current water supply to meet future needs.

A staff report on projected population and water use in the district to 1985 will also be presented to the board, he said.

In other business, directors will hear a proposal for an environmental impact study of its plans for the Chapman Reservoir, to be located on Corte Madera Ridge, between Corte Madera and Mill Valley.

Svetlana Moves Into Own House

PARADISE VALLEY, Zriz. (UPI) — Mrs. Svetlana Peters, daughter of Russian dictator Joseph Stalin, says she has quit the Taliesin Foundation because she doesn't like communal living.

"It was against my principles," she said Monday. "I believe in private property."

"They live a communal life at the foundation. They share their incomes, their food, their living. Everyone works, including the children."

Mrs. Peters met her husband, William, in 1970 at Taliesin West where she had gone to visit Mrs. Frank Lloyd Wright, widow of the famed architect. She and Peters, chief architect of the Frank Lloyd Wright Foundation, were married three weeks later. They are the sister-in-law and brother of Mrs. S.I. Hayakawa of Mill Valley.

Mrs. Peters said she left Russia because of communal living "and that's why I split away from the Taliesin fellowship."

She said she and her husband "talked it over and we decided to buy our own house."

The couple and their 9-month-old daughter, Olga, live in a cream colored house in Mountain Shadows East. A uniformed guard is stationed at the entrance to the development.

Trio Nabbed In Burglary Probe

Three young men were arrested Saturday by Petaluma police on suspicion of possession of stolen property that may link them to several Southern California burglaries.

Roy Michael Horton, 21, of Mansfield, Ohio; Edward Eric Travis, 20, of Zanesville, Ohio; and Robert Earl Hines, 20, of no known address, were booked into the Sonoma County Jail for arraignment today in Southern Sonoma Municipal Court.

Police said the men were stopped for a routine traffic violation when credit cards and camping equipment reported stolen were found in the rear of the car.

FIRE CALLS

YESTERDAY:

Subdivision's Tentative Map To Be Studied

A tentative map for a 206-unit subdivision on 160 acres of Wolfback Ridge will be considered by the Sausalito Planning Commission at 8 p.m. today in city hall.

Tonight's special meeting was called because last week's commission meeting was canceled due to lack of a quorum.

The development is being proposed by Edward R. Fitzsimmons.

In other business the planners will hold a public hearing on an amended plan for the 431-unit Whiskey Springs subdivision on the site of the former American Distillery Co. property in North Sausalito.

Developer Joseph Duffel, who wants to build apartments on the land, has sought and received several extensions of a conditional use permit for the development.

Duffel's new plan proposes relocation of some units, parking and open space areas.

Tool Box, Tools Reported Stolen

A tool box and tools, valued at more than $200, were stolen between 11 a.m. and 1:41 p.m. yesterday from a truck parked near 10 Elizabeth Way, San Rafael, police reported tody.

Police said the tools were owned by George W. Gosser of 26 Amicita Avenue, Mill Valley.

SPORT NOTES

Sharon Representing U.S. Tennis Team

By RALPH CHATGIAN

My scoop du jour of the day.

SHARON WALSH of San Rafael will be one of three members of the United States Federation Cup tennis team to compete in that prestigious tournament March 20-25 in Johannesberg, South Africa.

Sharon will be joined by Valerie Zeigenfuss of San Diego and Linda Tuero of Metaire, La. in the women's equivalent to the Davis Cup.

It will be a repeat performance for Sharon who competed last year with Patti Hogan of La Jolla when the Fderation Cup tournament was held in Australia. Sharon and Patti reached the semifinals before being beat by the team from Great Britain. The Federation Cup was won by Australia's team of Evonne Goolagong and Margaret Court.

Sharon flew back to San Rafael today from Phoenix to help her parents, Les and Jessie Walsh, celebrate their 31st wedding anniversary. She'll stay around town long enough to celebrate her own 20th birthday Thursday.

WHILE ON THE subject of tennis, Mrs. Barbara Klyce of San Rafael, mother of those Klyce boys who play tennis, is one of the earliest entrants for the 10th annual Grandmothers Tennis Tournament March 22 at Golden Gate Park.

WHEN IT COMES time for the state junior hockey championships March 11-12 there will be two Bonbright boys playing, but for different teams.

The two boys, 11-year-old Chris and 16-year-old David, are sons of Mr. and Mrs. I. Wayland Bonbright III of Ross. Chris plays for the Marin Pee Wee team of boys aged 10 to 12. Since Marin's junior hockey program doesn't have a Midget division (14-16), David is forced to go across the bay to play for a Berkeley team.

The problem came when Mr. and Mrs. Bonbright tried to figure how to see their boys compete when they were playing games on Sundays at different Northern California rinks.

"We had to split it up," explained Mrs. Bonbright. "I go to the games Chris' Pee Wees play and my husband goes to the games in which David plays."

The Marin Pee Wees and Berkeley Midgets clinched spots in the state championships at Los Angeles at the same time. "They were both 5:20 games (Feb. 13)," said Shirley Bonbright, who was watching Chris and his teammates defeat a team from San Francisco, 7-2, at Raydine's ice rink in Corte Madera. At that time, the boys' father, a manager of industrial relations for Pacific Gas and Electric Co., was watching David and the Midgets beat Sun Valley (a community near Walnut Creek), 4-2, at the Berkeley team's home rink.

But if the Bonbrights had their problems trying to see their two youngsters play, imagine the plight of Mr. and Mrs. Paul O'Hara of Santa Venetia. They had four sons — John, Kevin, Tim and Mike — playing in three divisions for Marin's teams in the Norcal hockey association.

Giants Pick Don McMahon As Coach

CASA GRANDE, Ariz. (UPI) — Maybe Don McMahon, still pitching strong at the age of 42, is thinking of the future.

The righthanded relief pitcher agreed Monday to also double as the pitching coach of the San Francisco Giants after a short conversation with manager Charlie Fox.

"Charlie asked me and I said okay," said McMahon. "It was the first time Charlie has brought up the subject to me personally."

Fox said McMahon, the Brooklyn native who scouts for the Oakland Raiders during the football season, would still be his No. 1 short-duty relief pitcher. McMahon has appeared in 599 games, topped only by the venerable Hoyt Wilhelm.

Last year, McMahon won 10 games and had four saves as a reliever. He said his major job as pitching coach would be to help the young Giant pitchers.

"I'll concentrate on the youngsters," he said. "I'll advise them when I notice something that seems to need adjustment. It will be up to them to respond because I can't pitch for them.

"Some of them have fine potential, especially having a year's more maturity. I mean fellows such as Don Carrithers, Jim Barr, Ron Bryant, John Cumberland and Steve Stone."

Meanwhile, Jerry Donovan, chief contract negotiator for owner Horace Stoneham, said he has signed third baseman Alan Gallagher to a 1972 contract.

"We went up a little and he came down a little," Donovan told Stoneham.

Still unsigned are pitchers Juan Marichal, Jerry Johnson and Jim Willoughby and infielders Tito Fuentes and Ed Goodson and outfielder Jimmy Rosario.

WILLIAMS RETURNS TO ALMA MATER

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — Jim Williams, assistant football coach at the University of Tampa, was named new head coach of the Florida A&M Rattlers today.

Williams, an All-American quarterback for Famu in 1948, succeeds his nephew, the late Clarence Montgomery.

The selection of Williams, 48-year-old Tampa native, was announced byamu president B. L. Perry Jr. and athletic director Jake Gaither, who was head coach when Williams played for the Rattlers.

DeMont Tops Swim Marks

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Rick DeMont, the 15-year-old distance freestyler extraordinaire of the Marin Aquatic Club, annexed two more Pacific Association AAU records over this three-day weekend at San Francisco State College.

DeMont won the 500 and 1,650-yard freestyle races in P.A. record times of 4:39.0 and 15:56.0, respectively, in the Northern California Senior Swim Invitational.

He eclipsed the 500 mark previously held by Terry Atkinson of the Arden Hills Swim Club, and improved upon the 1650 mark he already held.

"Rick's 1650 time is the fastest recorded in the United States by anybody this year," his coach, Don Swartz, stated. "He's also only the fifth person ever in the United States to go under 16 minutes for the distance."

Swartz continued, "The whole team, especially the men, had a fine meet. A lot of the other swim powers are starting to sit up and take notice of us."

Paul Cane, 17, also of the Marin A.C., sprinted to a second place finish in the 100-yard Breaststroke in the time of 1:03.4.

DeMont posted a second place finish in the 400-yard Individual Medley in 4:16.8, and a third place in the 200 I.M. in 2:02.0.

"I think Rick is proving to himself that he can swim as fast as he wants to," Swartz theorized. "He's gaining confidence in himself."

Seventeen-year-old Denise Ham led the women's showing with two National AAU Qualifying performances, in the 100-yard Butterfly (1:01.4) and the 400 I.M. (4:50.9).

In the Men's 200 breast final, Cane placed fourth in 2:18.8.

Art Morrill, 15, placed sixth in the 200 I.M. after posting a career best of 2:03.7 in the trials. Morrill also won the consolation final heat (seventh place overall) in two events, the 200 breast and 400 I.M.

In the relays, the Marin A.C. placed well in both men's and women's competition.

In the Women's 400 and 800-yard free races, Maura Campion, Jo Hislop, Anne Engel and Miss Ham placed fourth.

In the Women's medley relay, Sue Secondo and Kimla Hughes joined Misses Hislop and Ham to place fifth.

Morrill, Cane, DeMont, Clint McDuffie and Scott Dicker combined in the Men's relays to grab fourth, fifth and sixth places in the 800, 400, and medley relays.

Other results:

Denise Ham — 200 fly, 8th; 200 breast, 8th.
Kim Hughes — 100 back, 8th; 200 back, 10th.
Jo Hislop — 100 free, 10th; 200 back, 11th.
Paul Cane —200 I.M., 11th; 400 I.M., 12th.
Keith Strange —100 breast, 8th.

Blacks Set 7 Demands In Michigan

EAST LANSING, Mich. (UPI)—A group representing the black athletes at Michigan State University today presented school officials with seven demand they said would "alleviate many of the injustices that black athletes experience."

The demands included appointment of a black academic advisor in the athletic department, financial assistance for athletes after their eligibility has ended, formation of a grievance board composed of black athletes, coaches and faculty and representation on the screening committee now looking at candidates for the MSU athletic directorship.

"We don't feel there's a demand here that can't be met," said sprinter Herb Washington, one of the four black athletes who acted as spokesmen for the remainder of the group. "We're sure there are a lot of these demands they're already aware of."

Washington said the demands also were of a nature that work could be begun on all of them immediately.

"We don't want to be pacified by having one demand met this year and another next year," he said.

He said a meeting would be set up in the near future with the school administration to begin talking about the seven points on the list.

Washington was joined by football team co-captain Billy Joe DuPree, Allen Smith of the basketball team and Nigel Goodoson of the soccer team. Among the black athletes looking on were Eric Allen, the Big Ten's leading rusher last fall, and Mike Robinson, who currently leads Big Ten basketball players in scoring.

The athletes said they also support the demand made by MSU's black faculty earlier this month for more black athletic officials, varsity coaches and trainers in the Big Ten and at Michigan State.

"Michigan State University occupies the leadership position in terms of black enrollment in the Big Ten, and as such the central administration should pioneer the quest for desegregation in the athletic arena," their statement said.

San Francisco State Guard Gains Award

DAVIS (UPI)—Guard Billy Metcalf of San Francisco State, who scored 49 points in two easy victories over Humboldt State and Sonoma State, has been named backcourt player of the week in the Far Western Conference.

Bruce Green of Sacramento State and Ron McMillan of University of California at Davis shared front-court honors.

Wrestler's Name Omitted From List

Due to a typographical error, the name of Wolf Kristensen of San Rafael High School was inadvertently omitted from Monday's list of Marin County Athletic League wrestlers who qualified for next Saturday's North Coast Sectional championships.

Kristensen finished fourth in the 157-pound class at last Saturday's Division I meet at Newark High School.

IN OAKLAND TONIGHT

Golden State, Seattle Vie

OAKLAND (UPI)—Nate Thurmond, meet Jim McDaniels.

It could happen tonight when the Seattle Supersonics tangle with the Golden State Warriors in another National Basketball Association crucial at the Oakland Coliseum-Arena.

McDaniels, the 7-1 center who jumped cross country from the Carolina Cougars of the American Basketball Association to Seattle, made his NBA debut, all 90 seconds of it, against Portland Sunday night. So the former Western Kentucky star might be ready for more playing time against the Warriors.

Seattle has a 40-25 record in the Pacific Division, half a game ahead of Golden State which is 39-25. Only one of them can make the NBA playoffs.

Spencer Haywood, another jumper from the ABA, is pacing the Sonics with a 26.1 scoring average, third best in the NBA. Clyde Lee of the Warriors calls Haywood "the toughest big forward in the league."

After missing the last two games because of a death in the family, Lee will be back tonight to guard Haywood.

FIGHTS LAST NIGHT

Thomas Placed On Probation

GREENVILLE, Tex. (UPI)—Zig-zag running back Duane Thomas, the player who rushed the most and said the least for the Super Bowl champion Dallas Cowboys, pleaded guilty to having marijuana Monday and received a five-year probated prison sentence.

Thomas appeared in court clean-shaven, wearing a conservative brown suit. His answers to Judge Hollis Garmon were strictly "yes, sir, your honor."

Thomas' 21-year-old brother entered the same plea and got the same sentence. The two brothers were arrested Jan. 30 while driving through this town 50 miles northeast of Dallas on a Sunday afternoon.

"You are not to leave Hunt County or Dallas County without permission of the probation officer or without the court's knowledge," Garmon said. "You will be under some consistent supervision as you travel about the country."

Oakland Signs Jackson

OAKLAND (UPI) —Reggie Jackson is in the fold and Oakland Athletics owner Charles O. Finley hopes Vida Blue and Sal Bando are not far behind.

Finley announced Monday that Jackson, the A's slugging rightfielder; signed his 1972 contract for an increase in salary. But exactly how much more than the estimated $47,000 he got last year nobody would say.

The 25-year-old outfielder had his best year in the majors last season when he batted a career high of .277, slammed 32 home runs and drove in 80 runs. In addition, he trailed Boston's Carl Yastrzemski by only one in assists for American League outfielders. Reggie had 15.

Jackson was the 29th Athletic to sign for the season, only two days before the team opens spring training at Mesa, Ariz.

Among the 11 still unsigned are lefthanded pitcher Vida Blue, third baseman Sal Bando, outfielder Joe Rudi, second baseman Dick Green and pitchers Diego Segui, Rollie Fingers and Darold Knowles.

Blue remains home at Mansfield, La., while his attorney, Robert J. Gerst of Los Angeles, keeps periodically in touch with Finley.

Gerst has compiled attendance figures in games in which Blue pitched at home and on the road last season. The attorney also took into consideration the salaries being offered Bob Gibson ($150,000), Juan Marichal ($130,000), Tom Seaver ($120,000) and others and came up with an average salary of $92,500 for Blue this season.

Finley has gone as high as $50,000.

Prep Cage Protest Upheld

The Marin County Athletic League protest committee has upheld Marin Catholic High School's protest of its Jan. 28 loss to San Marin and has ordered the game replayed from the spot of the controversy, league commissioner George Corson announced today.

"The one second left to play (in the game) after the delay in the original game will be replayed," said Corson. "Marin Catholic will have the ball with five seconds to in-bound it anywhere along the end line nearest San Marin's basket."

The score at this point will be Marin Catholic 56, San Marin 54. In the original game, a referee instructed Marin Catholic's player not to move laterally while attempting to throw the ball in-bounds, and this is the action Marin Catholic protested.

Subsequently, San Marin gined possession, hit the game-tying basket at the buzzer, and won in overtime, 68-63.

The replay probably will occur Friday, when the two schools meet at Marin Catholic.

West Selected

NEW YORK (UPI)—Jerry West, whose brilliant play has helped spark the Los Angeles Lakers to a 54-9 record so far this season, including a record 33 consecutive wins, Monday became the January winner in the balloting for the 23rd annual Hickok Professional Athlete of the year award.

St. Louis Cards Obtain Anderson

GREEN BAY (UPI)—The Green Bay Packers and St. Louis Cardinals swapped disgruntled running backs Tuesday with Donny Anderson, one of the highest paid bonus players in football history, going to the Cards for MacArthur Lane.

The announcement came in a joint statement from the Packers and Cardinals.

NO CONTRACTS

Both players failed to sign contracts fo the 1971 season and would have become free agents on May 1 if they hadn't agreed to terms. Lane had a cordial meeting with Cardinal management a few days ago, but Anderson, who had accompanied a group of NFL players to Southeast Asia, had not met with Green Bay personnel since the season ended.

A trade of Anderson, who signed an estimated $650,000 contract with the Packers six years ago, had been rumored since the end of last season.

The former Texas Tech star, who now lives in Lubbock, Tex., went trhough a frustrating season, showing well statistically but sharing one position in the Packers' backfield with Dave Hampton.

FRUSTRATED

Lane was also frustrated and his feeling erupted the final week of the season when he was suspended for remarks he allegedly made about Cardinals' Vice President William V. Bidwell.

It was reported that Lane, in the locker room after a 19-7 loss to Philadelphia, said that Bidwell "carries all his money right there—in his stomach."

Lane later denied the actual quote, but when he was in St. Louis recently he and Bidwell jovially posed for a photograph that had Lane patting Bidwell's stomach.

SEASON

of the season he had a goal of 1,000 yards. Up to the time of his suspension he had gained 592 yards in 150 carries and he explained his locker room remark.

"The whole damn season has been so frustrating," he said. "When I saw him after we had lost, I spoke without thinking. What I said was in a rage of anger."

Anderson will be 29 before next season begins. Lane is 28. Both were first round draft picks, Anderson as a junior in 1964, Lane as a senior in 1968. Lane played his collegiate football at Utah State.

ANDERSON

Anderson and Jim Grabowski came to Green Bay touted as the successors to the famous Packers' duo of Jim Taylor and Paul Hornung. Grabowski was the first to show promise, but his career was cut short by a leg injyry and he was released before last season started.

Anderson has also had injury problems, but he had outstanding seasons in 1968 and 1970, gaining 761 yards in 1968 and 853 in 1970. He missed much of the 1969 season with injury.

Last season he ended up playing second fiddle to John Brockington, Green Bay's outstanding rookie running back who gained 1,105 yards.

Junior Hockey All-Stars Picked

The Northern California Junior Hockey Association has announced its all-star team and it turns out to be one of the most widely O'Haralded in recent memcry.

Four members of the O'Hara family of Santa Venetia were named to the various squads as 20 youthful Marin Amateur Hockey Club players were selected.

"That's more than any other hockey club in Northern California," said league spokesman Don Anderson.

Two O'Haras, center John and leftwinger Kevin, were named to the mites team (age eight and under). Center Tim made the pee wee squad (11-12) and leftwinger Mike made the bantams (13-14). All four are sons of Paul and Jean O'Hara of 824 Rincon Way, Santa Venetia.

Four other brother combinations were represented, although three had to leave Marin County to do it, since Marin has no midgets (15-16) team. Midget center David Bonbright played for Berkeley while brother Chris, a leftwinger, was a Marin pee wee. Midget defenseman Rob Long played for San Francisco and brother Mike, also a defenseman, was a Marin pee wee. Midget defenseman Don Presley played for San Francisco and his brother Gene, a bantam center, followed him across the Golden Gate and played for San Francisco, also.

The Cameron brothers, center Kip and leftwinger Clay, both made the all-star team playing for Marin's squirts.

Mites — Kevin O'Hara, leftwinger; John O'Hara, center; John Tatocchi, rightwinger.

Squirts — Andy Bachich, leftwinger; Clay Cameron, leftwinger; Kip Cameron, center; Jimmy MacRae, rightwinger.

Bantams — Mike O'Hara, leftwinger; Russ Dotson, defenseman; John Rotar, goalie; Gene Presley, center (San Francisco).

Midgets — David Bonbright, center (Berkeley); Rob Long, defenseman (San Francisco); Don Presley, defenseman (San Francisco).

Olympic Skier Assails Rules

BOSTON (UPI)—U.S. Olympic skier Suzy Chaffee of Rutland, Vt., says Olympic rules are "inhumane, unrealistic and very condusive to perjury."

Miss Chafee's analysis came during a taped debate on the question, "Should the Olympics be open to professional athletes" which was scheduled for showing on the Public Broadcasting Service network's "The Advocates" show tonight.

PETITION

Miss Chaffee, who circulated a petition calling for changes in the rules during the recent winter Olympics in Japan, charged that "the public has been greatly deceived that amateurism is a good force in the world. It's actually left over from the nineteenth century, when sports were reserved for the aristocracy and rules were made to keep out the lower classes and the poor.

"As a result of this rather inhumane, unrealistic set of rules, it doesn't give all the people in the world an equal opportunity to enjoy competition in sports."

PANEL MEMBER

Miss Chaffee, a member of the panel adopting the pro side of the professional question, added, "This present amateur system is very conducive to perjury. If the youth of the world, who are having to compromise themselves to be able to compete in the most significant event in the world, have to sign an oath saying that they had obeyed all these rules, then this thing is in fact condoning perjury and making the youth of the world feel that they're going to have to start off their life compromised. It gives a false sense of values for the rest of their lives."

GOLD MEDALIST

Miss Chaffee was joined on the pro side of the question by Harold Connolly, 1956 Olympic gold medalist in the hammer-throw.

U.S. Rep. Bob Mathias, (R-Calif.), Olympic decathlon winner in 1948 and 1952, headed the opposing panel which also included triple gold medalist Jesse Owens in the 1936 games and Olympic committee member Harold Zimman.

AMATEUR SPIRIT

Rep. Mathias insisted the "spirit of amateur competition is completely different from professional competition" and said he was an Olympic competitor "for the love of sport and not for money.

"I think eventually it (professionalism) would do away with the games, it would kill the games," Rep Mathias said, noting that Olympic medals should go only to the "very best amateur athletes."

Connolly, 40 and the father of four children, explained that he and other Olympic hopefuls have to "climb over fences into vacant lots in order to be able to practice" and the workouts are in addition to the normal jobs necessary to support his family.

"I think just one washing machine commercial and the few thousand dollars it would realize for us would make the task a hell of a lot easier," Connolly said of the hopes by both himself and his wife to qualify again for the Olympics.

Cleveland's Proposed Move South Under Study

NEW YORK (UPI)—You can start calling them the New Orleans-Cleveland Indians.

American League President Joe Cronin is going to New Orleans next week to determine the feasibility of the Indians playing 30 of their home games there two years from now.

The AL president will inspect the site where a new domed stadium is being built and listen to a presentation of a local group. He will then come back and make a report which will be favorable.

The AL owners will follow with a vote on whether to let the Indians play in New Orleans or not and that's all cut and dried because they've already told Cleveland owner Vern Stouffer they'll let him go, primarily because they may want to try the same thing themselves some day . . . .

Jan Stenerud has never met Ralph Branca, hasn't even heard of him, in fact, but he feels the same way about his botch-ups now as Branca does about his famous one.

'TIME HEALS'

"Time heals everything," says Kansas City's place kicking specialist.

He's talking about those field goals he missed against Miami, the ones which cost the Chiefs a Super Bowl shot, and Stenerud sounds the same way now that Branca does anytime someone asks the ex-Dodger pitcher about the home run Bobby Thompson clipped him for 20 years ago. . . . .

Jim Chones jumping Marquette to sign with the New York Nets isn't much different from Jim McDaniels leaving the Carolina Cougars for the Seattle Supersonics. Chones said he was looking out for himself and McDaniels didn't have to say whom he was looking out for, you know who it was.

LOOKING OUT

Everybody's looking out for himself. The two pro leagues are thinking only about themselves, the college coaches only about themselves and the players only about themselves.

Sen. Sam Ervin (D-N.C.), who continues trying to keep the NBA and ABA from merging, can't feel that good when he sees a kid like Chones go for the money instead of the education. El Cordobes, the world famous Spanish bullfighter, has money coming out of his ears, but no education. He can't read or write. Sen. Ervin ought to ask him how he feels about it. I can tell you how El Cordobes feels—not that good. I think the Senator from North Carolina is guilty of oversimplification when he stands up and says:

"The Congress did not let Motown Records and all the other record companies combine to prevent Michael Jackson of the Jackson Five from singing for for money until he finished college and sang in the college glee club. The Congress did not let the movie studios combine to prevent some latter-day Shirley Temple from acting until she finished college and had acted in the campus theater group."

PARDON

If the good Senator will pardon me, I think his comparisons do not hold water. They merely suggest he hasn't spent enough time around basketball recruiters. . . . .

Jim Lonborg, hoping to become a big winner with Milwaukee, says he needs a manger who drives him. He came to the right place. Dave Bristol maages the Brewers and he can drive all right. Some of zhe players he had with the Reds say he drove them so much he nearly drove them up a wall. Tommy Helms, with Houston now, goes the other way though. He says he doesn't think there are any better manager around than Dave Bristol. . . . .

Alex Johnson has some bum raps pinned on him.

MEAN

One of them is that he's so mean and tough he'll break a man in half as quick as look at him. That isn't true. He's not that mean and not that tough.

Before he was traded to Cleveland, one of the coaches on a club he had been with, took exception to a name Johnson repeatedly was calling him. The coach happens to be 47 years old, nearly twice Johnson's age, and he never looks for trouble, but he can go if he has to.

He went up to Johnson, enunciated clearly and slowly, and told him what he would do to him if he ever called him that name again.

Alex Johnson never did. . . . .

Scott Retains Lead In Scoring Parade

NEW YORK (UPI)—Charlie Scott, the second-year terror of the Virginia Squires, retained his No. 1 position in the American Basketball Association's scoring race, according to the latest statistics released today.

Scott has pumped in 2,204 points in 64 games and has averaged 34.44 points a game and along with teammate Julius Erving, has helped the Squires fashion a 38-26 won-lost record, good enough for second place in the East Division. Erving ranks seventh among the top ten scorers with a 26.37 average.

Not surprisingly, the Squires have the most potent team offense in the league. recording an average of 119.27 points a game.

Artis Gilmore of Kentucky is the only player to lead in two different categories. The 7-foot1 center of the Colonels leads in rebound averag (18.49) and two-point field goal accuracy (.588).

Glen Combs of Utah has popped in 80 of 200 shots from the three-point range to lead in that category with 40 per ent.

Rick Barry of the New York Nets, second to Scott in the scoring race with a 32.02 average, is the most accurate from the foul line with an .884 percentage and teammate Bill Melchionni is the circuit's top playmaker with 8.2 assists a game.

Dallas has the toughest defense, yielding 105.37 points a game, but the Chaparrals are also plagued by the circuit's weakest offense, scoring only 103.78 points a contest.

NBA Scoring Lead Sustained By Jabbar

NEW YORK (UPI)—Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, who put a recent string of 50-point games together, continues as the scoring leader of the National Basketball Association.

The 7-foot-2 center of the Milwaukee Bucks has poured in 2,279 points in 66 contests for a points per-game average of 34.5. Abdul-Jabbar has connected on 924 of 1,607 attempts from the floor and has sunk 431 free throws. His field goal percentage of .575 ranks as the second best figure in the league.

John Havlicek, the tireless "Hondo" of the Boston Celtics, ranks No. 2 in the scoring race with a 26.7 average. Havlicek has scored 1,789 points in 67 games to spark the resurgent Celts to a 2 1-2 game lead over New York in the Atlantic Division.

Seattle's Spencer Haywood holds down third position with a 26.2 mark while Bob Love of Chicago (26.0) and Gail Goodrich of Los Angeles (25.9) round out the top five.

Wilt Chamberlain of the Lakers is the most accurate from the foor, hitting on 377 of 584 attempts for a .646 percentage and Calvin Murphy of Houston has the keenest eye at the free throw line, sinking 259 of 289 for an .896 mark.

The 34-year-old Chamberlain has also hauled in more rebounds than anyone in the NBA, clutching 1,220 through 63 games for an average of 19.4 a game. His teammate Jerry West, ranked seventh in scoring (25.7 ppg), is the circuits' assist leader with 9.7 a game.

Clark-Paced Baltimore '5' Victorious

BALTIMORE (UPI) — That old axiom that athletes try harder against teams that traded them away was proved once again Monday by Archie Clark of the Baltimore Bullets.

Clark, who came to the Bullets earlier this season in a trade with the Philadelphia 76ers, poured in 30 points against his ex-teammates in a nationally televised contest, including the winning basket with 21 seconds to play, as the Bullets scored a 102-101 victory.

The triumph was an important one for the Bullets and the loss a costly one for the 76ers. By winning, Baltimore boosted its lead in the National Basketball Association's Central Division to four and one-half games while the loss dropped Philadelphia closer to playoff elimination in the Atlantic Division.

Dallas Runner Quits To Coach

AMARILLO, Tex. (UPI)— Dallas Cowboy running backcoach Danny Reeves said Monday he was through as an active player but would remain with the Cowboys as a coach.

Reeves was part of Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes' campaign entourage. He has played running back for the Cowboys seven years. The last two years he was a player-coach seeing action only when subbing for a starter.

He has undergone four knee operations in his career. Cowboy Coach Tom Landry confirmed Reeves' retirement as a player. Reeves coaches the offensive backfield.

Marin Swimmer Wins 5 Events In Denver Meet

Robert Placak of Marin Aquatic Club took five first places and a second in the 11-12 age bracket of the Celebrity Winter Open swimming meet Saturday and Sunday at the Celebrity Sports Center in Denver, Colo.

Placak set meet records with victories in the 100-yard freestyle (58.6), the 100 backstroke (1:09.2), the 100 butterfly (1:06.3) and the 200 individual medley (2:25.7). He also won the 200 free (2:09.7) and placed second in the 100 breaststroke.

Placak won the 11-12 bracket high-point trophy with 40 of a possible 42 points. He improved ning event despite the mile-high atmosphere. A total of 560 swimmers from 10 states entered the meet.

Esposito Breaks Hockey Record

NEW YORK (UPI)—Boston's Phil Esposito has become the first player in the history of the National Hockey League to score more than 100 points in three different seasons and only the second player to score 50 or more goals on two different occasions.

Esposito has totaled 102 points so far this season on 51 goals and 51 assists, but he's failed to shake Jean Ratelle of New York.

Ratelle lead all scorers last week with seven goals and four assists. He now has 43 goals and 59 assists for a share of the league scoring lead as he and Esposito conduct a spectacular duel for the Art Ross Trophy.

Bobby Orr of the Bruins is third with 92 points, which include a league-leading 65 assists. Ratelle's linemates, Rod Gilbert (88) and Vic Hadfield (86) round out the top five scorers.

Thigh Injury Shelves Chinese Sprinter

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

LOS ANGELES — Chi Cheng Reel, rated the greatest woman sprinter in the world, is suffering from acute tendinitis of the upper thigh and hasn't worked out in four weeks, her husband-coach said today. The 27-year-old Nationalist Chinese athlete is undergoing treatment from Dr. Jerry Bornstein, according to Vince Reel.

Her coach said Chi had hoped to compete in the 100-meter dash and 100-meter hurdles at the Munich Olympics this summer but might have to give up the hurdles event and switch to the 400-meter dash.

"When she was hurdling," Reel said, "it was the toughest event. We've given some thought to switching to the 400."

A student at Cal Poly Pomona, Chi will not have to qualify for the Taiwan Olympic team because of her past record. She was married to Reel at Taipei, Formosa, in December, 1970.

Basketball

BOWLING GREEN, Ohio — Seven-foot center Mark Cartwright, a University of Maryland sophomore who didn't think he had much of a future at the school because of his much-heralded sophomore teammate, Tom McMillen, will play the rest of his collegiate basketball at Bowling Green State University.

ST. LOUIS — Bill Bradley of the New York Knickerbockers basketball team said yesterday he is "assessing the situation" before making a decision on entering the race for the Democratic nomination for state treasurer in Missouri.

NEW YORK — The New Nassau Coliseum in Uniondale, N.Y., has started its campaign to revive interest in college basketball in the East.

The Coliseum, which houses the New York Nets of the American Basketball Association and the soon-to-be New York Islanders of the National Hockey League, has already attracted three of the nation's top basketball teams t appear in the inaugural Nassau Classic on Dec. 19-20. Long Beach State, Jacksonville and Oral Roberts have all agreed to join host school Hofstra University in next season's holiday tournament.

Cycling

HOUSTON — A determined 41-year-old native of Italy left yesterday on a six-month, 3,800-mile bicycle trip that he hopes will carry him to the Olympic Games in Munich, Germany, in August.

Ennio "Nino" Ponte, 41, a mechanic for the city fire department, lost his sponsor after preparations for the trip were underway and had only $50, his wife's life savings, for the journey. He rode a speedy Gitane, a French cycle, given to him by a local dealer.

Watching A Hunt Is Half The Fun

By AL GIDDINGS

This past week I went to the Black Point Pheasant Club with Domingo Grossi of Inverness and about eight guests that he invited. (It's great to be a millionaire, I'll tell you!) We had a good shoot, getting probably 20 pheasants.

Invited along was one of Domingo's sisters, Lilly McWhorter of Ignacio. I've known the Grossi family for 25 years, but I'd never heard of Lilly being a hunter, so decided that observing her should be really worthwhile. Domingo gave everyone instructions and then the hunt was on.

LILLY GOT off by herself for awhile, so I lost track of some of her actions. At noon, though, we were having some lunch, so I questioned her about what happened. Here's her story: The first bird she saw was in a patch of high weeds, sitting as still as can be. Lilly had no dog, so she walked around this bird for five minutes or so but nothing happened. She finally decided that it was dead, so she put her gun down and walked over to retrieve this poor, dead bird.

She just about touched the bird when it exploded into the air, leaving her speechless. She said her reaction was just to call herself a damned fool! A little later she saw a bird running. Not to be outdone this time, she took off in galloping pursuit. She swears the bird ran into one of the barns there so again she ended up in an impasse.

AFTER LUNCH I decided to watch her more closely and saw her making a true sneak on a bird. Gun at the ready and long high steps, it was a sight to watch! Finally she shot but I saw no bird, just a great cloud of dust. I continued to watch. Soon she disappeared into a ditch, then came out carrying a nice big rooster. I couldn't believe it. I questioned her about shooting downhill at this bird, asking her if it had been hiding in a hole or something. "Not so," she said. "It was a low flying bird!"

Anyway, I saw Lilly get a bird, one way or another. She was so tickled, I don't think the method really mattered very much. So if you're out that was hunting and see Lilly, watch her — it's worth the price of admission.

QUITE A FEW brant hunters were out for the last weekend of the season at Tomales Bay near Hog Island. Most of the hunters drew a blank, except for the experienced skullers. I watched Enos Foster and Ropie Clarke, both Marinites, take about four hours to get one bird. They started off with two fast passes taking seven, but getting that last bird took them a half-day of hard work. That just about wraps up the hunting for this year until deer season.

FOR YOU outdoorsmen who want to see the latest in equipment, the eighth annual Mobile Home and Recreation Vehicle Show is scheduled March 8 through 12 at the Cow Palace. More than 400 recreation vehicles, travel and camping trailers, motorhomes, campers and van conversions will be on display. Hours are 10 a.m. to 10 p.m., and 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. Sunday.

Parks Department Seeking Umpires

Men interested in umpiring in the San Rafael Parks and Recreation Department adult softball league should apply at room 209, San Rafael city hall, by March 15.

The spring softball league will run approximately April 3-June 11. Games will be played on Friday and Sunday nights, and pay will range from $4-$6 per game.

ABA ROUNDUP

Beaty Scores Record 63 In Utah Win

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Zelmo Beaty was full of thank yous after the Utah Stars' victory Monday night and well he might be. After all, he had just broken the American Basketball Association single games-scoring record with 63 points.

Beaty was simply unstoppable as he pumped in 24-of-31 shots, a .774 percentage, and hit all 15 foul shots in the Stars' 149-140 victory over the Pittsburgh Condors.

"I was very lucky tonight," said Beaty. "I couldn't believe some of the shots I put in. I knew I was within the record late in the game when Willie (Wise) starting passing up good shots to get the ball to me. But that's the kind of team this is. I never would have broken the record if they all didn't help me."

In the only other ABA game, The New York Nets downed the Dallas Chaparrals 104-95. Bill Melchionni hit 26 points and Billy Paultz added 19 as the Nets snapped a four-game losing streak, their longest of the season, and ended the Chaps' six-game winning streak.

Hylton Grabs Lead In Cup Points Race

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (UPI) —James Hylton of Inman, S. C., has grabbed the lead in the NASCAR Winston Cup Grand National points standings.

Hylton, who drove a Ford to a fifth-place finish in Sunday's Daytona 500, jumped from seventh place in the standings to the lead with a total of 595 points,

San Francisco Dons Move Ahead In Race

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

UCLA and the San Francisco Dons have opened a bit of daylight over their closest pursuers.

The top-ranked Bruins disposed of Washington State 85-55 Monday night to just about wrap up their sixth straight title in the Pacific-8 Conference. That gave UCLA a 9-0 record in the conference compared to 7-2 for runnerup USC which lost to Washington 78-62.

USF, meanwhile, demolished St. Mary's 106-72 to go half a game on top of idle Santa Clara in the West Coast Athletic Conference, with a 9-1 record.

UCLA, now 21-0, hit 57.4 per cent of its shots and outrebounded the Cougars 60-33 for the easy win. The Bruins were leading 42-34 early in the second half before erupting on sprees of 7-0 and 13-0 to grab a 52-38 advantage with 11:48 to go.

Keith Wilkes and Larry Hollyfield each scored 16 points for UCLA. Sophomore center Bill Walton hit six of seven shots from the floor for 15 points and plucked 19 rebounds.

Washington outscored USC 122 to close out the first half for a 34-22 intermission edge. After the Trojans closed to 44-37 in the second half, the Huskies reeled off eight straight points to put it away.

Junior forward Reggie Ball led Washington with 22 points while Joe Mackey canned 22 for the Trojans.

USF used its tall front line of Johnny Burks, Byron Jones and Kevin Restani to dominate the shorter Gaels with a 62-49 rebounding edge. The Dons also sizzled with a 53 per cent shooting effort in the first half while the Gaels managed only 20.5 per cent.

Burks topped USF with 19 points and 13 rebounds. Nate Carroll had 20 points for St. Mary's.

In other games, San Diego State defeated U.S. International 83-68, Portland State edged Gonzaga 79-72 and Seattle Pacific overcame Chapman 8769.

Dodgers Sign Grabarkewitz, Bill Buckner

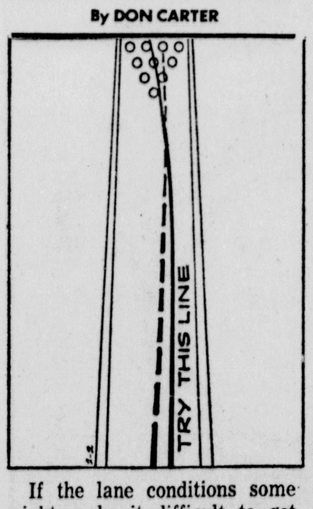
LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Bill Buckner and Bill Grabarkewitz, two of the younger members of the Los Angeles Dodgers, reached agreement with the club on their 1972 contracts Monday, bringing to 28 the number of players signed.

Buckner batted .277 last season and made the National League's all-rookie team. He alternated between first base and the outfield but may see more playing time at first base, alternating with Wes Parker, the club said.

Grabarkewitz suffered a shoulder injury last year and was sidelined for most of the season. But he underwent surgery during the winter and reported the shoulder was no longer bothering him. He is a candidate for three infield positions, excluding first base.

BOWLING TIPS

By DON CARTER



If the lane conditions some night make it difficult to get your ball to hook, don't sulk. Register your complaint after the league session, perhaps, but in the meantime try to solve the problem. Move your starting position several boards to the right — maybe as many as 5 or 10 boards — and reduce your speed. Chances are, you'll get enough hook. On spare shots, take into consideration that you will have to change your angle again.

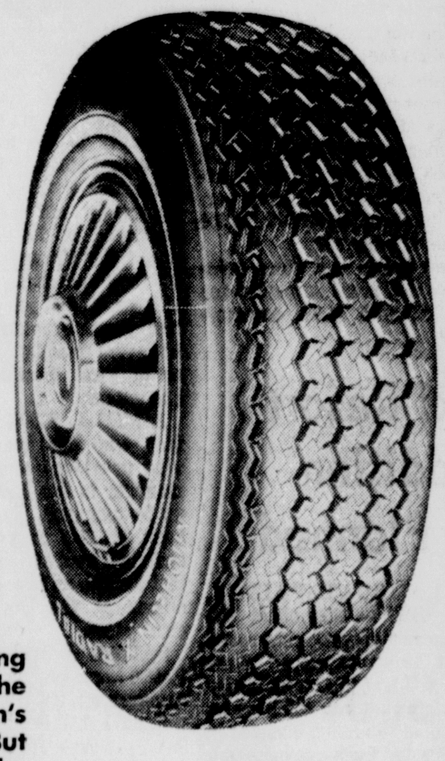
STEEL RADIAL TIRES

If You Have Question About RADIAL TIRES

YOU HAD BEST ASK THE EXPERTS AT CAIN'S TIRES



The head of the Goodyear past tire program just made the amazing announcement that the RADIAL TIRE is without a doubt the tire of the future. That's great news, I'm glad they finally found out what Cain's has known for 7 years and Michelin has known for 23 years. — But better late than never. The Point is The Radial tire is the tire of the future, because Michelin invented it, Michelin discovered how to put steel in it for super long wear, Michelin made the first radial tire that would work on the softer suspended American car. Goodyear is now making this claim, but they're 7 years late, Michelin put the American Car Radial on the market in 1966.

IT'S GREAT WHEN YOUR COMPETITORS ADMIT YOU HAVE THE BEST PRODUCT

Here are a few reasons why they now admit what we've known all along.

HOW ABOUT THE "X"

Many advantages accrue from this Radial Construction. Because of the sidewall flexibility and the wide, rigid steel reinforced tread, the "X" tread always stays flat on the pavement. No scrubbing, squirming, highspeed distortion, or tread lifting. The tread stays on the ground where it belongs for better skid resistance, steering control, braking power and over-all handling, and it stays there at all speeds — Even up to 115 MPH! But these important safety features are only a part of the story.

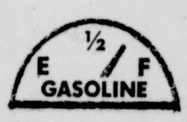
LONG LASTING WEAR

Michelin conservatively guarantees a minimum tread life of 40,000 miles — guaranteed in writing on any car, regardless of driving conditions. The steel belt stabilizes the tread on the pavements, greatly reducing tire wear, and along with lower running temperatures, results in greatly expanded tread life. Many Michelin tires run for 50,000 and 60,000 miles!

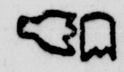
A LOWER GAS BILL



It's hard to believe, but the Michelin "X" will reduce your gasoline consumption by as much as 10% to 15%. The Radial construction reduces your car's rolling resistance, allowing the car to move easier — so your engine needs less gas to move the vehicle down the road.

EVEN SAFER ON THE BOTTLE

Yes, even when the "X" hits the bottle (or anything else in the road) you're a great deal safer. Chances are that steel shield will never be penetrated, and you can say goodby to flats forever.



And We've Got Them!

EVEN THE HARD TO GET CAD & LINCOLN SIZES. WE'VE GOT THE NEW 2X & XAS DESIGNS. THE TOUGH TO GET 13" 14" 15" SIZES WE HAVE THEM IN QUANTITY AND ON SALE!!!

FACTS: On Other Radial Tires

1. The Steel ones by Goodrich, Bridgestone, & Toya are very good & doing the job.
2. The Firestone steel Tires, isn't radial & I feel is trying to take advantage of steel's popularity without matching its quality.
3. Goodyear's Radial is NOT STEEL Belted either. You're paying the same price as steel, but you're not going to get the mileage you get on steel.

PLEASE: Think of This!

You have yourself and your family in a couple of Tons of steel, being pushed by several hundred horsepower, hurtling at 80 M.P.H. All of this on a few inches of tire. DON'T YOU THINK THOSE FEW INCHES SHOULD BE THE BEST????

January Building Sluggish

New construction during January was somewhat sluggish, according to figures of the Marin County Chamber of Commerce and Visitors Bureau, and at $3,457,839 was only 3.6 per cent ahead of the first month of 1971.

It was also 21.1 per cent behind new construction in December.

Novato led all communities with $866,000 in residential and miscellaneous building permits — and nothing in commercial construction. San Rafael had a total of $775,635, with only $92,950 of this commercial.

Construction permits on the Tiburon peninsula at $440,700 were also marked by a low $2,450 in commercial projects, as was Mill Valley's $312,316, with $2,700 commercial. Sausalito had $216,325, with only $3,350 commercial; Larkspur $116,300, with $4,500 commercial; Kentfield and Greenbrae slightly higher at $166,780, with $31,000 commercial.

Ross checked out $94,400 in permits with $70,000 of this commercial; and $8,000 of Corte Madera's $13,000 was commercial. San Anselmo, with $66,058, did $20,000 in commercial construction; Fairfax permits totaled $27,500, with $5,000 of this commercial.

West Marin and other unincorporated areas accounted for $362,825, with $1,950 commercial.

Ski Resort Addition Is Planned

STEAMBOAT SPRINGS, Colo. (BW) — Steamboat Village, a fast-growing year-round resort being developed three miles south of this small Rocky Mountain ski town, will have an additional $8 million invested in it this year by its owner, Dallas-based LTV Aerospace Corp., it has been reported.

LTVAC, which owns some 1,500 acres at the base of two-mile high Mount Werner's slopes, has put about $16 million into Steamboat Village in little more than two years, according to Forbes Mann, president and chief executive officer.

Mann spoke here at the dedication of the new $5.5 million, 80 room Steamboat Village Inn and Plaza, recently completed by LTV Recreation Development Inc.

New Wearing Apparel Store Will Open Soon In San Rafael

A new wearing apparel store, The Clothes Line, is expected to open about April 1 at 121 Jacoby Street, San Rafael, next to Graham's Lumber and Hardware Co.

The store, in fact, is a Graham venture and will be operated by Mrs. John Graham and her daughter Linda. They will occupy 2,700 square feet here and will sell men's and women's levis and related items. There may be an expansion into other lines later.

Talbot

King

THERE HAS BEEN a removal of the law office of Myers, Praetzel and Garety from the Bank of Marin Building to 1615 Fifth Avenue, San Rafael.

A CHANGE at the San Rafael office of Redwood Bank has taken vice president Raymond E. Talbot from his post of manager to the bank's newly organized business banking division. This division, by the way, apparently will now be headquartered at 300 Montgomery Street, San Francisco, insteadof 435 California Street. A resident of Ross, Talbot joined the bank last year. Previously he had been vice president and manager of First Western Bank in Sacramento.

JAMES A. KING of San Rafael, who has been assistant vice president and assistant manager in San Rafael, moves up to manager. He joined the bank in 1969 to supervise installment loan activities. Before that he was an installment loan officer at Crocker Bank for eight years.

DANIEL J. LYNCH of San Rafael has been appointed sales manager for REA Express and will have his headquarters in San Francisco. He was formerly a sales representative for Republic Carloading in Oakland. Before that he worked as an operation supervisor for California Motor Express and as a traffic supervisor for Lachman Bros. in San Francisco.

MRS. MARCIA PETTIJOHN, manager in San Rafael for Manpower, Inc., reports that her firm, which specializes in temporary help and office services, foresees a slight decrease in unemployment for 1972.

Other Manpower predictions are that there will be an increasing need for people working in the service field; that veterans will continue to have difficulty in getting jobs — even though more companies will begin to give them priority; that qualified office workers will become more difficult to obtain and so more companies will begin training programs of their own. Turnover among office workers will continue at a high level.

Also predicted: Increase of the minimum wage to $1.80; wage and salary controls will continue for at least six months; and not many companies will adopt the four-day week.

A NEW PUBLICATION, "1972 Guidebook to California Taxes," has been published by Commerce Clearing House, which has its western regional headquarters at Northgate. The book is designed to serve as a quick reference on this state's taxes, provide assistance in preparing income tax returns and handling other state tax problems. Inheritance and gift taxes, sales and property taxes are discussed. It reflects new rulings, court decisions and State Board of Equalization rulings and 1971 legislative amendments.

American Express Dividend Declared

SAN FRANCISCO (BW) — Directors of American Express Investment Fund have declared a first quarter dividend from investment income of 8 cents per share, payable March 3 to shareholders of record Feb. 28.

The dividend is equal to the first quarter payment a year ago and is the 160th consecutive dividend paid by the fund since 1932.

Getting Most Of Old Cars

LIEGE, Belgium (UPI) — Robert George deep freezes automobiles an then smashes them to inch-size bits that can be easily separated into steel, non-ferrous and non-metallic piles.

George's plant on a small island in the Meuse River, was confidently named the "International Center for High Quality Scrap" —INCH—and steelmakers agree it produces some of the best scrap they can get.

It has attracted attention all over the world and plants applying the Inch patent are being built or planned in Germany and France.

"My method yields 99 per cent pure ferrous material, while processes for shredding used cars up to now have left up to 15 per cent non-ferrous substances in the scrap," George said in an interview.

"At present we can handle one auto every 45 seconds, but we may do better in the future. It is only a question of increasing cooling and smashing capacities."

George, a stocky man of 39, admits the idea of using cooling techniques to make shredding of scrap easier was just a brainwave, rather than the fruit of long searching.

"The process might very well never have been invented if some old files had not been shifted in our office about two years ago," he said.

The move turned up some documentation collected at an air-cooling show in 1965 and returned the thought to George's mind that if metals are cooled enough a hammer blow makes them splinter like glass.

This time he did not shelve the idea, but had the company finance a development budget which, two years later, led to completing of the Inch process.

The plant consists of a 100-foot long tunnel, fitted with cooled nitrogen gas blowers and liquid nitrogen baths.

The bales—two cubIc feet cubes into which used cars are compressed—move into the tunnel on a conveyor belt and are cooled to 184 degrees below zero by the time they reach the hammers.

A special hammer smashes the cubes into tiny fragments which are then carried off by conveyor belts.

Final sorting out is done by electromagnets picking out iron and vacuum pumps sucking up non-metallics, leaving only copper and non-ferrous material to be fed to the corresponding storage dump.

The enormous saving of power needed for the shredding is not the only advantage of the process, experts said.

It also eliminates the manpower needed for stripping and burning of upholstery and plastics out of carcasses as weil as the danger of explosion of lingering petrol fumes.

It yields high density scrap, ideal for continuous feeding into blast furnaces without addition of heavier scrap.

It also yields neatly sorted non-ferrous substances which hitherto were lost as impurities in the steel making process.

THE SWITCH

Manual switches in the foreground sometimes are hit to override computer controls as freight cars roll down man-made humps and couple automatically to form complete trains. From this Burlington Northern tower at Pasco, Wash., operations that involve an average of 2,800 freight cars a day on the 91-track yard are monitored.

A Question Arises On General Foods

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I hold shares of General Foods purchased at somewhat higher levels than those prevailing. What is your opinion of its future? — H.M. What are the Federal Trade Commission's charges and how will they affect General Foods? — W.N.

A. NYSE-listed General Foods is currently trading near its 12-year low levels as a result of disappointicg 13- and 39-week results plus the FTC charges against GF and the other three largest breakfast cereal makers.

Despite significantly higher volume in the 39-week period, GF's profit margins were not maintained and earnings per share fell 2.9 per cent to $1.68. In the 13-week January period, General Foods reported a net loss of $18.8 million incurred from a write-off of certain unprofitable operations — principally involving the firm's food-away-from-home subsidiaries. At this rate, GF may be heading toward its first year, in 19, of declining earnings.

As to the FTC charges, the commission alleges that the four largest cereal makers, Kellogg, General Foods, General Mills and Quaker Oats, have illegally established and maintained a noncompetitive market structure and shared monopoly power fOr over 30 years through: the proliferation of brands and trademark promotion, artificial differentiation of products, unfair methods of competition in advertising and product promotion, restrictive retail shelf space control programs and acquisition of competitors.

At the same time, the commission introduced a number of relief measures which could be ordered in the future. Although this action does add an element of uncertainty to shares, it is in the preliminary stages and a solution to this matter may well be some years down the road.

In the meantime, therefore, the overriding consideration for GF is earning power which should resume in 1973, aided by new product introduction and diversification into more rapidly growing and potentially more profitable areas. Hold for recovery gains.

Market High At Opening, Then Mixed

NEW YORK (UPI) —The stock market turned mixed after a slightly higher opening today. Lrading was fairly active.

Of the 1,585 issues crossing the tape, 723 advanced and 522 declined. The two-hour volume aggregated more than 7,480,000 shares.

Prices were slightly higher in fairly active trading on the American Stock Exchange. Circle K. was the most active issue on the Amex, up 3-4 at 27 1-2 on 120,200 shares. Viewlex was second, up 1-8 at 11 1-2 on 47,000 shares. United Foods followed, up 3-8 at 5 3-4 on 36,200 shares.

Curtiss-Wright, delayed on the New York Stock Exchange, opened at 25 1-4 off 7-8. It later fell 1 5-8 on top of a loss last Friday of 4 7-8.

Occidental Petroleum fell 1 1-8 on news the company suspended its common dividend and reported a $48 million loss in 1971, plus a $19 million special charge, compared with a $175.2 million profit in 1970.

Steels, motors and chemicals were mixed narrowly.

Rails, airlines and aircrafts pointed mostly higher. Lockheed gained a point in the aircrafts after announcing it has developed a "superbattery" for cars that produces 10 to 100 times the electricity of the common battery.

IBM jumped 4 3-4 in the electronics and computers. Burroughs rose 2 1-4 and Honeywell 1 1-4. Motorola dropped a point.
